ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

All praises to Allah Almighty who created the universe and knows whatever is in it, hidden or evident, and who bestowed upon me the intellectual ability and wisdom to search for its secrets.

Starting from the beginning, I want to thank the Higher Education Commission (HEC) of Pakistan, whose scholarship showed me the way to the Clusius lab in Leiden. There I got an acceptance from Prof. Dr. Johan Memelink, who opened the doors of his lab and to whom I am thankful for the opportunity to learn science in Leiden. The Netherlands Organization for International Cooperation in Higher Education (NUFFIC) is greatly acknowledged for managing my scholarship and health insurance during my stay in the Netherlands.

I feel much pleasure in expressing my heartiest gratitude to my ever-affectionate supervisor Dr. Huub Linthorst for his dynamic and friendly supervision and whose inspiring attitude made it very easy to undertake this project. It was only through his guidance that my efforts were fruitful.

I express my heartiest and sincerest gratitude to my lab colleagues Marcel, Ana, Hongtao, Dr. Guillaume, Dr. Fang, Meiliang, Karel, Dalia, Kaixuan and Yingjie for their valuable suggestions, sympathetic attitude, and work discussions during the course of my studies. Some experiments would not have been possible without the technical help of the very experienced professionals Ward and Gerda. I especially appreciate your help to turn long hours of work into a very pleasant experience.

To me, there is nothing better than having good friends, so great pride is with me while thanking my friends in and outside Leiden: Aamir Aslam, Aamir Bhai, Farooq, Imran, Kashif, Khurram, Majid, Muzamal, Nadeem, Qammar, Shabaz, Soban Bhai, Sohail, Tariq Bhai, Yahya, and Waseem Bhai. I would like to thank all the Pakistani families in Leiden for their friendly company and for offering nice dishes away from home. Special thanks to Hasnain Bhai for his care in and outside the lab and to his wife for taking care of all the good food. I want to say special thanks to my all-time blooming flowers, Muhammad Khurshid, Muhammad Tayyab Akhtar and Zeshan Hassan for their good wishes, inspiring and excellent cooperation and encouraging attitude. When back in Pakistan, I would like to thank Jam Tayyib, Mian Mehmood, Adnan Akhter, Qaiser Farid and Ikram Anwar for their true and long lasting friendship.

Words are lacking to express my humble obligation for my affectionate sisters for their sacred prayers and gracious behavior. I would like to say special thanks to my special friend in the USA for nice and valuable gossips, caring and cheering behave, and ever ready smiling face.

Last but certainly not least, deepest appreciations are extended to my beloved Parents, for my success is really the fruit of their devoted prayers and encouragement. I am greatly indebted and submit my earnest thanks to my brother, Jawad. May Almighty Allah bless them with good health and prosperous long lives and be a source of prayer for me.
