Curriculum Vitae

Nurenzia Yannuar was born on January 15, 1984, in Malang, Indonesia. In 2001, she started her B.A in English Language and Literature from the University of Brawijaya Malang, and obtained the degree in 2006. In 2008, she received a Fulbright Scholarship to study in the United States. She graduated from Ohio University in 2010 with an M.A in Linguistics. In 2010 she became a faculty member at the linguistic program of English language and literature department, Faculty of Letters, Universitas Negeri Malang/State University of Malang. In September 2014, she started her PhD research at the Leiden University Centre for Linguistics (LUCL) funded by the DIKTI-Leiden Scholarship scheme. This dissertation is the result of that research.

At LUCL, she was a member and then the chair of the PhD Council. From September 2018 to January 2019, she co-taught a course in the BA program on the Description of East Javanese. From November 2018 to July 2019 she worked as a research assistant for Prof. Marian Klamer's VICI Project "Reconstructing the past through languages of the present: the Lesser Sunda Islands". From November 2019 to January 2020 she will be affiliated as a post-doc fellow to Dr. Tom Hoogervorst's NWO/VENI project "The language of popular culture", at the Royal Netherlands Institute of Southeast Asian and Caribbean Studies (KITLV).

During her stay in the Netherlands, she has taught Indonesian language courses for Dutch learners offered by the Indonesian Embassy. In addition, she taught and designed her own materials for Indonesian courses at the Language School of Indonesia Nederland Youth Society (INYS) in The Hague.
