Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

The development of the speech production mechanism in young children : evidence from the acquisition of onset clusters in Dutch

Gulian, M.E.

Citation
Gulian, M. E. (2017, October 31). The development of the speech production mechanism in young children : evidence from the acquisition of onset clusters in Dutch. LOT dissertation series. Retrieved from https://hdl.handle.net/1887/57176

Version:	Not Applicable (or Unknown)
License:	Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden
Downloaded from:	https://hdl.handle.net/1887/57176

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle http://hdl.handle.net/1887/57176 holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation

Author: Gulian, Margarita
Title: The development of the speech production mechanism in young children : evidence from the acquisition of onset clusters in Dutch
Date: 2017-10-31

Curriculum Vitae

Margarita Gulian was born in Sofia, Bulgaria on the 8th of July of 1981. She attended language high school Saint Kiril and Methodius from 1994 to 2000 and studied Spanish philology at Sofia University Saint Kliment Ohridski from 2000 to 2001. She obtained her BA Spanish language and culture in 2004 at the University of Amsterdam. In 2007 she obtained her MA in Linguistics at the University of Amsterdam. The MA was part of a two-year research master, with special focus on second language perception. From 2007 to 2013 she worked on her PhD project "The development of the speech production mechanism in young children; Evidence from the acquisition of onset clusters in Dutch" at Leiden University. The PhD project was part of Claartje Levelt's Vidi project "A psycholinguistic model for phonological development". In 2015 Margarita obtained a teachers degree at the University of Amsterdam and is currently working as a Spanish teacher at Joke Smit College in Amsterdam.