

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Keeping corruption at bay: A study of the VOC's administrative encounter with the Mughals in seventeenth-century Bengal

Sur, B.

Citation

Sur, B. (2019, September 17). Keeping corruption at bay: A study of the VOC's administrative encounter with the Mughals in seventeenth-century Bengal. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/76854>

Version: Not Applicable (or Unknown)

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/76854>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Keeping Corruption at Bay

Printed by: ProefschriftMaken | | <https://www.proefschriftmaken.nl/nl/>

Cover image: Dutch factory with garden in Bengal, possibly the VOC-lodge Kasimbazaar, ca. 1665. On the left there is a tank with birds in water, on the right there is a garden. On the right above, there is a procession of a group of local people.
[Rijksmuseum Online Collection, Amsterdam No. SK-A-4283]

Keeping Corruption at Bay:

A Study of the VOC's Administrative Encounter with the Mughals in Seventeenth-Century Bengal

Proefschrift

ter verkrijging van de graad van Doctor aan de Universiteit Leiden, op gezag van Rector Magnificus prof.mr. C.J.J.M. Stolker, volgens besluit van het College voor Promoties te verdedigen op dinsdag 17 september 2019
klokke 16.15 uur

door

Byapti Sur
Leiden University
geboren te Chinsurah in 1989

Promotor

Prof. dr. J. J.L. Gommans

Copromotor

Dr. L.J. Wagenaar

Promotiecommissie

Prof. dr. M. van Groesen

Prof. dr. P. Malekandathil

Dr. J.C. Nierstrasz

Prof. dr. J.S. Pollmann

© Byapti Sur 2019

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, translated, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means without written permission from the author.

This Phd thesis is financed by the Erasmus Mundus Action 2: Interdisciplinary Bridges for Indo-European Studies (IBIES) Consortium, the Cosmopolis Research Project and the Institute for History, Leiden University.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

When I began this dissertation in 2013 at the University of Leiden, India was huffing under what Arundhati Roy called the ‘righteous rage’ of a large part of its citizens protesting against the corruption of its government. The subject of my research was a result of this momentum in Indian history, trying to explore the connections between India’s administrative present and past. During the course of my PhD in the Netherlands, however, I discovered new friends, a new language and an entirely new life in this society. Exciting as it may sound, not everything new was particularly easy and inviting. It made me think harder and deeper about the process of global encounters that eventually went on to shape my thoughts behind this dissertation and the words in it. I owe my gratitude to many who have helped me in different ways in these years and in my past to complete this work. My supervisors Prof. Jos Gommans and Dr. Lodewijk Wagenaar have helped me not only with supervision but also in meticulously correcting all mistakes with language, style and translations. I am also indebted to Dr. Alicia Schrikker who has helped me on several occasions and especially in the last phase of this work. Prof. Catia Antunes, Prof. Damian Pargas, Prof. Harbans Mukhia, Prof. Jeroen Duindam, Prof. Joy Pachau, Prof. Judith Pollmann, Prof. Leonard Blussé, Prof. Maaïke van Berkel, Prof. Manon van der Heiden, Prof. Najaf Haider, Prof. Nira Wickramasinghe, Prof. Peer Vries, Prof. Pius Malekandathil, Prof. Rajat Datta, Prof. Ranabir Chakravarti, Prof. Rila Mukherjee, Prof. Romila Thapar, Prof. Sudipta Sen, Dr. Adriaan van Veldhuizen, Dr. Arthur Weststeijn, Dr. Carolien Stolte, Dr. Chris Nierstrasz, Dr. Felicia Rosu, Dr. Gijs Kruijtzter, Dr. Hasan Colak, Dr. Herman Paul, Dr. Hugo s’ Jacob, Dr. Jeroen Touwen, Dr. Joost Augusteijn, Dr. Kim Beerden, Dr. Lennart Bes, Dr. Michiel Hoenderboom, Dr. Raymond Fagel, Dr. Ronald Kroeze, Dr. Sanjukta Sunderason, Dr. Suze Zijlstra and Dr. Tilottoma Mukherjee – thank you all for your comments, help and guidance at different stages of this work and in my academic career. René Wezel, Dr. Ton Harmsen and Lily Evers – thank you for teaching me Dutch. Marijke, a big thank you for going out of your way to be so nice to us. Ms. Manashi Dutta, you were the one who opened up the world of History for me in school, thank you for it. Thank you Archisman for letting me use your camera in the archives and thank you Frank Kanhai for all the help in the National Archives. Thank you COSMOPOLIS, IBIES, LUF, POSTHUMUS and the Institute for History for funding this work and other academic activities in several ways. Aditi, Anne, Aparajita, Bente, Chris, David, Edgar, Elisabeth, Erik, Girija, Guido, Jeanette, Joris, Joel, Kaarle, Kate, Larissa, Liesbeth, Mikko, Nielabh, Nori, Simon, Sonia, Tristan, Viola, Victor and everyone else I forgot to name here – thank you for all the inspiring conversations, comments and help that I got in these past years from you all. Thank you Arijita, Esther, Ingrid, Kanad, Maarten, Mahmood, Maithili, Mani, Paro, Tet, Sanne, Santy, Sourav, Muz, Vidya, Yuli and others who I cannot name here – I am grateful for having you all as friends who have been there for me always. I have learnt a lot from every one of you. Thanks Sandra, Adam, Clara, TJ and the entire team for being adorable colleagues in my other work life. Thank you, Baba, for the company, the support and for helping me with the books from India. Thank you Maa for being there for me. Bhai, every skype session or phone chat with you was a delight in between my writing; thanks for being such an adorable brother. Thank you Thaam for being so patient as to teach me to cook, something that I could make a living of for a short time to support my academics. Anneke and Frans, thank you for encouraging me during moments that I doubted myself. And thank you Sander, for everything and for being there while I was writing this dissertation.

