19		Dublin, Trinity College H.2.16/1318, 234b (s. xiv–xv) (= London, British Library, Egerton 88, 71rb (1564))		Calder 1917: 229–31

Table 2: List of texts with examples of interpretations of Greek and Latin letter-names, and some alphabet poemsA. Greek and Latin alphabet lists

(The numbers in the lefthand column refer to the columns in Table 16, which lists the glosses)

B. Poems on the alphabets

(The text of no. 1 is given in Table 14 (a), the texts of nos. 2 - 4 in Tables 17 (a) – (c))

No.	Author	Title or manuscript reference	References
1 ⁵	Unknown Irishman	Poem on the Hebrew alphabet, Murbach, Gothanus mbr. 1,17, 3v–4r (s. ix); Vatican City, BAV, Cod. Regin. 339, 49rv (s. x).	Thiel 1973: 90–9 Traube 1896: III, 698–9
2 ⁶	Ausonius (310–395)	De litteris monosyllabis graecis ac latinis	Di Giovine 1996: 81-2, 196-223
3 ⁷	Anonymous Irishman (ca. 630)	Versus de nominibus litterarum (Versus cuiusdam Scotti de alphabeto)	Glorie 1968: 728; Wright and Halliwell 1841–3: I, 164–5
4	As no. 1 above	Poem on the Greek alphabet, Murbach, Gothanus mbr. 1,17, 3v–4r (s. ix); Vatican City, BAV, Cod. Regin. 339, 49rv (s. x).	Traube 1896: III: 699–700

C. Virgilius Maro Grammaticus's Latin alphabet names

(The names and glosses are given in Table 18)

No.	Author	Title or manuscript reference	References
1	Virgilius Maro Grammaticus (? s. vii ^{med})	Virgilius's "Latin" Metrofia , in his Epitomae	Tardi, Stangl
2		Dublin, Trinity College H.2.16/1318, 234b (s. xiv/xv) = London, British Library, Egerton 88, 71va (1564)	Calder 1917: 231

Table 3: List of texts giving ogam-names with kennings and glossesA. Manuscripts containing kennings and glosses on ogam-names

The texts of the kennings and glosses on ogam-names cited in this thesis are based on an edition of the kennings presented by McManus (1988). His sources were manuscripts containing either complete texts or fragments of the tracts known as In lebor ogaim [The Book of Ogams] and the Auraicept na nÉces [Students' Primer]. An extended list and discussion of the relationship between these manuscripts is provided by Ahlqvist (1982: 22–7). McManus concentrated on the following four manuscripts:

Library	Number	Common title	Abbreviation	Date
Royal Irish Academy	23P12/536	Book of Ballymote	BB	1391
Trinity College, Dublin	H 2.16/1318	Yellow Book of Lecan	YBL	s. xiv/xv
Trinity College, Dublin	H.3.18		H 3.18	s. xvi
National Library of Ireland	G53		G53	s. xvii

B. Passages containing ogam-names and their kennings and glosses listed in Tables 20, 21 23 and 24

Three series of kennings relating to ogam-names were devised by three authors, who, according to the Auraicept na nÉces, were: Morann mac Moín (series A), Mac ind Óc (series B), Cú Chulainn (series C). Series A and B kennings, with glosses, are either incorporated in the relevant tract or listed at the end of the text. Series C versions are only found as lists at the end of a text. In Table 20, each list is given in two columns, with letter equivalents or values to the left, kennings to the right and glosses below. The form and locations are indicated in the table below. The sigla used here to identify the kennings and glosses are as used by McManus (1988), except that his notation of A¹, A², etc., appears as A1, A2, etc.. Also referred to in the present thesis, in Tables 21, 23, and 24, are lists of ogam-names given in the BB manuscript of In lebor ogaim, which were cited by Meroney (1949) but not by McManus (1988). The end-lists in this case are written in line across the folio, above ogam signaries, and are reproduced by Calder at the end of his edition in facsimile.

⁹ For this text Calder also used London, British Library, Egerton 88 (1564), fol. 71v–72r..

Table 4: List of manuscripts giving rune-names

(Dating is largely according to Derolez, 1954 = DRM)

Manuscripts	DRM ref.	Notes and references
1 (a) English fuborcs with rune-names, without isruna tract (see Table 27 (a))¹⁰
Vienna, Österreichische Nationalbibliothek, 795, 20r (s. viii ^{ex} /ix ⁱⁿ)	52–63	Bischoff (1966–81: II, 115–20) dates manuscript to s. viii ⁱⁿ but the text on fol. 20r is (?) s. x.
London, British Library, Cotton Domitian A. ix, 10r/11v (s. xi)	3–16
Brussels, Koninklijke Bibliotheek, 9311–9319, 3v (s. xi)	63–73
*London, British Library, Cotton Galba A. ii (? s. xi/xii)	34–8; 45–52	Manuscript destroyed by fire in 1865, after being damaged in the Cotton Library fire in 1731. Contents are only known from copies in Hickes's Thesaurus (1705: I, 136).
Oxford, St John's College 17, 5v (s. xi ^{ex} /xii ⁱⁿ)	26–34; 38–45	Hickes (Thesaurus , 1705: III, 4) refers to this MS as C.27. The fuborc order is unusual.
1 (b) English fuborcs with rune-names plus isruna tract (see Table 27 (b))
St Gall, Stiftsbibliothek, 270, 52 (s. ix)	90–4
Brussels, Koninklijke Bibliotheek, 9565–9566, 8r (s. ix ^{ex})	95–102
Vatican City, BAV, Codex Urbin. lat. 290, 71v (s. x ^{ex} /xi)	106–13
Trier, Priesterseminar, R.III. 13, 115v (s. xi/xii)	102–6
2. Scandinavian 16-rune fubarks with rune-names (see Tables 28 (a) and (b))¹¹
Leiden, Universiteitsbibliotheek, Codex Vossianus lat. Q. 83, 24v (s. ix ⁱⁿ /x)	lviii (fn.)	Two lists. Musset 1965: 111.
*London, British Library, Cotton Galba A. ii (? s. xi/xii)	lviii (fn.)	Copy only; see note above. Musset 1965: 111.
Oxford, St John's College 17, 5v (s. xi ^{ex} /xii ⁱⁿ)	lviii (fn.)	Two lists. Musset 1965: 111.
Dublin, Royal Irish Academy 23P12/536 (= BB), 314 (1391)	lviii (fn.)	Calder 1917: 311–3 (labelled "gallogam"). Musset 1965: 111.
3 (a) Runic alphabets with names not associated with the De inventione text (see Table 29 (a))¹²
Berne, Burgerbibliothek, 207, 264v (s. viii/ix)	174–92
Vienna, Österreichische Nationalbibliotek, 751, 39v (s. ix ⁱⁿ)	197–206
Munich, Bayerische Staatsbibliothek, Clm. 19410, 58 (s. ix)	206–12
New York, Corning Glass Center, Phillipps 3715, 64r (s. ix (xii))	219–37
Vatican City, BAV, Codex Regin. lat. 338, 92v (s. x ^{ex})	237–51	Same as Leiden, Universiteitsbibliotheek, Scaligerianus 61, 70v (s. xvi)
Munich, Bayerische Staatsbibliothek, Clm. 14436, 1r (s. xi ⁱⁿ .)	251–263	Two lists
3 (b) Runic alphabets with names associated with the De inventione text (see Tables 29 (b))¹³
See list in footnote 14 (s. viii–xiii)	279–378

¹⁰ Manuscripts with fuborcs but no rune-names are: Salzburg, Stift St Peter, a. IX 32 (s. x/xi); St Gall, Stiftsbibliothek, 878 (s. ix^{med}); and Ghent, Universiteitsbibliotheek, 306 (s. x).¹¹ This is by no means a complete list. A selection of rune-names in later Scandinavian and Icelandic manuscripts is listed in Table 28 (a).¹² Since DRM, other alphabets with rune-names have been noted in: Modena O.I. 11 (s. ix) (Loretta, 1992); Antwerp, Plantin Moretus, 66 (s. xi) (Derolez, 1964, 1991); Paris, BN, lat. 2740 (s. xiii?) (Bischoff, 1954/1981); Vatican City, BAV, Codex Regin. lat. 1308 (s. x² or xi) (Bischoff, 1981, II: 144). Among the manuscripts containing runic alphabets but no rune-names are: Leiden, Universiteitsbibliotheek, Codex Vossianus F 12 d (s. ix); London, British Library, Harley 3017 (s. ix); St Gall, Stiftsbibliothek, 270 (s. ix); Exeter, Cathedral Library, 3507 (s. x); and London, British Library, Cotton Vitellius A xii (s. xi²/xi²).¹³ DRM lists fifteen manuscripts containing the De inventione text and rune-names: Karlsruhe, Badische Landesbibliothek, Aug. 254 (s. viii/ix–ix); ibid., Aug. 176 (s. ix/x¹); Paris, BN, lat. 5239 (s. x^{med}); Vienna, Österreichische Nationalbibliothek, 1609 (s. x); ibid., 1761 (s. xii); ibid. 1010 (s. xii); Strasbourg, Bibl. nat. et univ., 326 (s. x); Vatican City, BAV, Codex Urbin. 290 (s. xiⁱⁿ); ibid., Cod. Regin. lat. 294 (s. xi/xii); Nürnberg, Germanisches Nationalmuseum, 1966 (s. xii¹); Munich, A. Weinmüller (s. xiiⁱⁿ); Heidelberg, Universitätsbibliothek, Salem 9.39 (s. xii²); Bamberg, Staat. Bibliothek, Msc. patr. 130/2 (s. xiiiⁱⁿ); London, British Library, Cotton Titus D. xviii (s. xiii; xv); and the copy in M. Goldast's Alamanicarum scriptores aliquot veteres (1606). St Gall, Stiftsbibliothek, 876 (s. viii/ix), and Florence, Biblioteca Medicea Laurenziana, S. Marco 604 (s. xiⁱⁿ), contain the De inventione tract but no runes or rune-names.

