

A grammar of Abui: A Papuan language of Alor Kratochvíl, F.

Citation

Kratochvíl, F. (2007, May 30). A grammar of Abui: A Papuan language of Alor. LOT dissertation series. LOT, Utrecht. Retrieved from https://hdl.handle.net/1887/11998

Version: Not Applicable (or Unknown)

License: License agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: https://hdl.handle.net/1887/11998

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Stellingen

behorende bij het proefschrift

A grammar of Abui, A Papuan language of Alor

van

František Kratochvíl

- 1. Although it has incorporated some features of the Austronesian languages surrounding it, Abui clearly belongs to the Trans New Guinea family.
- In Abui, there is a strong parallel between the Noun Phrase and the Verb Phrase.
- 3. In Abui, pronouns can only refer to specific referents.
- 4. Languages with semantic alignment have fewer verbs.
- 5. The function of generic verbs corresponds largely to that of adpositions in other languages except that they are verbs.
- 6. It is natural for speakers to extend the use of demonstratives from the spatial to the temporal dimension.
- 7. Native speakers often find linguist's questions dull and doubt the quality of education that the linguist in question received.
- 8. Understanding of a problem creates more problems.
- 9. Chewing betel nut is benefical for one's dental and mental health.
- 10. On average, it takes about twenty minutes to walk from any place in a Dutch town to the train station.