ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Let me make a humble attempt to express my gratitude to the many people without whose help and support this dissertation would not have been possible.

The research for this PhD study was carried out in the framework of the ERC Starting Grant Project 'By the Rivers of Babylon: New Perspectives on Second Temple Judaism from Cuneiform Texts,' under the supervision of Caroline Waerzeggers. It is she who deserves my first and foremost gratitude. I am most grateful for the advice and moral support I received from her over the years, and for always encouraging me to think outside the box. As my teacher and mentor from day one, she has left a deep impression on me as a scholar and person. It has been a real pleasure to have studied and worked with her. I also want to thank my promotor Wilfred van Soldt for his support and trust.

In the UK, I would like to thank: Karen Radner for her infectious spirit and enthusiasms, which were instrumental in boosting the early stages of my research, and express my gratitude for the trust she has placed in me; my colleagues Silvie Zamazalová and Mikko Luukko for making my PhD experience there less of a lonely one; and Jonathan Stökl, who proved not only to be an uplifting project colleague but also a perfectly adequate flatmate.

In Leiden, I am grateful to my project colleagues Tero Alstola, Jason Silverman and Rieneke Sonneveld for creating the stimulating, constructive and heartening environment in which I was able to finish this thesis. My PhD experience would have been infinitely less rewarding without you. Many thanks for all the feedback and help you provided on a daily basis.

I express my thanks to other peers, friends, colleagues and scholars from whom I received support, suggestions, and invaluable feedback at various occasions: Andrew Deloucas, Jaap Geraerts, Andrea Giolai, Bram Jagersma, Barbora Jancikova, Theo Krispijn, Julia Krul, Amélie Kuhrt, Tracy Lemos, Juval Levavi, Guido van Meersbergen, Daniel Soliman, and Joyce de Thouars. Of course, Mark Heerink, for his advice in all matters PhD, and for our mini-wif-waf tournaments. Last, but not least, my two friends and “paranimfen” Joris and Sander.

I also want to thank my family – Pap, Mam, Jo, Ev, Kik – who never lost faith in me and whose support helped through the toughest moments of writing a dissertation. And especially Melanie for the debt that I owe her for the love and patience she showed me during the final phase of the PhD and its aftermath; it is one I will gladly repay in the years to come.
