Cover Page

The handle http://hdl.handle.net/1887/33066 holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation

Author: Millman, N.J.
Title: Beyond the doors of the synagogue : self-perceptions of Jewish identity in a modern Canadian society
Issue Date: 2015-05-26

Acknowledgments

I would like to thank and acknowledge the support and guidance of my supervisors Prof.dr. A.F. de Jong and Dr. E.M. de Boer for helping to make this dissertation a reality. Your time and patience was greatly appreciated and this thesis would not have been the same without your encouragement. A special thank you to Prof.dr. M.B. ter Borg for beginning this project with me and guiding my progress and transition from master's student to PhD candidate. Thank you as well to the members of the reading committee, I am grateful for your effort in assessing this dissertation.

This project could not have been completed without the tireless and unwavering support of my parents, family, and friends. Thank you for believing in this project and helping to ensure its success.

The Jewish community of the greater Vancouver area was integral in helping with this project and to that end I thank each and every one of you who completed a survey, sat for an interview or assisted with the project in any way.

Curriculum vitae

Noah J. Millman (1983) is originally from Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada where he obtained his BA (Psychology) from the University of British Columbia. In 2007, he moved to the Netherlands where he completed his first Master's (MA – World Religions / Psychology of Religion) and continued on to a second Master's (MSc – Social & Organizational Psychology) and current PhD (Psychology of Religion) at the Universiteit Leiden.

Noah currently works at the Universiteit Leiden – Campus Den Haag as an instructor for the Bachelor International Studies (BAIS) BA program and is also an instructor and coordinator at the Universiteit van Amsterdam for the Politics, Psychology, Law & Economics (PPLE) BSc program.