Curriculum Vitae

Martine Bruil was born on the 31st of August 1982 in Doetinchem. After attending the Ulenhof College in Doetinchem from 1994 to 2000, she spent a year in Ibarra, Ecuador, studying at the Colegio Sagrado Corazón de Jesús as an exchange student. In 2001, she began studying 'Languages and Cultures of Latin America' at Leiden University. She was awarded her doctorandus degree in 2006. In the same year, she started the research master program 'Linguistics: Structure and Variation in the Languages of the World' at the same university and one year later, in 2007, she began the master program 'Languages and Cultures of Indigenous America.' She wrote her master thesis on converbs in Ecuadorian Spanish and Quichua. She obtained both master's degrees in 2008 and she became a PhD student at the Leiden University Centre for Linguistics in the framework of the research programme 'The Nature of Evidentiality' funded by the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research and headed by Prof.dr. J.E.C.V. Rooryck and Prof.dr. W.F.H. Adelaar. During her PhD study, she obtained a small grant from the Hans Rausing Endangered Languages Programme (SG0067) in order to document Ecuadorian Siona. This dissertation is the result of Martine Bruil's PhD research on Ecuadorian Siona.
