ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

"Whoever you are...I have always depended on the kindness of strangers."
A Streetcar Named Desire

A heartfelt thanks to the NEXUS 1492 project, and its PIs, Corinne L. Hofman, Gareth Davies, and Willem Willems (+), for supporting this research. NEXUS 1492 received funding from the European Research Council under the European Union's Seventh Framework Programme (FP7/2007-2013) / ERC grant agreement n° 319209. Special appreciation must be expressed to my supervisor, Corinne Hofman and co-supervisors Andrzej Antczak and Jorge Ulloa Hung. Special acknowledgements must be given to Maribel Adame and Ilone de Vries for their untiring patience and support in project management.

I would foremost like to thank the people of Pueblo Viejo and La Vega who made this all possible, most especially archaeologists Frank and Pablo Coste, and the Park guides: Hipólito Abreu, Domingo, and Junior. At the Ministerio de Cultura de la República Dominicana, special thanks must be given to the Viceministerio de Patrimonio Cultural, specially Nerva Fondeur, Martha Roquel, Ana María Conde; the Dirección General de Patrimonio Monumental, specially Pierre Denis (+), Santiago Duval, and Edda Grullón; the Museo del Hombre Dominicano, specially Orli Peña, Christian Martínez, Glenis Tavares, and Harold Olsen.

Very special thanks to the Historical Archaeology Collection at the Florida Museum of Natural History, particularly Kathleen Deagan, Gifford Waters, and Charles Cobb. Special thanks are also given to Paul Losch at the Latin American and Caribbean Collection, and James Cusick at the Special and Area Studies Collections, both at the George A. Smathers Libraries at the University of Florida.

This dissertation was written in three countries, with the advice and support of various dear friends. In Leiden, thanks to the Antczak and Duin families. In Gainesville, to the Casa del Ritmo Crew, both physical and virtual, most especially to Rosana Resende and Antonio Tovar. Special gracias to the Guilamo family and allegados - particularly Altagracia, Pepi, John Demulain, and Efraín Barradas. In New York, special thanks to the Dominican Studies Institute (CUNY-DSI) for the opportunity to study at their library through the NSA Dominican Studies Fellowship. In Santo Domingo, this dissertation could not have been written without the support of two important neighbors, Il Cappuccino Restaurant, and the Biblioteca Juan Bosch (Funglode).

Last, but not least, a shoutout to my greatest supporters, my siblings, Tess and Roger; Martha Ellen Davis, for the generous use of her front room; and the 3 o'clock coffee ladies - Melania Brazoban, Vianela Vittini, Daisy Jimenez, Toni Russin, Mercedes Pimentel de Canalda, Vanesa Alvarez, and Rosa Elena Collado.

*It's perfectly fine if you don't believe in these "superstitions."
In fact, it's better than fine — it's perfect. Because no matter what you believe, fukú believes in you.*
