Ballads with the shelf-mark 'Ry' are from the National Library of Scotland, <http://www.nls.uk/broadsides>.

Ballads with shelf-marks containing Pepys, Roxburghe, or Euing are from the published broadside ballad collections mentioned above.

The broadside ballads from the collections at the British Library (not including the Roxburghe collection), Duke University Library, Harvard College Library, Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery, Magdalene College Cambridge, and Manchester library have been accessed through the Early English Books Online website at <http://eebo.chadwyck.com>.

The broadside ballads are listed in alphabetical order of the title. If no author is named after the title, the ballad is anonymous. Many ballad titles start with the phrase 'An excellent ballad on' or variations on this. These ballads have been entered into the bibliography under the second part of the title. However, ballad titles beginning with 'A New Ballad' are under 'n'. In some cases, the date of publication is included.

Shelfmarks of all the issues consulted are mentioned, as well as the corresponding Wing or STC numbers if available. The letters in the Wing numbers may be different for different issues of ballads since they may have slightly different titles (e.g. they may or may not start with the phrase 'An Excellent Ballad').
