

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Diplomatic negotiation : essence and evolution

Meerts, P.W.

Citation

Meerts, P. W. (2014, November 4). Diplomatic negotiation : essence and evolution. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/29596>

Version: Corrected Publisher's Version

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/29596>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle <http://hdl.handle.net/1887/29596> holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation.

Author: Meerts, Paul Willem

Title: Diplomatic negotiation : essence and evolution

Issue Date: 2014-11-04

Diplomatic Negotiation

Diplomatic Negotiation

Essence and Evolution

PROEFSCHRIFT

ter verkrijging van
de graad van Doctor aan de Universiteit Leiden, op gezag van Rector magnificus prof. mr C.J.J.M. Stolker, volgens het besluit van het College voor Promoties te verdedigen op dinsdag 4 november 2014
klokke 16.15 uur

door

Paul Willem Meerts

geboren te 's-Gravenhage
in 1946

Promotiecommissie:*Promotores:

Prof. dr. A. van Staden

Prof. dr. I.W. Zartman (Johns Hopkins University, Washington D.C., USA)

Overige leden:

Prof. dr. N.M. Blokker

Prof. dr. M.O. Hosli

Prof. dr. J. Melissen (University of Antwerp, Belgium)

Prof. dr. N.J. Schrijver

Cover photo: bpk Photo Agency / Erich Salomon; source: De Vries and Hunter, 1963

Layout: Textcetera, Den Haag

Print: Gildeprint, Enschede

ISBN 978-94-610-8781-2

NUR 805

Copyright: P.W. Meerts / Clingendael Institute, The Hague 2014

pmeerts@clingendael.nl

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, translated, stored in a retrieval system of any nature, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronically, mechanically, by photocopying, microfilming, recording, or otherwise, without prior permission from the author.

Dedication: To my ancestors, who negotiated for survival.

Table of Contents

|                                                              |           |
|--------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| Preface                                               | 11 |
| Chapter I: Introduction and Disquisition              | 17 |
| The Architecture of International Negotiation         | 21        |
| Academics and Practitioners                                  | 22        |
| Parties and Interests                                        | 24        |
| Process and Power                                            | 27        |
| Bashing or Bargaining                                        | 29        |
| Approaches to International Negotiation               | 31        |
| Approaches from 'International Negotiation'                  | 32        |
| Approaches from Other Sources                                | 37        |
| In Conclusion                                         | 42        |
| PART ONE: THE NATURE OF DIPLOMATIC NEGOTIATION        | 45 |
| Chapter II: Aspects of Diplomatic Negotiation         | 47 |
| The Development of Diplomatic Negotiation             | 50        |
| The Problem of Establishing Outcomes                         | 53        |
| Changes over the Centuries                                   | 55        |
| Characteristics of Diplomatic Negotiation             | 57        |
| Conflict of Interest and Power Relationships                 | 59        |
| Inter-state Negotiations                                     | 61        |
| The Diplomat and Negotiation Behaviour                       | 63        |
| In Conclusion                                         | 65        |
| Chapter III: Process and Context                      | 67 |
| Boundaries in Bargaining                              | 71        |
| Geography: Bargaining Borders                                | 72        |
| Systems as Boundaries in Bargaining Processes                | 74        |
| Needs: the role of interests and positions                   | 75        |
| Resources: Human, Immaterial and Material                    | 76        |
| Regulators: Law, Procedures, and Diplomatic Norms and Values | 77        |
| The Time Factor                                              | 79        |
| Order through Organization                            | 80        |
| Regimes                                                      | 80        |
| Regimes and Negotiations                                     | 82        |
| Shifts in Multilateralism                                    | 84        |
| Coping with Challenges                                       | 85        |
| Possible Future Developments                                 | 87        |
| In Conclusion                                         | 88        |