Table 5: Sources containing the rune-poems, as referred to in this thesis

(For a detailed discussion of the sources of the Norwegian, Icelandic and Swedish poems, see A. Bauer 2003a: for the Norwegian poem pp. 113–33; for the Icelandic poem pp. 163–83; for the Swedish poem pp. 209–33.)

Manuscripts	Notes and references
1. The Abecedarium Nordmannicum (see Table 40 (a))
St Gall, Stiftsbibliotek, 878, 321 (s. ix ^m)	The ‘poetic’ nature of the Abecedarium Nordmannicum is debatable.
2. The Anglo-Saxon Runic Poem (see Table 31)
Anglo-Saxon Rune Poem , *Cotton Otho B. x, 165v (?s. x/xi)	It is not certain whether folio 165 ^v originally formed part of this manuscript. Fire destroyed it in 1731. The contents are known only from copies in Hickes’s Thesaurus . Bauer 2003a: 78–112.
3. The Norwegian rune-poem (see Table 31)¹⁴
Ole Worm, RNFIK seu Danica Literatura Antiquissima , Amsterdam, 105–7 (1636)	The Norwegian rune-poem probably dates from the 13th century. It is only known from copies. An earlier manuscript was destroyed by fire in 1728. Worm’s is the earliest surviving copy. It contains rune-names. Bauer 2003a: 124–5
Runólfur Jónsson, Linguae septentrionalis elementa tribus assortionibus adstructa , Copenhagen (1651)	Apparently an emendation of Ole Worm’s version. Gives Latin translations of stanzas, with commentary. Bauer 2003a: 128–9.
Stockholm, Kungliga Biblioteket, Papp. fol. 64 (part IV), 74 (1686–7)	Copy by Jón Eggertsson. It has no rune-names. Bauer 2003a: 120–3. This is the version that Bauer (2003a: 118–20) uses as the basis for her transcription. I mainly follow this transcription in Table 31.
Copenhagen, Kongelige Bibliotek, E Donatione Variorum I. Barth. D, 818 (1686–9)	Copy by Árni Magnússon. It has no rune-names. Bauer 2003a: 123–4.
4. The Icelandic rune-poem (see Table 31)¹⁵.
Reykjavík, Stofnun Árna Magnússonar, AM 687d 4to (c. 1500)	This copy has no rune-names, but has Latin/Icelandic glosses. Bauer 2003a: 167–9.
Reykjavík, Stofnun Árna Magnússonar, AM 461 12mo (1539–58)	Bauer 2003a: 169–71.
Reykjavík, Stofnun Árna Magnússonar, AM 749 4to, 25v (s. xvii)	Runes arranged in alphabetical order. Bauer 2003a: 171–2.
Runólfur Jónsson, Linguae septentrionalis elementa tribus assortionibus adstructa , Copenhagen (1651)	Gives Latin glosses on names and a Latin translation of the stanzas. Bauer 2003a: 172–3.
Olaus Verelius, Manuctio Compendiosa ad Runographiam Scandicam Antiquam recte intelligendam. En kor underwysing om then Gambla Swea-Gotha Runa ristning. Codex Argent Izvis atgiban ist kunnan Runa piudangardjos guþs , Uppsala (1675)	Does not reproduce the Icelandic rune-poem as such, but gives paraphrases of each name, with Latin translations. Full text and German translation are given by Bauer 2003a: 173–7.
5. The Swedish rune-poem
Leiden, Universiteitsbibliotheek, Vulcanius 106 ¹ (1600)	Swedish rune-names and rune-poem in a letter from Nicolaus Granius (1569–1631) to Bonaventura Vulcanus (1538–1614); see Quak 1987: 81–92; and Bauer 2003a: 209–33.

¹⁴ Versions of the poem based largely on Ole Worm’s edition appear in: Copenhagen, Arnamagnæanske Samling, AM 148 8vo (s. xvii^{ex}); Reykjavík, Stofnun Árna Magnússonar, AM 738 4to (1680); Copenhagen, Arnamagnæanske Samling, AM 413 fol (1732). Versions based on Runólfur Jónsson’s edition appear in: Copenhagen, Kongelige Bibliotek, NKS 1867 4to (1760); Copenhagen, Kongelige Bibliotek, Thott 477 8vo (s. xviii).

¹⁵ Later manuscripts containing the Icelandic rune-poem include: Copenhagen, Arnamagnæanske Samling, AM 413 fol. (1732); Copenhagen, Kongelige Bibliotek, NKS 1867 4to (1760); Copenhagen, Kongelige Bibliotek, Thott 477 8vo (s. xviii); Edinburgh, University Library, 21.6.7 (s. xviii).

Hebrew letter-names

Table 6: The connected sequences of Hebrew letter-names according to Eusebius and Jerome

Texts are from Eusebius, Praeparatio evangelica (lib. 10, c. 5), PG XXI: 787–90; and Jerome, De alphabeto hebraico psalmi CXVIII (in: Epistula XXX, 5), PL XXIII: 441–5 (nos. 1 and 3 in Table 1). The line division and spacing are intended to emphasise the structure and help comparison between the two texts. The transcribed letter-names, glosses and connected sequences are highlighted in bold print.

Aleph interpretatur doctrina . Beth, domus . Gemel, plenitudo . Deleth, tabularum . He, ista . Vau, et . Zai, haec . Heth, vita . Tet, bonum . Iod, principium . Caph, manus . Lamed, disciplinae sive cordis . Mem, ex ipsis . Nun, sempiternum . Samech, adjutorium . Ain, fons sive oculus . Phe, os ab ore, non ab osse dictum intellige, ne litterarum ambiguate fallaris. Sade, justitia . Coph, vocatio . Res, capitis . Sen, dentium . Thau, signa . Post interpretationem elementorum intelligentiae ordo dicendus est Aleph, Beth, Gemel, Deleth, prima connexio est doctrina domus plenitudo tabularum ; quod videlicet doctrina Ecclesiae, quae domus Dei est, in librorum reperiatur plenitudine divinorum. Secunda connexio est, He, Vau, Zai, Heth, ista et haec vita. Quae enim alia potest esse vita sine scientia Scripturarum, per quas etiam ipse Christus agnoscitur, qui est vita credentium? Tertia connexio habet, Tet, Iod, bonum principium : quia quamvis nunc sciamus universa quae scripta sunt, tamen ex parte cognoscimus, et ex parte prophetamus: et nunc per speculum videmus in aenigmate. Cum autem meruerimus esse cum Christo, et similes Angelis fuerimus, tunc librorum doctrina cessabit, et tunc videbimus facie ad faciem bonum principium sicuti est. Quarta connexio est, Caph, Lamed, manus disciplinae, sive cordis . Manus intelliguntur in opere, cor et disciplina interpretantur [al. intelliguntur] in sensu: quia nihil facere possumus, nisi prius quae facienda sunt scierimus. Quinta connexio est, Mem, Nun, Samech, ex ipsis sempiternum adjutorium . Hoc explicazione non indiget, sed omni luce manifestus est, ex Scripturis aeterna subsidia ministrari. Sexta connexio habet, Ain, Phe, Sade, fons sive oculus oris justitiae : secundum illud quod in tertio numero exposuimus. Septima connexio est, quae et extrema, quod et in ipso quoque septenario numero sit mysticus intellectus, Coph, Res, Sen, Thau, vocatio capitinis dentium signa . Per dentes articulata vox promitur, et in his signis ad caput omnium, qui est Christus, pervenitur, per quem venitur ad regnum sempiternum.

Table 7: Passages from Ambrose's Expositio in Psalmum Davidis CXVIII, giving his interpretations of the letter-names.

Text as given in PL XV: 1263–604; no. 2 in Table 1.

(The letter-names and their interpretations are highlighted in bold print.)

(973) Prima littera Aleph dicitur, cuius interpretatio doctrina est. Sollicitus ergo auditur, plenos doctrinae versus esse qui sequentur debes praesumere.

(981) In quo corrigit juvenor viam suam? Superiorum octo versuum non absurdia nobis cecidit disputatio; ideoque et sequentia persequi studium fuit. Et primum litterae secundae, hoc est, Beth, interpretatio consideranda est, quae in Latino conversa, confusio declaratur. Sed qui viam suam corrigit, non confundetur.

(993) Tertia littera secundum Hebraeos est Gimel, quae Latine retributio dicitur. Denique in primo statim versu hoc ostenditur. [He cites the first part of verse 17: Retribue, inquit, servo tuo.]

