CURRICULUM VITAE

Antoine Christian Buyse was born in The Hague on 16 June 1977. He attended the Christelijk Gymnasium Sorghvliet, where he graduated in 1995. He obtained a master's degree in history (cum laude) at Leiden University in 2000. He wrote his master's thesis on the astronomer Johannes Kepler and the scientific ideals of the seventeenth century and was awarded the Fruin Prize for the best historical thesis of that year. In 2001 he received the certificate of international law at the same university. From 2002 to 2007 he was a junior lecturer and researcher at the department of Public Law of Leiden University where he specialised in human rights law. In 2006 he conducted part of his Ph.D. research at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law in Heidelberg and at the University Centre of International Humanitarian Law in Geneva. Since November 2007 he has been a lecturer and researcher at the Netherlands Institute of Human Rights (SIM) at Utrecht University. He is also co-founder and board member of the Dutch NGO Critical Mass, which aims to convey academic insights on human rights and conflict theory to students and other young people.