|                                                                                        |                |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| Chapter IV: Entrapment in Negotiation                                           | 91      |
| Characteristics: Choice, Uncertainty, Investment, Repetition                    | 94             |
| Levels: Intrapersonal, Interpersonal, National, International                   | 101            |
| Factors: Planning, Information, Communication, Control                          | 106            |
| Case Study: Four Lessons                                                        | 110            |
| In Conclusion                                                                   | 113     |
| Chapter V: Negotiation and Warfare                                          | 115 |
| The utility of War and Words                                                           | 118            |
| Historical Background                                                                  | 119            |
| Commonalities                                                                          | 121            |
| Divergences                                                                            | 125            |
| Synergies                                                                              | 127            |
| Mediation                                                                              | 130            |
| In Conclusion                                                                   | 133     |
| PART TWO: THE CONDUCT OF DIPLOMATIC NEGOTIATION                             | 137 |
| Chapter VI: The Seventeenth Century: Forward- and Backward-Looking Outcomes | 139 |
| Parties and Positions                                                                  | 143            |
| Procedures and Processes                                                               | 148            |
| People and Posture                                                                     | 151            |
| Prevention and Prospectiveness                                                         | 157            |
| In Conclusion                                                                   | 161     |
| Chapter VII: The Eighteenth Century: Behaviour of Negotiators               | 163 |
| What was it about?                                                                     | 165            |
| The Political Context                                                                  | 167            |
| Pre-negotiations                                                                       | 169            |
| Negotiations                                                                           | 170            |
| Negotiators                                                                            | 172            |
| Other Congresses on Dutch Soil                                                         | 174            |
| The Peace of Utrecht in a Broader Perspective                                          | 175            |
| Past and Present: The Effective Negotiator                                             | 178            |
| In Conclusion                                                                   | 180     |
| Chapter VIII: The Nineteenth Century: Inclusiveness and Exclusiveness       | 183 |
| Choice                                                                                 | 187            |
| Context                                                                                | 190            |
| Counterparts                                                                           | 193            |
| Structure                                                                              | 199            |
| Conversations                                                                          | 202            |
| Convergence                                                                            | 206            |
| In Conclusion                                                                   | 212     |

|                                                                           |                |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| Chapter IX: The Twentieth Century: Reputation and ‘Egotiation’     | 217     |
| Closure of the First World War                                            | 222            |
| The Outer Ring                                                     | 223            |
| The Inner Ring                                                     | 224            |
| Opening and Closure of the Second World War                               | 228            |
| Munich, 1938                                                       | 229            |
| Yalta, 1945                                                        | 232            |
| During the Cold War                                                       | 234            |
| Vienna, 1961                                                       | 234            |
| Beijing and Moscow, 1972                                           | 236            |
| Geneva, 1985                                                       | 239            |
| In Conclusion                                                      | 240     |
| Chapter X: The Twenty-First Century: Structure and Negotiation | 243 |
| Uniqueness and Strength of the Organization                               | 246            |
| The Role of the Negotiation Process                                       | 247            |
| Characteristics of the EU as a Negotiations Arena                         | 249            |
| Member States in the EU Negotiation Process                               | 252            |
| Procedures of the EU Negotiation Process                                  | 254            |
| Institutions in the EU Negotiation Process                                | 254            |
| EU Enlargement and External Negotiations                                  | 261            |
| Strategies and Tactics in EU Negotiation Processes                        | 263            |
| The Future of the EU Negotiation Process                                  | 265            |
| In Conclusion                                                      | 268     |
| Chapter XI: Simulating Diplomatic Negotiation                  | 271 |
| Unilateral Lessons for Chairing                                    | 274     |
| Chairing in the European Union                                            | 276            |
| Effective Chairing                                                        | 278            |
| Bilateral Lessons for Practice                                     | 281     |
| The Nature of Negotiation in an OSI Context                               | 283            |
| Training for On-site Inspection Negotiations                              | 287            |
| CTBTO Table-Top Exercises: What Are They About?                           | 289            |
| CTBTO Table-Top Exercises: What Happened and Why?                         | 291            |
| Multilateral Lessons for Practice                                  | 295     |
| Substance                                                                 | 296            |
| Rules of the game                                                         | 298            |
| Processes and Outcomes                                                    | 300            |
| Comparable Games                                                          | 302            |
| In Conclusion                                                      | 303     |
| Chapter XII: Summary and Conclusions                           | 307 |
| The Nature of Diplomatic Negotiation                                      | 311            |
| The Conduct of Diplomatic Negotiation                                     | 315            |
| Cross-Cutting Findings: Actors, Factors, Process, Control          | 321            |
| Recommendations                                                           | 328            |

|                         |            |
|-------------------------|------------|
| Samenvatting     | 331 |
| Bibliography     | 341 |
| Glossary         | 367 |
| Acknowledgements | 371 |
| Curriculum Vitae | 375 |