(1009) Quarta littera secundum Hebraeos Daleth, significat latine timorem, vel (ut alibi invenimus) nativitatem. Sed utrumque potest congruere et convenire sensu. Nativitas enim eorum est quae generantur in hoc saeculo, per quam intelligimus corporalia et materialia, quae sunt caduca, et ideo a timore non distat; ex corporabilis enim et materialibus nascitur timor. Quid enim est terrena nativitas, nisi timor? [He cites the first part of verse 25: Denique inde coepit versus: Adhaesit pavimento anima mea.]

(1018) Sequitur quinta littera He, quae latine significat est, vel, ut alibi invenimus, vivo. Conventi sibi utraque interpretatio. qui enim est, vivit; et qui vivit, est . . . Iesus autem heri et hodie ipse est et in saecula [Hebr. XIII.8] . . . Et ideo quia via etiam vita est secundum illum, qui ait: Ego sum via, veritas et vita [John XIV.6], viam quaeramus ut vitam habere mereamur. [He cites verse 33: Audiamus, inquam, quid dixerit, ut viveret: Legem mihi constitue, Domine, viam iustificationum tuarum; and further the last part of verse 37: in via tua vivifica me; and verse 40: in tua iustitia vivifica me.]

(1033) Sexta littera, Vau, cuius interpretatio: Ille est, et non aliis. Vel cuius interpretatio: Et ille.¹⁶ [He cites verse 41: Et veniat super me misericordia tua, Domine, salutare tuum secundum eloquium tuum] . . . Rogatur ergo ut veniat salutare Dei. Ille est qui rogatur, hoc est Dominus Jesus, et non est aliis, sicut habet litterae interpretatio. Et vel sic non solus Pater rogatur; Est [et] ille, hoc est, et Filius qui rogatur et rogatus advenit, et salutare mundo dedit. Ideo sothr, hoc est, salvator; idem Jesus, sicut angelus dixit [Matth. I.24] Qui salvum faciet populum suum.

(1043) Littera secundum Hebraeos Zain significat latine, duc te; alibi significat huc. Quid sibi velit ista interpretatio non satis liquet, nisi forte et unisquisque se regat, et ipse sui ductor sit. Vel huc, id est, quo litterae hujus versiculi vocant, dirigat iter.

(1056) Octava littera Heth, quae interpretatione latina dicitur pavor, sanctorum pavor esse consuevit . . . Ipse quoque David ait [Ps. CXV.2]¹⁷: Ego dixi in pavore meo. Religionis enim reverentiam significat magis, quam infrimitatem timoris . . . Sanctus igitur timor domini, quia vere sanctorum est pavor.

(1079) Nona littera Teth, ejus interpretatio est, exclusio. Quid est exclusio? Numquid sicut domo aliquis excluditur, hospitoque dejicitur, ita qui excluditur a Dei regno, bonis illius fraudatur; sicut illae exclusae virgines, quae secum oleum non tulerunt, et dum venit Sponsus, extinctae sunt face eorum, atque in emendo oleo, inflammandisque facibus occupatae fecerunt moram et ingresso jam Sponso, introine cupiantes leguntur(?) exclusae.

(1086) Incipit littera apud Hebraeos decima Iod, quae Latina significatione confessio dicitur, vel certe desolatio. Nec discors ac dissonans videtur interpretatio. Siquidem qui desolati sunt, citius confitentur.

(1103) Incipit undecima littera Caph, quae latina interpretatione significat curvati sunt: sonus interpretationis ipse nos docet, quid sit curvari; qui enim inclinatur in terram, curvari videtur. Unde ait Propheta sub hac littera: Paulo minus consummaverunt me in terra. . . . Curvatur autem qui agit potentiam; eo quod cervicem suam curvet, dum humiliatur ad Dominum, et interiorem magis cervicem, id est, cervicem mentis et cordis. Nam de hac cervice dictum est [Is. LVIII.5]: qui enim cor suum non flectit, frustra cervicem suuam flexerit. [He then connects this to verse 81: Ideoque tamquam curvatus multo amplius anima as mente quam corpore exorsus est David dicens: Defecit (Hebrew kalah) in salutare tuum anima mea, et in verbum tuum speravi.]

(1114) Lamed litterae duodecima incipit, cuius interpretatur cor, vel, ut alia interpretatio habet, servo.¹⁸ Unde videtur admonere vel prudenter haec intellegenda vel sollicite servanda praecepta. Nam hoc primus statim versiculos admonet . . . [He cites verse 89: In aeternum, inquit, Domine, permanet verbum tuum in coelo.] Vides etiam in te permanere debere, quod etiam in coelo permanet as perseverat. Serva ergo verbum Dei, et serva in corde tuo.

(1130) Mem littera tertia decima significat in alio interprete viscera, in alio ex ipsis; et utrumque¹⁹ non discordat a textu. Nam statim primus versus internorum viscerum charitatem exprimit, quae utique ex intimis procedit medullis, et quondam nexus caloris implicatur ossibus.²⁰

(1140) Nun littera hebreæa est quinta decima, cuius interpretatio est, Unicus; vel in alia interpretatione; Pascua eorum. Ecce ipse Hebraeorum litterae testificantur Dominum Jesum esse unicum Patris Filiū, Verbum Dei. Denique primo statim versus David de unico Filio Deo dicit [verse 105]: Lucerna²¹ pedibus meis Verbum tuum, et lumen senutis meis. . . . Litterae autem singulae velut tituli sunt eorum versuum, qui sub iisdem litteris ascribuntur, seriem et continentiam declarantes, sicut his unicum significat litters, et de unigenito Dei Filio, atque ejus aeterni luminis claritate psalmi hujus portio prophetat . . . Nec sane ab ista abhorret etiam illa in alio reperta codice litterae hujus interpretatio. Quae sunt enim pascua nostra hoc est fidelium, nisi Christus? In cuius pascuis se locatum Propheta laetus est dicens [Ps. XXII.2]: In loco pascuae me collocavit.

¹⁷ Ps. CXV.2 in the LXX and the Vulgata = CXVI.11 in the AV.

¹⁸ Given Ambrose's following gloss of serva, the servo must be first person singular of the verb, not the dative of servus.

²⁰ Cf. Lam. I.13.

²¹ The Hebrew word for lucerna in this verse is ner, but elsewhere (e.g. Gen. XV.17) the word for lamp is lappid.

(1157) Incipit Samech littera decima quinta, quae interpretationem habet audi. Est et alia ejus interpretatio, quae dicitur firmamentum . . . Meritoque hanc littera firmamentum alii interpretati sunt: quod cum superiore interpretatione concurrit; nisi enim unusquisque audierit quid sequi debeat, nemo firmatur. In officio igitur audiendi omnium firmamentum est.

(1170) Incipit littera decima sexta Ain, cuius interpretatio est oculus sive fons. Oculus utitur vivendi munere, sed saepe videmus ea quae complacent, et saepe quae displicant; nec in eo oculi est vel culpa vel probitas . . . Oculus quoque generationis aut fons generationis dicitur, quia ex oculorum conspectu aut bona, aut adversa generantur.

(1184) Phe littera decima septima, quae latine significat erravi, sive os aperui. Merito ergo lacrymabilis series psalmi subjecta est huic litterae [verses 132-5]: Respic in me, et misere mihi . . . et non dominatur mei omnis iniquitas . . . Faciem tuam illumina super servum tuum. [He also cites Lam. II.16: Aperuerunt in te os suum omnes inimici tui, sibilaverunt, fremuerunt dentibus, et dixerunt: Deglutivimus eam; tamen haec est dies quam sperabamus, invenimus eam, vidimus eam.]]

(1194) Sequitur Sade littera decima octava, qua latina interpretatione dicitur consolatio. Post more torrentium lacrymas profluentes, et graves fletus doloris, oportebat consolationem sequi. [He cites verse 137: *Iustus es, Domine, et rectum iudicium tuum.*²²]

(1209) Incipit littera decima nona Koph, cuius interpretatio est conclusio; et, sicut alibi invenimus, aspice. Distat littera, congruit sensus. Nam qui concluditur circumspicere se debet, et causam periculi non dissimulare, maxime cum lethale discrimen sit. [He cites verse 145: Exclamavi in tot corde meo; exaudi me, Domine²³ . . . and also Rom. XI.32: Profuit igitur conclusio: conclusit enim Deus omnia in incredulitate, ut omnium misereatur.]

(1221) Incipit littera vicesima Res, quae latina interpretatione caput dicitur, vel primatus. Caput est, ut formam generis humani consideremus, quod fovet membra omnia, et dirigit atque implet sensibus. Sensus enim sapientis in capite ejus [Eccle. II.14] . . . Christus enim Ecclesiae principium est . . . haec humilitas virtutum omnium caput est . . . Diximus de capite, dicamus et de primatu, quod licet sermone distet ac littera, sensu tamen in eamdem concurrit intelligentiam.

(1238) Incipit littera vicesima prima sin, quae latine dicitur super vulnus. Super vulnus quid est, nisi medicamentum, quo vulneris acerbitas mitigatur? Super vulnus oleum infunditur, ut omnis vulneris emolliatur asperitas. Super vulnus, malagma, super vulnus alligatura, quibus omne vulnus fovetur . . . Consideremus igitur quid sit vulnus, quid supra vulnus. [verse 161] Principes persecuti sunt me gratis vulnus est. [verse 162] Exsulto ego in verbis tuis, sicut qui inventit spolia multa super vulnus est, quia verbis Dominicis vulneris dura curantur . . . Medicamentum igitur super vulnus est; quia Dominus Jesus ipse medicus, qui vulnus nostra curavit, infundens vinum et oleum, et alligans vulnera adae illius, qui descendens a Jerusalem, a latronibus vulneratus est.

