

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Emancipation in postmodernity : political thought in Japanese science fiction animation

Nakamura, M.

Citation

Nakamura, M. (2017, March 14). Emancipation in postmodernity : political thought in Japanese science fiction animation. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/46672>

Version: Not Applicable (or Unknown)

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/46672>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle <http://hdl.handle.net/1887/46672> holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation

Author: Nakamura, Mari

Title: Emancipation in postmodernity : political thought in Japanese science fiction animation

Issue Date: 2017-03-14

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis could not have been written without the encouragement, support, and guidance of a number of people. First and foremost, I owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to my three supervisors, Chris Goto-Jones, Florian Schneider, and Katarzyna Cwiertka for their solicitude, intelligence, and generosity. Chris and Florian played a crucial supervisory role in formulating this project. Chris not only introduced me to the field but also constantly gave me unwavering guidance and support, both intellectually and personally. Florian has always pushed me to think in more nuanced and sophisticated ways with his painstaking, critical and invaluable comments. I am also deeply grateful to Kasia for her vital support in helping to carry the project through the final stage. I thank my colleagues on the Beyond Utopia project, Carl Li and Martin Roth, for their input and stimulating discussions; Esther Truijen and Roxy van Beek for all their generous support.

This research has benefited from the financial support of Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) and the institutional support from the Leiden University Institute for Area Studies. I extend my thanks to the LIAS, especially, José Brittijn, Rogier Busser, Maghiel van Crevel, Ine Goedegebuur, Frank Pieke, and Wilma Trommelen for their generous support.

In each stage of my graduate studies, colleagues and friends influenced and enhanced my intellectual growth and personal life. My very special thanks go to Edmund Frettingham for reading the complete manuscript and his numerous valuable comments and input. Many thanks to Ra'id Aljamali, Mathilda Banfield, Lindsay Black, Young Chul Cho, Crystal Ennis, Beatrix Futák-Campbell, Menno Fitski, Nozomi Goto, Erik Herber, George Hoare, Harriet Impey, Michelle Johnson, Jerry Kuo, Paramita Paul, Limin Teh, Sally Turner, Sophia Tung, Jue Wang, and Bryce Wakefield for being good colleagues and trusting friends. You have all been more than generous with your time, making my experiences of living and working in Leiden interesting, fun, and productive. Your support gave me the courage to continue.

Many scholars and colleagues I have met at various occasions have affected, directly and indirectly, my thinking and writing. I would particularly like to thank Bart Barendregt, Jaqueline Berndt, Yung-mau Chao, Cissie Fu, Sheuo Hui Gan, L.H.M. Ling, Tak-Wing Ngo, Peter Pels, Chih-yu Shih, and the participants of the LIAS PhD and Postdoc seminar. I am grateful for your guidance, inspiration and encouragement. I also owe much to the reviewers of this thesis who put in their time, providing important insights and critiques.

Last but not least, my family has been my source of support. I thank especially my sister Rika, my parents, my mother-in-law and my husband Jay for all your boundless care. Without your love and encouragement, I could not have completed this thesis.

TABLE OF FIGURES

Figure 1 Conversation between android Sammy and her human master Rikuo (left: Sammy; right: Rikuo). Screen capture from Time of Eve .	99
Figure 2 Conversation between Akiko and Rikuo in the café. Screen capture from Time of Eve .	100
Figure 3 Nagi (left) speaks to Rikuo (right) about Rikuo's family android Sammy. Screen capture from Time of Eve .	101
Figure 4 "Do you eat machine-made tomato?" Anti-robot campaigns are everywhere: On the TV (left) and the street (right). Screen capture from Time of Eve .	103
Figure 5 Mass media features Android-holics or Dori-kei as a social problem. Screen capture from Time of Eve .	104
Figure 6 Close-ups of Rikuo (left) and Rina (right) depict an affinity between them during the conversation. Screen capture from Time of Eve .	107
Figure 7 Uneven camera angles (low and high angles) depict the distance and uneasy atmosphere between the two characters. Screen capture from Time of Eve .	108
Figure 8 Tex is listening to Masaki's words (left); a flashback of Masaki's memory with Tex (right). Screen capture from Time of Eve .	109
Figure 9 Rikuo and café regulars imagine the possibilities of new human-android relationships (left); Masaki agrees with Rikuo (right). Screen capture from Time of Eve .	110
Figure 10 Visualized Psycho-Pass. Screen capture from Episode 13, Psycho-Pass television animation series.	125
Figure 11 The Dominator. Screen capture from Episode 1 (left) and Episode 5 (right), Psycho-Pass television animation series.	126
Figure 12 Cityscape in noir style. Screen capture from Episode 1, Psycho-Pass television animation series.	128
Figure 13 Crime scene in the dark. Screen capture from Episode 1, Psycho-Pass television animation series.	129
Figure 14 Characters in black (left to right: Karanomori Shion, Kagari Shūsei, Kunizuka Yayoi, Kōgami Shinya, Tsunemori Akane, Ginoza Nobuchika, Masaoka Tomomi). Screen capture from the ending title sequence of Psycho-Pass television animation series.	130
Figure 15 Cityscape with and without hologram (left: orderly city; right: ruined district). Screen capture from Episode 2 (left) and Episode 10 (right) Psycho-Pass television animation series.	130

Figure 16 Hologram hacking and distorted space. Screen capture from Episode 5, Psycho-Pass television animation series.	131
Figure 17 The latent criminal Yayoi in the padded cell. Screen capture from Episode 12, Psycho-Pass television animation series.	132
Figure 18 Akane's personal assistant Candy. Screen capture from Episode 2, Psycho-Pass television animation series.	134
Figure 19 Imaginary dialogues in a train carriage during sunset represent Shinji's internal argument. Screen capture from Episode 19, Evangelion television animation series.	146
Figure 20 Shinji's inner struggle: to kill or not to kill Kaworu. Screen capture from Episode 24, Evangelion television animation series.	146
Figure 21 Shinji's existential crisis. Screen capture from Episode 26, Evangelion television animation series.	148
Figure 22 Savage EVA-01 emerges from the Angel with sphere. Screen capture from Episode 16, Evangelion television animation series.	151
Figure 23 Simple and abstract images with texts depict Shinji's inquiry of freedom. Screen capture from Episode 26, Evangelion television animation series.	152
Figure 24 Two spaces: battlefield (left) and Olympus (right). Screen capture from Appleseed .	163
Figure 25 Attractive characters (Deunan, Hitomi and Yoshitsun, top from left to right) and less attractive characters (General Uranus and the Elders, bottom from left to right). Screen capture from Disc 2 bonus track Character Gallery, Appleseed .	168
Figure 26 Deunan rejects human essentialism, Deunan (left), Uranus (right). Screen capture from Appleseed .	170
Figure 27 Deunan rejects posthuman essentialism, Deunan (left), The Elders (right). Screen capture from Appleseed .	171
Figure 28 Remained skyscrapers in Olympus: the struggle, the new race and hybridity. Screen capture from Appleseed .	173

