

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle <http://hdl.handle.net/1887/25781> holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation

Author: Mol, A.A.A.

Title: the connected Caribbean : a socio-material network approach to patterns of homogeneity and diversity in the pre-colonial period

Issue Date: 2014-05-13

Caribbean

material networks island pre-colonial part Rico similar still site new cultural local Lesser islands people several much time often also region period indigenous place series means people mainland Antilles social islands early evidence Greater Bright even archaeological AD Rodriguez communities interaction larger node sites based humans animals BC early Saladoid regional first group Ramo ceramics one system human world perspective contact Cuba maritime case However present particular Antillean possible archaeological site one type based on model archaeology number nodes ties relations graph data centrality relational studies set type matrix

THE CONNECTED CARIBBEAN

A socio-material network approach to patterns of homogeneity and diversity in the pre-colonial period

Angus A. A. Mol

social objects networks culture humans society material exchange relations persons also Mauss human cacique political networks relations power network

being caciques status material community also see early pre-colonial example relations archaeological nodes interaction larger record based region theories groups period political model sites things material island found islands ties node like much culture set type cultural two communities around site distribution first social