(1246) Incipit littera Tau, quae latina interpretatione significat erravit; alia interpretatio habet consummavit. Quid est erravit? Vigesima secunda littera est, quae apud Hebreos est ultima. Psalmo autem isto, hoc est centesimo octavo decimo, profectum hominis diximus significari, qui doctrinæ moralis magisterii eruditus deponeret omnem inexercitatae mentis infantiam, assumeret autem veterani consilii scientiam et prudentiae senilis aetatem . . . erravit, inquit; non errat, sed erravit. Errasse praeterti est temporis, errare praesentis. Qui erravit, desivit errare et veterem condemnat errorem . . . Non error igitur, sed consummatio est, ut altera docet interpretatio. Consummatio autem perfectio disciplinae est . . . Sequitur versus ultimus [verse 176]: erravi sicut ovis, quae perierat: vivifica servum tuum.

²³ Cf. Lam. II. 19, which develops the theme of crying out to the Lord in the watches of the night.

Table 10 (a): Comments on Psalm CXLIV in Latin translation from Hesychius's *De titulis Psalmorum*²⁵

The quotations from the verses of the Psalm are from Jerome's vulgate translation

Line	Hesychius's comments	Correspondences found in: ²⁶
1.	Glorificabo te Deus Pax meus, qui docuisti me scientiam nomen Aleph versui adscriptum nam interpretatur doctrina .	A, E, J1, J2.
4.	Secundum singulas actiones lucis tuae glorificabo te in corde meo, hoc enim syllaba versui apposita: Beth enim interpretatur.	E, J1, J2.
7.	domus , quae est cor
7.	Thorax meus in bello Dominus, & usque in finem laudabilis est in corde meo: hoc enim significat nomen Gamel versui adscriptum; interpretatur enim thorax , quod est Dominus noster, quemadmodum dixit Apostolus.	See comments in §1.1.5.
9.	Qui geniti sunt ex gratia tua admirabuntur mandata tua: nomen enim Deleth versui appositum interpretatur generatio	A.
10.	Syllaba versui adscripta, quae He dicitur, interpretatur Area , quae est Dominus, atque etiam interpretatur suscipite : Popule igitur, (simil conjugens syllabae interpretationis hunc sensu invenies,) Dñs est, suscipite. Propterea etiā versus hoc ipsū significat dicens: quia Deus es, praedicabunt te.	Suscipite : cf. J2. Area : cf Egyptian h [courtyard], hieroglyphic: □. ²⁷
11./12.	Splendorem gloriae faciei tuae narrabunt, quando transformatus es ante eos, & mirabilia tua, quae fecisti in adventu tuo narrabunt in: mundo interpretatur Vau in ipso , hoc est in adventu & in mundo enim	E.
13./14.	Et virtutem mirabilium tuarum curationum dicent in Evangelio, & immensam tuam misericordiam narrabunt: nomen enim, quod versui adscribitur dicitur Zain , quod misericordia interpretatur	?
16.	Et conversationem, qua converatus es in mundo, ediscentes in ipsa vivent. Nam syllaba versui adscripta, quae dicitur Chet enim interpretatur stupor : Stupor habuit, & habet omnes, quod Deus est, & cum hominibus in terra conversatus est.	?A; chatath = be amazed, be afraid.
19.	Bonus Dominus erga omnes homines.	A, E, J1, J2. Teth not explicitly glossed here.
21.	Confitebuntur omnes homines, quoniam tu es Dominator omnium; hoc enim significat nomen Joth versui adscriptum, quod interpretatur dominans .	J2.
22.	Et spiritu viventes, & laborantes in operibus justitiae glorificabunt te. Nam Cham versui appositum interpretatur calor , & labor , hoc est calorem fidei, & laborem Sanctorum in hoc mundo significat.	Labor : cf J1's in opere ; Hebrew cham = calor .

²⁵ Published as Athanasi, Archiepiscopi Alaexandriæ: Interpretatio Psalmorum sive De titulis Psalmorum, in: Antonelli, ed., 1746: 375–79; also in PG XXVII: 1311–12. The text is now attributed to Hesychius of Jerusalem, d. 450 (Mer cati 1944: 7–22). Ps.CXLIV = Hebrew Bible and AV Ps. CXLV.

23./24.	Et aeternum supplicium annunciat: nomen siquidem adscriptum hoc significat, quia Sames interpretatur virga , hoc est cruciatus . (= ? Lamed)	Cf Hebrew malmad [goad]. ²⁸
27./28.	Sine fine, Et super omnes credentes verbo Evangelii, & super non credentes. (= ? Mem) ²⁹	But sine fine = sempiternum = nun in J1, J2.
29.	Verax, firmus, immutabilis in iis, quae definivit in judicio: hoc enim significat syllaba; quae dicitur Sam , hoc est stabilivit , & etiam interpretatur illic , hoc est in judicio. (=? Nun)	But stabilivit : cf adiutorium = samech in J1, J2. Hebrew sam = illic . Susentaculum seems to be a gloss on samech , cf fulturam in J2.
32.	Et surgere facit omnes prolapsos in faciem, hoc est in corda sua, & infirmatos in peccatis: syllaba enim apposita, quae dicitur Cham , sustentaculum interpretatur, perinde ac si diceret subjicit se ipsum Dñs. (=? Samech)	A, E, J1, J2. Oculi in the verse relates to ain , which is not glossed. E, J1, J2.
33./34.	Corda omnium credentium in te gratiam recipiunt. (Text of verse 15: Oculi omnium in te sperant , ...) Et tu, cum mens eorum quiescit ab omni mundana cura, & concupiscentia, illuminis eos scientâ praeceptorum tuorum. (= Ain)	E, J1, J2. Sade is not glossed as such. E, J1, J2.
35.	Abundanter donando gratiam Sancti Spiritus omni homini, qui adhaeret voluntati tuae: Phe enim interpretatur os , hoc est insufflans ipsum in faciem Sanctorum, & dicens: Accipite Spiritum Sanctum	Caput : A, E, J1, J2. Visibilis : ?
36.	Non onerosus in omnibus praeceptis suis: nam graves non sunt. (Text of verse 17: Justus Dominus in omnibus viis suis ,) (= Sade)	Hebrew sem .= nomen .
38.	Si solùm viderit aliquem, qui clamaturus sit ad eum, statim advenit ipse ad illum: syllaba enim dicta Coph interpretatur sonus , hoc est clamor	Signum : E, J1, J2.
40.	Syllaba versui apposita, quae dicitur Res interpretatur caput , & visibilis : salus igitur est timentibus eum, & notus ipsis rursum Dominus erit.	Consummatio : A.
42.	Syllaba versui apposita, quae est Sem , interpretatur nomen : nomen igitur Domini invocatum super diligentes eum custodit illos.	Inclinatio : ?
44.	Syllaba versui adscripta, quae vocatur Thau , interpretatur signum , & inclinatio aut consummatio : gloriam igitur Crucis suaे, & consummationem saeculi in Psalmo, inquit, narrabo.

²⁸ Semitic lamdu [goad] is cited as letter-name; Healey 1990: 18.²⁹ According to Barton and Muddiman (2001: 403–4): ‘The n verse is missing from the M[asoretic] T[ext], but is supplied by the Qumsan scroll and the LXX and Syriac versions. It is included after v. 13 in all the modern English versions.’ Hesychius probably followed the LXX.

118. Per totum hunc psalmum universalis sanctorum chorus loquitur, qui ab initio mundi fuerunt sive sunt, sive futuri esse creduntur; inter quos reperiuntur apostoli, prophetae, martyres, confessores, ecclesiastici ordines et omnes qui sancta Domino integratae famulantur. Est autem hebraeis elementis tali ordine depictus ut ab unaquaque littera octoni versus incipiant.

1. Quorum prima littera aleph interpretatur doctrina, in qua immaculatis in via Domini beatudo aeterna promittitur.
2. Exponit fidelis populus in sermonibus Domini quibus delectationibus perfruatur, ostendens se esse domum Domini et receptaculum mandatorum eius, cuius mysterium secunda littera continet.
3. Postulat populus sanctis, qui in terra incolae sunt, retribui gratiam quam in primo parente amiserant, sed et persecutoribus eorum restituendum dicit esse quod agunt.
4. Plebs fidelis paupertate mundana constricta, januam in se veris divitiis aperit, frequentique meditatione quasi tabulas sua praecordia Dei mandatis exhibit.
5. Beata plebs expetit, ut in lege Domini eius debeat munere custodiri; et bene suscipiens appellatur quae dicit: da mihi intellectum. Ipsa quoque iure vocatur, quae in eadem semper intentione persistat.
6. Postulat congregatio sancta salutare Domini sibi debere concedi, ut inimicos de tanta remunerazione confundat, et in lege Domini assidua meditatione proficiat. Ipse ergo Dominus atque Salvator vau litterae vocabulo designatur, idem ipse videlicet, cui dicitur: tu autem idem ipse es, id est aeternus.
7. Chorus sanctorum, spem promissionum Domini sensibus nostris commendans, asserit fideles adversa mundi sustinere quibus aeterna vita promittitur; quae olivae nomine exprimitur, quia et hic sanctorum facies exhilaratur in oleo et illic Spiritus Sancti aeterna visione pinguescit. Nomen autem fornicationis congruit peccatoribus derelinquentibus legem Domini.
8. Agmen beatum desidera videre faciem Domini. quia eius mandatis noscitur obsecutum. Et quia hoc desiderium in resurrectionis gloria perficietur, octava littera vitae vocabulo gaudet.
9. Populus beatus gratias agit humiliatum se fuisse, ut ad justificationes Domini perveniret, nomenque litterae praesentis exponens, bonum suum se dicit idem verbum Dei humiliter meditari.

