Acknowledgements

Most of the chapters in this book have been published as articles in journals or edited volumes. They are republished here, sometimes slightly modified; major changes will be accounted for in the Contexts preceding each chapter. I want to thank the various publishers for their kind permission to reprint them here.

1. ‘Traffic Policy and Circulation in Roman Cities’, was originally published in Acta Classica 54 (2011) 149-171.
2. ‘Gates, Suburbs and Traffic in the Roman Empire’, was published in BABesch 83 (2008) 133-147. I am grateful to the late Dr Arie van Heck for his help and for his translation of the Italian sources.
3. ‘Greek and Roman Ideas about Healthy Drinking-water in Theory and Practice’ is reprinted here from Eä Journal of Medical Humanities & Social Studies of Science and Technology/Revista de Humanidades Médicas & Estudios Sociales de la Ciencia y la Tecnología 5 (Junio 2014) 1: 1-30.
4. ‘Opinions concerning Faeces and Urine in the Graeco-Roman World’ is under review for an international journal. I am grateful to Marilyn Hedges MA (Universiteit Leiden) for correcting the English and to Dr Cisca Hoogendijk (Universiteit Leiden) for her help with the papyrological sources.
5. ‘A “Healthy Mistake”: The Excrement Problem from Ancient Greece to Nineteenth Century Holland’ is published in A. Karenberg, D. Groß and M. Schmidt (eds), Forschungen zur Medizingeschichte. Beiträge des ‘Rheinischen Kreises der Medizinhistoriker’. Kassel 2013, 103-117 [Schriften des Rheinischen Kreises der Medizinhistoriker 3].

A Dutch version of this article ‘Een heilzame vergissing: Het urine- en fecaliënprobleem van Grieken tot Gouwenaars', appeared in Studium 5 (2012) 1: 34–52. I am grateful to Prof. Eddy Houwaart and the staff members of the MA course Medical History vU University Amsterdam/Leiden University for their role in the publication of the latter version.

In the present chapter the illustrations from the Dutch article have been added again.

6. 'A Good Place to Be: Meteorological and Medical Conditions in Ancient Cities' is released for publication online ahead of a forthcoming issue of Mnemosyne (January 2015). It is reprinted here with the kind permission of Koninklijke Brill NV. I would like to thank Dr Paul Scade (İstanbul Şehir Üniversitesi) for his help to correct the English.

The page numbers refer to the numbers of the last electronic edition.

I thank my supervisors Prof. Manfred Horstmanshoff, Prof. Eric Moormann and Dr Marlein van Raalte for their advice and encouragement, and Professor Horstmanshoff in particular for suggesting this field of study to me and for his supervision for many years.

I also want to express my profound gratitude to Dr Hans Haak and Lisette Demmers MA for their support throughout the years, and to the staff of the Leiden University Centre for the Arts in Society (LUCAS): Dr Korrie Korevaart, Lia ten Brink and Viola Stoop MA for their friendly and efficient help in many fields. I am grateful both to LUCAS and to the Leiden University Fund (LUF) for financial support, and to Leiden University, including Leiden University Library, for its institutional support.

For assistance with translation, I would like to thank Jane van Klaveren for her efficient and sensitive work.

This book would not have been published without the fruitful cooperation with Evelyn de Regt MA, publisher of Primavera Pers, Leiden.

Aids to the Reader

The abbreviations used in the Index Locorum are those of the following dictionaries and bibliographies:

Greek authors and their works:

Liddell, H.G., Scott, R. & Jones, H.S. (LSJ). 1996. A Greek-English Lexicon. Oxford.

E.g. Ar. Lys. 88 → Aristophanes, Lysistrata 88.

If abbreviations are lacking, I have written the author and/or title in full:

E.g. Eusebius, Commentarius in Isaiam 1.99.

I have added the abbreviation Med. Coll. referring to Oribasius' Collectiones Medicinae. This abbreviation is lacking in LSJ.

E.g. Ruf. apud Orib. Med. Coll. 5.3.12-16.

Latin authors and their works:

Glare, P.G.W. 1982. Oxford Latin Dictionary. Oxford.

E.g. Pl. Cur. 123 → Plautus, Curculio 123.

Hippocratic Corpus:

<http://cmg.bbaw.de/online-publikationen/hippokrates-und-galenbibliographie-fichtner>

Between brackets, the pages of the Loeb editions are mentioned, followed by a L. quotation, referring to the edition of Littré, É. 1961-1982. Oeuvres complètes d'Hippocrate etc. Amsterdam.

E.g. Hipp. Aph. 3.22 (130 Jones = 4.496 L.) → Hippocratic Corpus, Aphorismi 3.22 (p. 130 of the Loeb series edited by W.H.S. Jones = vol. 4, p. 496 of the edition of É. Littré).

Galen and Galenic Corpus:

Singer, P.N. (ed.). 2014. Psychological Writings: Avoiding Distress, Character Traits,

The Diagnosis and Treatment of the Affections and Errors Peculiar to Each Person's Soul, The Capacities of the Soul Depend on the Mixtures of the Body. Cambridge.
Between brackets, the pages of the Kühn edition (K.) are mentioned, referring to the edition of Kühn, C.G. 1821-1833. Claudii Galeni Opera omnia. Hildesheim.

E.g. Gal. Nat. Fac. 1.6 (2.14 K.) → Galen, De Naturalibus Facultatibus 1.6 (vol. 2, p. 14 of the edition of C.G. Kühn).

I have harmonised, corrected and completed the references in the chapters in this volume in accordance with these rules.

In this volume, the page numbers of the original publications are mentioned in bold, between square bold brackets.
