Clinical aspects of recurrent venous thromboembolism

Melanie Tan MD

Cover illustration: Inukshuk is a stone monument made by Inuit people. They were a tool to communicate direction in the Arctic. Each stone is a separate entity. Each supports and is supported by the one above and the one below it. No one piece is any more or less important than another. Its strength lies in its unity.

CHAPTERS

Chapter 1	General outline and introduction	7
------------------	----------------------------------	---

PART I: DIAGNOSTIC MANAGEMENT OF RECURRENT VENOUS THROMBOEMBOLISM

Chapter 2	Diagnostic management of clinically suspected acute deep vein thrombosis	17
Chapter 3	Clinical predictors of confirmed venous thromboembolism in patients with a suspected recurrent venous thromboembolism	45
Chapter 4	High percentage of non-diagnostic compression ultrasonography results and the diagnosis of ipsilateral recurrent proximal deep vein thrombosis	63
Chapter 5	Magnetic resonance direct thrombus imaging of the evolution of acute deep vein thrombosis of the leg	73
Chapter 6	Magnetic resonance direct thrombus imaging differentiates acute recurrent ipsilateral deep vein thrombosis from residual thrombosis	87

PART II: TREATMENT DURATION AFTER A RECURRENT VENOUS THROMBOEMBOLISM

Chapter 7	Recurrence risk after limited duration of anticoagulant treatment for late second venous thromboembolism	103

PART III: RISK OF RECURRENCE AFTER A FIRST VENOUS THROMBOEMBOLISM

Chapter 8	Residual venous thrombosis as predictive factor for recurrent venous thromboembolism in patients with proximal deep vein thrombosis: a systematic review	121
Chapter 9	Interobserver reliability of compression ultrasonography for residual thrombosis after first unprovoked deep vein thrombosis	141
Chapter 10	Incidence of recurrent venous thromboembolism in a defined population	159
Chapter 11	Early complication rates among patients treated for upper extremity thrombosis: A meta-analysis and systematic review	173
Chapter 12	Discussion and summary	187
Chapter 13	Dutch summary	195