10. Cohors gloria petit intellectum mandatorum sibimet debere concedi, ut verae vitae munere perfruatur. Et recte scientia vel principium nuncupatur litters, in qua fideles ab illo capiendi quaerent intellectum, a quo vivendi sumpserunt exordium.
11. Peregrinus in hac terra populus nimium desiderium suum in adventu Domini confitetur, enumerans quantam superborum insecuritatem pertulerit. Cuius mentis devotio per caph litteram designatur, quae manus interpretatur, per quam opera vel cordis vel corporis exprimuntur.
12. Plebs coelestis virtutem Domini describens, dicit omnia temporalia posse finiri; mandata vero eius nequaquam terminum reperire, quorum disciplinae subdita proclamat.
13. Populus beatus prophetarum atque evangelii meditatione proficiens, super docentes se ac seniores asserit se divina intellexisse mandata. Qod ergo mem interpretatur ex quo, significat ex quo affectu dulcedinis, id est ex intimo dicat: quomodo dilexi legem tuam. Quod vero dicitur ex ipsis, significat ex ipsis Domini mandatis eorumdem concipiendum amorem.
14. Cohors beata, animae sua pedibus, Dominici verbi lumen radiare congaudens expetit retribuciones Domini perpetuas, ob quas haec littera seminterni nomen accepit. Porro quod piscis interpretatur, ostendit eum qui in fluctibus saeculi lumen verbi requirit.
15. Catholicum examen iniquos odio sibi fuisse dicit, legem vero Domini se dilexisse, petens ut ab eo susceptum mala saeculi evadat, nomenque litterae exponit cum dicit: Adiuva me.
16. Membra Domini in aeternum viventia petunt sacrae Incarnationis adventum; ille enim est fons vivus qui quaeritur, iste oculus mundus qui quaerit.
17. Sanctus populus asserit se aperuisse os suum et adtraxisse spiritum, ut eius audiatur oratio. Et ideo littera vocabulum oris accepit, in qua parvulus quisque et humilis introitum cordis aperit et spiritu divinae caritatis imbibit.
18. Cohors sanctorum carnis sua triumphatrix, secundum huius litterae nomen justitiam Domini confitetur, et eloquia eius ignita continua se dicit dilectione venerari.
19. Reverentissimus chorus, juxta huius litterae nomen, in toto corde suo clamat as Dominum, justifications eius sedulus exquires.
20. Populus vitiorum victor se petit vivificari, quoniam mandata Domini summo studio exquisivit; principium quoque verborum Domini testatur esse veritatem, et hoc est caput, quod littera praesens ostendit.
21. Sanctorum coetus persecutions saevientium, pro caritate Domini, sibi dicit esse gratissimas. Dentes autem quos huius litterae nomen exprimit, vel sanctorum intellige, qui Dominum laudant, vel persecutorum, de quibus dicitur: Filii hominum, dentes eorum arma et sagittae.
22. Sanctorum chorus, adventum Domini Salvatoris desiderans, petit ut ovem perditam revocare pietatis sua munus dignetur. Ipse est enim nobis omnium consummatio virtutum, quem quicunque videre meruerit, nil ultra quaerere opus habebit. Ipsius est signum, quo redempti canimus: Signatum est super nos lumen vultus tui, Domine.

³¹ The letter-names in no. 6a read: aleph, beth, camel, deleth, eli (=he), extra letter-name, uali (=uau), glossed non habet, ;nau (=uau), zae, eta, thet, iuth, tap (= caph), lab, mem, nun, samech, ena, coph, res, sen, tau.. In no. 18b, Thiel suggests (1972: 108, 112) that the uita gloss on zai belongs to the following (missing) letter heth. In the Carolingean poem on the Greek alphabet in Table 17 (a), Greek ζωην (= zeta) is glossed in one of the manuscripts as vitam.

Table 15: Possible relationships between lists of glosses on the Hebrew alphabet³³

³³ Numbers in brackets refer to the numbers in the list in Table 1 and above the columns giving the glosses in Tables 9-14. Hrabanus Maurus and Pasch. Radbertus, lib. 1&2, are not listed separately in Table 1 since they are virtually unadulterated copies of Jerome 1. In his book 3, Radbertus combined Jerome 1 with elements of Ambrose (dashed line), which he probably did not know first hand (Thiel 1973: 98). Similarly Bruno Cartus also probably took elements from Ambrose.

(The notes in square brackets have been added, not being in the Expositio. For a key to the devices, see §1.2.3.)

Line	Letter	Device	Notes
1	A	(a), (c), (e)	A is not only the first letter of the alphabet, but also the first sound made by a new born baby. Nomen...domini : Greek alpha as in Ego sum A et Ω . For Exsecrantis ... interiectio see: Et dixi: A, A, A, domine deus! [Jer. I.6; XIV.13; Ez. IV.14; XX.49].
4	B	(a), (b), (c)	Be is first syllable of beatus , the first word of the Psalms; it is second in the alphabet. Beatus (~ felix) is trisyllabic.
7	C	(b), (d), (e)	Greek beta = Latin beta [beet]. [B is also the first letter of Greek βιβλος [book], and be is the first syllable of Hebrew: bereshith [in the beginning].
10	D	(c), (e), (f)	C is initial of caelum . Greek kappa = Latin cappa [clerical hood]. C as shape of the new moon and the print of a horse's hoof.
			De is Latin preposition, governing the ablative; it is the first syllable of deus ; as a Roman numeral it represents 500; it was an abbreviation for daemon , diabolus and (pagan) deus .
13	E	(c)	E is added to most consonants to form their Latin names: be , ce , de , etc.; it is a letter in its own right, one of the five vowels; it is the preposition e ; it is the first syllable of the name Eva .
16	F	(c), (e)	F is a semivowel, sometimes followed by liquids l and r ; it does not occur in Hebrew; deduction of f from flumen leaves lumen .
19	G	(e), (f)	G an abbreviation for Gaius (Caesar); GG an abbreviation for Pope Gregory the Great. After g , a u is not a full vowel, e.g. lingua , pinguis , sanguis .
22	H	(d), (e)	H has no consonantal value; it indicates aspiration; it is fragile because the letter-shape splits into the signs for the spiritus asper and spiritus lenis .
25	I	(f)	I , the first Roman number, is shaped like a rod, used as a sword by boys; it is the smallest letter in shape but has both consonantal and vocal values. The third line refers to Matthew V.18: Iota unum aut unus apex non peribit a lege donec omnia fiant .
28	K	(e)	K had been used as an intial letter before a , but in more recent times was replaced by C ; it was the initial letter of the name of the African ‘capital’, Karthago, and the name of the first day of the month.
31	L	(d), (e)	The first line plays with the Greek letter-name lauta , which in Latin can be read as the past participle of laveo [wash], hence sine sorde [without dirt]. L is a liquid ; it is shaped like a scythe or bill-hook.
34	M	(c), (e)	M is elided after a preceding vowel in [Greek] poetry; deduction of m from mater [mother, i.e. as ‘muse’, mother of poets] leaves ater [dark].
37	N	(c), (e)	En is as a decisive interjection; deduction of n from nomen leaves omen ; n is treated as a liquid in Greek.
40	O	(c), (d)	O is used as an exclamation; its shape resembles a wheel [also the wheel of time].
43	P	(f)	P is the initial of pax , it is an abbreviation for populus in the inscription SPQR; PP = papa , pater patriae , patres .
46	Q	(e)	The fifth vowel u is needed after q and loses its ‘natural’ value as a vowel; no other vowel is written after q .
49	R	(e), (f)	R occurs in the word durum ; [it was also known as the littera canina [snarling letter]]; it is a liquid; it is an abbreviation of Romani .
52	S	(f)	[S is an abbreviation of senatus and is the second letter in the abbreviation DS, for deus ; it is the initial letter of sol .]
55	T	(f)	[T is the sign referred to in Ez. IX.4-6; it is also the sign of the Christian cross.]
58	V	(b), (e)	[V has one shape, two values; it is not used in Greek.]
61	X	(d), (e), (f)	[X is simple in form but has a duplex value [ks]; it has the shape of wings, and is the number of the (ten) commandments.]
64	Y	(d),(e)	[Y is duplex in name but simplex in value, in Greek; the second and third lines refer to the Pythagorean interpretation, Cf. §1.2.1.]
67	Z	(e)	[Z , a Greek letter, is duplex , often resolving into a simplex sibilant (losing ‘vitality’ between the teeth).]

Table 20: The texts and translations of the ogam kennings and glosses as presented by McManus³⁶ and Meroney³⁷

1. The traditions and sigla

As described in §1.4.1, there are three parallel traditions of kennings, with later glosses, ascribed to Morann mac Moín, Mac ind Óc and Cú Chulainn. McManus labels these as Morann mac Moín = A, Mac ind Óc = B, and Cú Chulainn = C. They are listed in Tables 20-2 to 20-11 below.