CONTENTS

Introduction: The Politics of Administrative Corruption 4

Historiography 7

Conceptualising Corruption 12

Sources 21

Chapter Layout 24

Chapter 1

Allies in Political Lies: The Administrative World of the Seventeenth-Century Dutch Republic 27

Political Institutions 28

Patronage and Factions 36

Perceptions of Administrative Corruption 39

Debates on Corruption and Uses of its Allegations 45

The Political Use of Administrative Corruption 48

Politics and the Public 58

Conclusion 63

Chapter 2

The Company They Keep: Studying VOC Corruption in the Dutch Republic 65

The Organisation of the VOC 68

Factionalism in the VOC 80

Perceiving Corruption in the Company 84

Political Connections Behind Allegations of Corruption 92

Conclusion 106

Chapter 3

Where Desires Remain Untamed: Mughal Bengal and Its Administrative World in the Seventeenth-Century 107

The Appropriation of Bengal 108

The Mughal Administration 118

Administrative Practices in Mughal Bengal 122

The Mughal Administrative Theory in Ruling Bengal 141

Perceptions of Corruption in Mughal Bengal 149

Conclusion 155

Chapter 4

The ‘Corrupt’ and the ‘Incorrupt’: Written and Unwritten Dynamics of Mughal Bengal 158

The Company in Bengal 162

The Formal Face-Off 170

The Informal Dynamics 175

The Role of Corruption in Writing About Encounters 191

Conclusion 209

Chapter 5

Behind the Scenes: The Making of the Van Reede Committee in the Dutch Republic 212

Why this Committee? 216

The Financial Angle 224

The Political Backdrop 227

Ideology or Political Factionalism? 229

Factionalism in the Making of the Committee 237

Conclusion 245

Chapter 6

The Find: Politics of Corruption and the Committee in Action in Mughal Bengal 247

The Findings 251

Jan Pit and his Partners in Crime 259

The Case of the Director and his Wife 263

Writing on Corruption 269

Conclusion 281

Conclusion: Studying the VOC through its Corruption 284

Appendix 1 List of the stadhouders of Holland, Zeeland and Utrecht (as also of Overijssel and Gelderland) under the States-General 301

Appendix 2 List of Mughal emperors in the Mughal Empire (1526-1540; 1555-1857) 302

Appendix 3 List of Mughal subahdars in the subah Bengal 303

Appendix 4 List of the VOC directors in Bengal 304

Appendix 5 Factional Interplay behind the Van Reede Committee 306

Glossary of Dutch Administrative Terms 307

Glossary of Mughal Administrative Terms 309

List of illustrations 313

Bibliography 315

Nederlandse samenvatting/Dutch summary 338

Curriculum Vitae 342