

From Ollamaliztli to Pelota mixteca and beyond : the role of globalization in the historical development of an indigenous Mexican ballgame

Berger, M.E.

Citation

Berger, M. E. (2016, May 26). From Ollamaliztli to Pelota mixteca and beyond: the role of globalization in the historical development of an indigenous Mexican ballgame. Retrieved from https://hdl.handle.net/1887/39643

Version: Not Applicable (or Unknown)

License: License agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the

Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: https://hdl.handle.net/1887/39643

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle http://hdl.handle.net/1887/39643 holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation

Author: Berger, Martin Eduard

Title: From Ollamaliztli to Pelota Mixteca and beyond: the role of globalization in the historical development of an indigenous Mexican ballgame

Issue Date: 2016-05-26

Figures

Fig. 1 – Glove for pelota mixteca de hule, Collection of National Museum of World Cultures (RV-6152-1)

Fig. 2 – Glove for pelota mixteca de hule as it is worn. Photograph copyright of Leopoldo Peña, used with permission

Fig. 3 – Ball used for pelota mixteca de hule, Collection of National Museum of World Cultures (RV-5635-1). The ball bears the name Sinaloa, because it was made for 'Fiesta Cultural de Sinaloa'.

Fig. 4 – A player of pelota mixteca de forro. Photograph by Samuel Padilla (http://www.culturaspopulareseindigenas.gob.mx/cp/images/stories/juegos/mixteca_forro.jpg)

Fig. 5 – A player of pelota mixteca de esponja. Photograph by Samuel Padilla (http://www.culturaspopulareseindigenas.gob.mx/cp/images/stories/juegos/pelota_mixteca2.jpg)

Fig. 6 – The pasajuego del Tecnológico in the city of Oaxaca. Photograph by the author

Fig. 7 – Outline of a pelota mixteca court or pasajuego, and the positions of the players

Fig. 8 – A chacero, referee, at a pelota mixteca match in Oaxaca. Photograph by the author

Fig. 9 – A game of pelota mixteca at the pasajuego in Hansen Dam Recreation Center and Park. In the background, people are taking a stroll on the dam, probably oblivious of the game that is being played. Photograph copyright of Leopoldo Peña, used with permission

Fig. 10 – A banner made for the Torneo Internacional de Pelota Mixteca in 2012.

Fig. 11 – A poster announcing a pelota mixteca tournament in Nochtixtlán in 2011

Fig. 12 – Daniel Pacheco (third from left) in a line-up before a game of pelota mixteca in Ejutla in 1939. Photograph from Montiel (1987)

Fig. 13 - Leobardo Pacheco showing the first rudimentary glove made by his grandfather

Fig. 14 – A pelota mixteca de hule glove from 1915, made by Daniel Pacheco

Fig. 15 - Leobardo Pacheco showing an overview of the evolution of gloves since 1910

Fig. 16 - Some examples of decorations on a Pelota Mixteca de Hule glove. The glove on the right shows the characteristic 'grecas prehispánicas' in white and blue.

Fig. 17 – Hule balls made in Mexico City with non-traditional designs (see https://www.facebook.com/david.victoriacastellanos/photos for more examples)

Fig. 18 – Ball with a decoration of Mickey Mouse. Photograph copyright of Leopoldo Peña, used with permission

Fig. 19 - A custom-designed glove, with an artistic depiction of the 'flechador del Sol'

Fig. 20 – Image from Bolaños Cacho (1947) showing three different types of courts. The courts with walls are no longer in use and have disappeared.

Fig. 21 - Depiction from a Franco-Flemish book of hours from around 1300 showing the jeu de paume. From Gillmeister (1997: fig. 10).

Fig. 22 – Diego Durán's illustration of the Mesoamerican ballgame. From http://www.mexicolore.co.uk/images-6/621_11_2.jpg

Fig. 23 –The use of a ball court in the depiction of a toponym, Codex Nuttall/Tonindeye 80r.

Fig. 24 - Lord 8 Deer and Lord 4 Jaguar meeting in a ball court, Codex Nuttall/Tonindeye 80r.

Fig. 25 - An overview of the Complex A of Dainzú. In front, under the roof, are the slabs, in the back Cerro Dainzú. Photo by the author.

 $Fig.\ 26-A\ typical\ Dainz\'u\ "ball\ player".\ Taken\ from\ Bernal\ and\ Seuffert\ (1979:\ fig.\ 30)$

Fig. 27 – A Dainzú figure falling backwards. Taken from Bernal and Seuffert (1979: fig. 3)

Fig. 28-A Dainzú figure kneeling, another standard posture among the figures. Taken from Bernal and Seuffert (1979:fig. 12)

Fig. 29 - Stone 1 of Complex A. Taken from Bernal and Seuffert (1979: fig. 2)

Fig. 30 - Stone 5 (or 'wall of sacrifice') from Cerro Dainzú. Taken from Bernal and Seuffert (1979:fig. 45).

Fig. 31 - Monument 27 of El Baúl. Taken from http://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sumer anunnaki/godsnewmillemnium/images/el_baul.jpg

Fig. 32 – Some examples of ceramic figurines from Lubaantún. From Joyce (1933: fig. 19,20)

Fig. 33 – Classic Maya Vase. Taken from the Kerr MayaVase database, http://research.mayavase.com/kerrmaya_hires.php?vase=500

Fig. 34 – Early Classic Maya Vase

Fig. 35 – The only depiction of a helmet similar to those from Dainzú found at Monte Alban. Taken from Bernal and Seuffert (1979:fig. 51).

Fig. 36 - A figure with a 'jaguar-helmet' kneeling or falling forward. Taken from Bernal and Seuffert (1979:fig. 27).

Fig. 37 - D-86 from Complex B, Dainzú. Taken from Bernal and Oliveros (1988: foto 6)

Fig. 38 – Employees of the Mexican consulate in Fresno visit the International Tournament in 2012. A line forms when they hand out educational material.

Fig. 39 – A pelota mixteca demonstration organized on Mexico City's Zócalo

Fig. 40 – The pasajuego de Balbuena in 2008

Fig. 41 – The former site of the pasajuego de Balbuena, during construction work in 2011

oaxaca

¿ SABIAS QUE?

LOS MIXTECAS CONTABAN

¿ Sabias que ? Los mixtecas contaban con un juego parecido al tenis.

El juego de pelota mixteca es una tradición que aún se mantier viva entre los oaxaqueños que viven tanto en el estado com fuera de él. Se practica por ejemplo en México, D.F., Fuebl Orizaba, Cuernavaca y Fresno en el estado de California en vecino país del norte.

Comentario: Es importante que nuestros jóvenes practiquen este tipo de deportes que además de mantenerios sanos física y mentalmente, forman parte importante de nuestra cultura, la cual no debemos de permitir que desaparezca. EL JUEGO DE PELOTA MIXTECO ERA PARECIDO AL TENIS.

oaxaca

Fig. 42 – The pamphlet Sabías que los Mixtecas contaban con un juego parecido al tenis?

Fig. 43 – A shirt created by the Arellanes quinta

Fig. 44 – The logo created for the Arrellanes quinta, that is now more widely used in the promotion of pelota mixteca.

Fig. 45 – The line that formed in Verona when spectators were invited to try their hand at pelota mixteca

Fig. 46 – The line-up before the international match Italy – Mexico, that was played following the rules of pantalera