For convenience, McManus's use of the sigla A¹, A², etc., to indicate the different manuscript versions within a particular tradition, are given here in the form A1, A2, etc. References such as A1,3,7 signify the separate manuscripts A1, A3, and A7. Details of the manuscripts and published sources are listed in Table 3. I have not listed incidental kennings included by McManus under the sigla A8, A9, B6 and C3.

The names in the “vegetal” tradition from the The Book of Ogams (Aur. 5511–27) are listed separately in Table 20-12; this list was not included by McManus, but was included by Meroney in his review of ogam-names under the siglum IIb. Two lists of names given without kennings or glosses at the end of The Book of Ogams (amongst 92 ciphers) are reproduced in Table 20-13. The list labelled 27 is virtually the same as the ogam-names in Meroney's IIb. The list labelled 26 are, with one exception, all “vegetal” names and were included by Meroney under the siglum Ib.

2. Texts normalized

The texts of the kennings and glosses on the names of the ogam characters given on the next pages follow the version as presented by McManus, except in a few cases where variant readings not included by him have been added, e.g. variations between the glosses in the body of the Auraicept (A4 = Aur. 1157–98 and A5 = Aur. 4253–308) as given by Calder (1917, reprint 1995). Slight orthographic variants (e.g. feocus, feochas, feochos, feocos, feochuos) have not been signalled except where there may be the possibility of a significant difference in meaning.

Within each of the three traditions — A, B and C — there is little variation in the kennings for individual names. Any exceptions are signalled in bold print in the notes, although, again, not all orthographic variants have been listed.

3. Arrangement on the page

My arrangement of the kennings and glosses on the page is different from that chosen by McManus. My aim is to group the kennings together with their glosses and to highlight the parallels between the glosses. Thus the glosses which are given in the manuscripts in columnar form (A2,6; B2,4; C1,2) have been placed first, on the same line, even though this has meant relegating to second place the more extensive glosses from the body of the The Book of Ogams (A1 = Aur. 5528–614, and B1 = Aur. 5615–67) and equivalent versions from other manuscripts (A3,7 and B3,5).

Each entry is headed by the value ascribed to the ogam character in the columnar lists (A2,6; B2,4; C1,2), followed by a normalized form of the ogam-name. The value of Fern is thus given as F rather than V, that of Quert as Q rather than CC, that of Gétal as GG rather than nG or Ng, and that of Straif as St rather than Z.

³⁶ The references to McManus throughout these listings are to his 1988 article.

M: Muin	A. Strongest in exertion	B. Proverb of slaughter	C. Path of the voice
2,6 i.e. the vine, because it grows upwards.		2,4 i.e. muin ('deceit, treachery'?), muine ('a brake' or 'thicket')	1,2 i.e. through the muin ('neck, throat')
1,3,7 i.e. that is his [kenning for] Muin , i.e. on account of the identity of the name to the muin ('upper part of the back') of a person or an ox, for they are the strongest in exertion.		1,3,5 i.e. muin ('deceit, treachery'??) of a person. [The kenning was transferred]	thence to its cognominal letter
4,5 Muin , then, (A5: was called after a tree,) i.e. the vine, ut dicitur , 'Highest of beauty' is Muin , i.e. vine, i.e. because it grows upwards, i.e. the vine.
G: Gort	A. Sweetest of grasses	B. Suitable place for cows	C. Sating of multitudes
2,6 i.e. i.e. honeysuckle or ivy.		2,4 i.e. a field.	1,2 i.e. corn.
1,3,7 i.e. that is his [kenning for] Gort because of the identity of the name to the field of corn. When it is young corn in the blade that grass is sweeter than all grasses, i.e. the cornfield. [The kenning was transferred] thence to that Ogam letter on account of their identity in name.		1,3,5 i.e. a field. [The kenning was transferred] thence to its cognominal letter.
4,5 Gort , then, i.e. ivy, (A5: ut dicitur ;) 'Greenest of pastures' is Gort , i.e. ivy.
GG: Gétal	A. Sustenance of a leech	B. Raiment of physicians	C. Beginning of slaying
2,6 i.e. broom/reed on account of the abundance of its healing (powers?).		2,4 i.e. broom/reed.	1,2 i.e. healing.
1,3,7 i.e. that is [a kenning for] Gétal , i.e. for it is 'Sustenance with the leeches', (A3: i.e. broom/reed or bog-myrtle; A7: fern) and there is kinship between battle and gétal .		3,5 i.e. battle. [The kenning was transferred] thence to Ngetal .
4,5 Ngedal , i.e. broom/reed or fern, ut dicitur , 'Sustenance of a leech' is Ngedal , i.e. reed or fern. (A5: for it is sustenance with the leeches and there is kinship between Kand Ng , or a healing physician, i.e. on account of the abundance of its healing (powers?) or/i.e. broom/reed or fern).		1 missing
St: Straif	A. Strongest reddening (dye)	B. Increase of secrets	C. Seeking of clouds
2,6 i.e. blackthorn.		2,4 i.e. Sraiph or blackthorn.	1 i.e. .its smoke
1,3,7 i.e. that is his [kenning for] Ogam Straif . Straif in substance, for straif is the strongest of reddening agents for dyeing things, for it is it which causes white silver to become blue while making pure silver of it. It is it which is boiled in urine into white gold and makes red gold of it. 'Strongest reddening' [applies to] straif in its concrete meaning. [The kenning] was transferred thence to the letter called Straif (A3: i.e. blackthorn) on account of their identity in name; i.e. straif is the name of each of them.		1,3,5 i.e. Straif (?sulphur). [The kenning was transferred thence to its cognominal letter.]	above (C2: to the clouds).
4,5 Straif , then, i.e. blackthorn, ut dicitur , 'Hedge of a stream' is Sraibh , i.e. blackthorn. (A5: or straif , i.e. seeking of clouds i.e. its smoke above.)
R: Ruis	A. Intensest of blushing	B. Reddening of faces	C. Glow of anger
2,6 i.e. rowan-tree or fire of elder-wood.		2,4 i.e. rowan-tree or elder-tree.	1,2 i.e. blushing.
1,3,7 i.e. that is [a kenning for] Ruis , i.e. from reddening or blushing in substance, for it is written with [thesymbol] Ruis and it is a reddening that grows in a person's face by rubbing the juice of the plant under it. 'Intensest of blushing', then, is applied [as a kenning] to Ruis from rus ('blushing) or from the reddening, for that itself is written with [the symbol] Ruis .		1,3,5 i.e. the juice of the rose which causes reddening of faces so that there is blushing in them. 'Reddening of faces', then, is applied to Ogam Ruis from blushing or reddening, for that itself is written with Ruis .
4,5 Ruis , then, i.e. elder-tree, ut dicitur , 'Redness of blushing' is Ruis i.e. elder-tree (A5: or redness of ruis , i.e. fire of elder-wood).
Muin	A4 airdi masi ; A5 airden maisi ; A6 Ardam maise 'highest of beauty'.	Gétal	C2 ? tosa n-éca 'beginning of death'.
Gort	A2,6 glaisem gelta ; A4 glaisiu geltaibh ; A5 glasibh 'greenest of/greener than pastures'.
Straif	A2,6,4,5 aire srab(h)a ?'hedge of a stream'.	Ruis	A4,5 ruamna ruice/ruici 'redness of blushing/shame' (ruice = ruccæ).

2,6	i.e. spindle-tree	2,4 i.e. gold.
1,3,7	i.e. gold in substance. [The kenning] was transferred thence to the letter on account of their identity of of name, i.e. they are both called ór.	1,3,5 i.e. gold. [The kenning] was transferred thence to its cognominal letter, i.e. Ogam Ór.
4	i.e. spindle-tree or ivy.
5	i.e. spindle-tree or honeysuckle, ut dicitur ‘Fragrant tree i.e. honeysuckle, ut dicitur most venerable substance, i.e. spindle-tree, i.e. twisted ?
UI: Uilen/Uillenn	A. Fragrant tree	B. Great cubit
2,6	i.e. test tree or elecampane.	2,4 i.e. test tree or elecampane.
1,3,7	i.e. that is his [kenning for] Uilleann, for it is a name for honeysuckle. It was transferred thence to the Ogam [letter] called Uilleann, for it was called Uilleann after it, for it is a name for honeysuckle.	1,3,5 i.e. Uilleann i.e. honeysuckle. [The kenning was transferred] thence to the Ogam letter which took [its name] from it, i.e. Uilleann.
4,5	i.e. honeysuckle (A5: ut dicitur fragrant tree of honeysuckle).
P/IO: Pin/Iphin	A. Sweetest tree	B. Most wonderful taste
2,6	i.e. thorn bush.	2,4 i.e. thorn bush.
1,3,7	i.e. that is his [kenning for] Pin, for ‘Sweetest tree’ is a name for the tree called pin. Thence are named the berries of the pin. [The kenning] was transferred thence to the letter called Pin because it was named Pin or Ifin/Iphin after it.	1,3,5 i.e. pin or ifin/iphin. [The kenning was transferred] thence to the letter which took its name from it, i.e. Pin or Iphin/Ihpин.
4,5	i.e. whitethorn or ispin/spin, ut dicitur ‘sweetest tree’ is pin, i.e. berry.
X/AE: Emancholl	A. Refrain of a weary one	B. Groan of an ailing person
2,6	i.e. uch, i.e. midua (?), i.e. smooth, slender neck.	2,4 i.e. wasting away or grease (?) or woe.
1,3,7	i.e. ach or uch. That is his [kenning for] Emancholl, for Emancholl has the [phonetic] value ach though it has another [phonetic] value. Finit the Briatharogam of Morann.	1 missing 3,5 i.e. ach or uch for Eamhancoll, for Eamhoncoll has the [phonetic] value ach or uch. Finit .
4	missing.
5	i.e. many its letters or Emancholl, for Emancholl has the [phonetic] value ach though it has another value i.e. midiuiti, ut dicitur ‘Song of a sick person’, i.e. uch, or Emancholl i.e. smooth , slender neck.
Ébad	A1,3 i. os and .i. lon are treated in this translation as (mistaken) glosses on sed and eonasc; B1,3,5 cf. DIL ellenn ‘enula campana’ (= Inula Helenium); McManus translates elenn as ‘honeysuckle (or aspen?)’.
Uilen	A2,6 and B2,4 McManus translates crann fir as ‘juniper’ and equates elenn and eilend with edlenn, i.e. ‘spindle-tree (?honeysuckle)’; cf. B1,3,5 gloss on Ebad.
Emancholl	A1 lúad sáethaig: McManus translates ‘Groan of a sick person’, comparing lúad with lúth of the C kenning for Ogam I, lúth lobair ‘Energy of an infirm person’; A2,6 and A5: midua and midiuitii unclear in meaning; Meroney suggests ‘not simple’; seim munchael = gloss on Emancholl; A2: 7c = et cetera?

The vegetal tradition in The Book of Ogams

as given in the text preceding the Briatharogam Moraind mic Mhain (BB 309 = Aur. 5512–27)

The spacing is my own. The translation is that of Calder except where indicated in the notes. Meroney's siglum is IIb.³⁸

The names and glosses for the characters R and A are missing from the text.

Beithe	moreover, is from the birch of the forest for the first letter on the path of the Ogam alphabet.
Luis	i.e. elm in the forests.
Fern	i.e. alder in the forest.
Sail	of the Ogam, i.e. willow, again, in the forest.
Nin	of the Ogam, i.e. fork of a weaver's beam ³⁹ , or nettles in the woods.
Uath	of the Ogam, i.e. test tree ⁴⁰ or whitethorn, on account of its thorniness.
Dur	of the Ogam is oak, again, in the forest.
Tinne	of the Ogam, i.e. holly or elderberry in the forest.
Coll	of the Ogam, i.e. hazel in the forest.
Quert	of the Ogam holly in the forest, or quicken-tree or aspen-tree.
Muin	i.e. mead.

Ebad	i.e. elecampane.
Oir	i.e. spindle-tree.
Uilleann	i.e. honeysuckle.
Pin	of the Ogam, pine (?), again, in the forest. Hence are named the berries of pin. ⁴⁴ Ifin, again, secundum alios is the name of that letter.
Emancoll	again, i.e. Coll doubled according to fact or according to form, i.e. Coll across Coll in its form ⁴⁵ .

³⁸ Calder 1917: 275-7. Meroney (1949: 21-3) gives the names in this list (without full glosses) under the siglum IIb.

³⁹ Calder translates ginol garmna as 'maw of spear'; translation 'fork of a weaver's beam' is McManus's.

⁴⁰ For crand fir in the A4,5 glosses on edad and for crann fir in the A2,6 and B2,4 glosses on uilleann McManus suggests 'juniper'.

⁴¹ Calder translates gilcach as 'broom'; McManus suggests 'broom/reed'.

⁴² Calder translates draighen as 'thorn'; in the A2,4,5,6 and B2,4 glosses on Straif McManus translates it as 'blackthorn'.

⁴³ Calder translates ibhar as 'service-tree'; McManus translates it as 'yew-tree'.

⁴⁴ Calder translates caera pinne as 'gooseberries', which is followed by McManus in his suggested translation of pin: 'gooseberry?'.

⁴⁵ Coll is my insertion for Calder's c. Calder gives 'witch hazel' as a translation.

The sigla McM refer to passages in manuscripts listed in Table 3B, which McManus used in his 1988 study and are summarized in Table 20-2 to 11.

The sigla Mer are those of Meroney (1949: 21–3), as listed in Table 3C; IIb is the list from The Book of Ogams given in Table 20-12;

Ia and Ib are unglossed lists 27 and 26 from The Book of Ballymote, fol. 312, given in Table 20-13.

Acrophonic vegetal names (i.e. those with the same initial as the ogam character) are italicized.⁴⁷ Vegetal names used as ogam-names are marked #.

Acrophonic vegetal names introduced as glosses only in IIb, and promoted to actual ogam-names in Ib, are indicated in bold print.

A dash means that no recognizable vegetal name is present, either as an ogam-name or as a gloss.

⁴⁸ The name pin is counted as acrophonic, since the character may represent [p]. It is not clear whether the edad(h) and ida(dh) names are actually vegetal. The gloss on edad in A2,6 contains the name edadh, which may be a form of idath = (f)idath, while the gloss on edadh in B1,3,5 contains the phrase edadh isin caill [edadh (?)] in the wood].

Table 22 (b): The deployment of vegetal names from the tree-lists in the ogam-name lists

The sigla are as in Tables 20 and 21

Inclusion of an entry under a particular siglum indicates that a vegetal name from the tree-list is either used as the actual ogam-name (entry in bold) or employed in the gloss on the name (not bold).

The tree-list is from Aur. 4247–52, but with the aithig fedha placed before the aire fedha.

In other tree-lists, the spelling and the order of the trees are slightly different.

Table 25 (a): Summary of texts on (h)úath, the foilchesta and the forfeda in the Auraicept na nÉces and the tract De Dúilib Feda na Fored la Filedaib

The Auraicept line numbers are those given by Calder (1917).

Lines 1–2259 are from the version in the Book of Ballymote, lines 2260–5416 from that in the Yellow Book of Lecan. (Calder's collations have been slightly emended.)

The De Dúilib feda text is cited by Calder (lines 5417–63) from both the Book of Leinster and the Book of Ballymote.

The Roman numerals refer to the four books over which the texts are distributed in the Auraicept tract:

I, attributed to Cenn Faelad, II to Ferchertne, III to Amergen, IV to Fenius (see Calder 1917: xxvi).

(H)úath

- | | |
|-----------------|--|
| 432–35/2879–91 | I Use of H for aspiration (tinfedh) of B to give P; H is classed as a fuilled like forsail and arnin .
At 2884–85 Priscian is cited: ambo pro ampo, buscus pro puxus . |
| 765–70/4545–49 | II H marks aspiration (tinfedh), is not a letter; no examples given |
| 1228–31/4545–49 | IV H marks aspiration (tinfedh); examples are bracht , tracht and drucht , which are said to contain five letters only; H not being a letter.. |
| 1264–67/4322–34 | IV Use of H to mark lenition (sémigud) of final and initial consonants. |

The foilchesta

- | | |
|-----------------|--|
| 428–44/2873–902 | I the three foilchesta are listed beside the fuiti (see remark on húath , above); for a c before u a ceirt is to be chosen, for g after n a gedal , and for s before d a straiph .
At 2895 and 2898 the examples for c/q and ng, cuing/quing and uinge , include the forfid sign for ui (see 1285–90 below). |
| 1078–80/4011–7 | III géatal is the only one of the foilchesta , along with the last three of the forfeda , cited as signs for complex sounds for which Latin does not have single signs. |
| 1285–90 | IV NG (not named) is again the only one of the foilchesta cited as signs for complex sounds for which Latin does not have single signs; the examples are the same as at 2895 and 2898, but uinge is spelled unge , with a regular u. |

The forfeda

- | | |
|-------------------|--|
| 255–60/2565–70 | I five vowels extended to seven by first two forfeda : ea, oi. |
| 951–2 | II the vowels and forfeda signs (no values). |
| 3938–0 | II the forfeda are mentioned as a group (no signs or values). |
| 1055–7 | III forfeda as examples of sounds for which no signs are found outside Gaelic. |
| 1078–80/401–17 | III ullen , iphin and emancoll are cited, along with géatal , as signs for complex sounds for which Latin does not have single signs. |
| 1138/4229 | IV complete beithe-luis-nin , with the forfeda transcribed as ea oi ui io æ. |
| 1139–46 | IV seven vowels, said to have been by some to ten; all the forfeda are given as long vowels. |
| 4239–42 | IV only seven vowels are given the two forfeda transcribed as ea oi. |
| 1285–301/4387–419 | IV contrasts uses of ebad , edad , emancoll , iphin and idad . the passage at 4387–4419 is the more expansive. |
| 1359–66/4501–07 | IV the development of the forfeda according to the Auraicept Muman (for details, see text below). |
| 1367–74/4420–30 | IV alternative explanation of the forfeda : ebad and oir as long vowels, ullen as y or medial u, phin as p or medial i, and emancoll as x. |

Table 25 (b): The Auraicept Muman [Munster Auraicept] versions of the forfeda

The two versions of the text of the Auraicept Muman recorded at Aur. 1361–6 (from the Book of Ballymote) and 4503–06 (from the Yellow Book of Lecan), as given by Calder, differ significantly. The version at Aur. 1361–6 is translated by Calder but is confusing. The version at Aur. 4503–06 is not translated by Calder but makes better sense. Comparison of the two texts reveals that several phrases and clauses have been transposed in the Book of Ballymote version. Below, the Yellow Book of Lecan text has been provided with a translation and is taken as a basis for the numbering of phrases and clauses. The word fedha is not translated, because it appears to be used ambivalently for both ‘vowel’ and ‘letter’ in general.

Rune-names

Table 27 (a): Rune-names in manuscripts containing English fuborcs without the isruna tract

The order of rune-names in the St John's College manuscript does not reflect the order given in the manuscript but has been re-arranged in this table for ease of comparison. The same applies to the names given in all the manuscripts at the end of the fuborcs. Also, apart from the names listed here as nos 25 to 30, the names of a number of extra runes have been omitted; these are discussed in the text.

Table 27 (b): Rune-names in manuscripts containing English fuforcs with the isruna tract

The values are those of the majority of versions. The order of nos. 25 and 26 and the attribution of names differ from those of other fuforcs: the St Gall, Vatican and Trier versions put the f -rune first with name ac and value a, followed by the f -rune with name asc and value aa; the Brussels version reverses the order (see Derolez 1954: 129).

The order and attribution of names in the fuforcs in Table 27 (b) is: f -rune with name ac and value a, followed by f -rune with name asc and value æ.

Table 31: Texts and translations of the rune-poems

The following presentation of the Anglo-Saxon, Norwegian and Icelandic rune-poems is in no way intended to imply that the texts represent either original or definitive versions. They are the result of comparing and picking from various editions with the purpose of providing a basis for discussion of the perceived meanings of the rune-names. Variant readings and translations are given in the notes, but the choice of one particular variant for the main text does not necessarily mean that it is to be preferred over the one given in the notes. A choice has had to be made in order to provide a running text. In some cases the variants provide important information, which will be taken up in the course of the discussion of individual names.

For the Anglo-Saxon poem the basic text is that given by Hickes in his Thesaurus (for details, see below); for the Norwegian poem the versions of Árni Magnússon and Jón Eggertsson, as published by Page (2003b: 553–66), have been taken as a basis, with Ole Worm’s variants, while the text of the Icelandic poem is, with one or two exceptions, the redaction by Page (1998: 1–36), based largely on the manuscript versions in AM 687d 4to, AM 461 12mo and AM 749 4to.

The sources, and abbreviations used in the notes to the texts on the following pages, are:

Anglo-Saxon poem:

H: The copy of *London, British Library, Cotton Otho B. x in: George Hickes, Linguarum vett. septentrionalium Thesaurus grammatico-criticus et archaeologicus auctore Georgio Hiickesio. Oxoniæ, 1705, f°, 3 tomi: tom. 1, p. 135.

Norwegian poem:

A: Copenhagen, Kongelige Bibliotek, Donatione Variorum I. Barth. D , p. 818 (in the hand of Árni Magnússon); c. 1686–9.

J: Stockholm, Kungliga Biblioteket, Papp. fol.64, part IV, p. 74 (in the hand of Jón Eggertsson); c. 1686–7.

Wo: Ole Worm, RnHak seu Danica Literatura Antiquissima, Amsterdam, 1636: 105–7, (2nd ed. Copenhagen, 1651: 95–7).

All three texts as reproduced by Page 2003b: 553–66. Bauer (2003a: 118–9) gives a version of J, with alternative readings from A and Wo (2003a: 137–61).

Icelandic poem

A: Reykjavík, Stofnun Árna Magnússonar, AM 687d 4to, f. 1v; c. 1500.

B: Reykjavík, Stofnun Árna Magnússonar, AM 461 12mo, f. 15v; 1539–58.

C: Reykjavík, Stofnun Árna Magnússonar, AM 749 4to, f. 25v; s. xvii².

RJ: Runólfur Jónsson, Linguæ septentrionalis elementa tribus assortibus adstructa, Copenhagen, 1651, signatures B3v–4r.

All four texts as reproduced by Page 1998: 1–36. Bauer (2003a: 165–6) gives a version of A (based on Page), with alternative readings from B, C, RJ, et al. (2003a: 189–206).

Apart from Page (1998 and 2003b), the editions cited are:

G: Grimm 1821; Grei: Grein 1865; Wü: Wülker 1881; K: Kålund 1884–91; Wi: Wimmer 1887; D: Dickins 1915;

Grie: Von Grienberger 1921; Do: Dobbie 1942; Hal: Halsall 1981.

The Anglo-Saxon poem is, according to tradition, numbered by line; the half-lines are numbered a and b. The Norwegian and Icelandic poems by contrast are numbered by stanza; the first and second half-lines in the Norwegian version are numbered a and b, respectively, whereas in the Icelandic poem the paraphrases (‘kennings’) are numbered in sequence a, b and c, so that the first line contains paraphrases a and b, and the second line paraphrase c.

In the manuscript texts, the runes are usually given without the actual rune-names. In this table the names have been added between brackets after the transcriptions of the runes, and in the translations they are left untranslated.

1	Feoh is a comfort to all men; yet every man must distribute it freely if he wish to gain honour before the Lord.	1 Fé causes discord in the family; the wolf lives in the forest.	Fé is family strife and flood-tide's beacon and the path of the grave-fish.
4	Úr is resolute and has huge horns; a very dangerous beast, it fights with its horns; a glorious roamer of the moors, it is a proud creature.	2 Úr comes from bad iron; the reindeer often runs over frozen snow.	Úr is a cloud's tears and the destroyer of hay and a herdsman's loathing.
7	Dorn is cruelly sharp; to any thane the grasping of it is painful, immensely severe to any man who bides amongst them.	3 Purs causes anguish to women; misfortune makes few men happy.	Purs is torment of women and a cliff-dweller and Varðrún's mate.
10	Os is the origin of all speech, a pillar of wisdom and a comfort to wise men, and a blessing and a source of hope to every nobleman.	4 Óss is the way of most journeys; but a scabbard belongs to swords.	Óss is ancient Gautr and prince of Ásgarðr and ruler of Valhöll.

13 Rad is easy to anyone while indoors but very bold to anyone mounted on a stout steed on the highroads.	5 Ræið is said to be the worst thing for horses; Reginn (...) the finest sword.	Reið is joy of the seated and a swift journey and a horse's toil.
16 Cen is known to every living creature by its flame, shining and bright, most often burning where princes rest within.	6 Kaun is a sudden illness of children; death makes a corpse pale	Kaun is the scourge of children and a struggle and home to putrefaction .
19 Gyfu is a credit to men, bringing praise, dignity and honour, as well as a mercy and sustenance to any wretch devoid of aught else.
22 Wen he experiences who knows little suffering, pain and sorrow, and himself has his own prosperity and happiness, and also the cities' abundance.
<hr/> 14. hwæt is not known to refer to things (D.). Sense of rad is obscure. 16. cen only found as a rune-name. 22. wenne (from H.'s wen ne) construed as g.sg. of wen(n), governed by bruceb; 24. byrg geniht interpreted with Dobbie: "the abundance (characteristic) of cities"; D: "a good enough house".
5b. According to Wo: Raghn is the finest sword. (Raghn = name of sword). D et al. supply sló [forged]: "Reginn forged the finest sword." (Reginn = skilled smith). 6. 25	Hægl is the whitest of grains; it swirls from the vault of heaven, is whirled by gusts of wind, then turns to water.	7 Hagall is the coldest of grains; Christ created the world of old.	Hagall is cold grain and driving sleet and a sickness of serpents.
27	Nyd constrains the mind; yet even so it often becomes a source of help and salvation to the sons of men if they heed it in time.	8 Nauðr gives scant choice; a naked man is chilled by the frost.	Nauð is a maid's grief and oppressive conditions and soggy toil.
29	Is is exceedingly cold, immensely slippery; glittering as pure as glass, most like to gems, a floor wrought by frost, beautiful to behold.	9 Ís we call a broad bridge. the blind man must be led.	Íss is the bark of rivers and a wave's thatch and trouble for the doomed.
32	Ger is a delight to men, when God, the holy King of Heaven, suffers the earth to bring forth bright fruits for rich and poor.	10 Ár is a boon to men; I say that Froði was generous.	Ár is a boon to men and a good summer [and a fruitful field.]

35	Eoh is a tree with a rough bark, hard and fast in the earth, guardian of fire, well supported by its roots, a joy on the homestead.
38	Peorð is ever a source of sport and laughter to proud (.....) where warriors sit blithely together in the beer-hall.
41	Eolhx secg mostly has its habitat in a marsh; it grows in water and causes grievous wounds, staining with blood every man who lays a hand on it.
45	Sigel is ever a joy to seafarers as they journey hence over the fish's bath until the sea-steed brings them to land.	11 Sól is the light of the world; I bow to that which is holy.	Sól is the clouds' shield and a shining halo [and destroyer of ice.] . .

⁶⁵ The Greek and Latin letters in these columns do not appear in the manuscript.

⁶⁶ In the list of names, Gothic Ϛ is given the name quertra and placed in the position of the Latin letter Q, Greek ϕ. In the list of numerals, it is in the place normally occupied by the Greek Ϛ,Ϝ (stigma, digamma), and assigned the numeral 6; see also the note on Coptic ϖ/Gothic Ϛ below.

⁶⁷ Mees (2002–3: 65) compares Ψ to the Illerup double back-to-back þ (see Barnes 1984: 67).
