Introduction

Postage stamps and related objects are miniature communication tools, and they tell a story about cultural and political identities and about artistic forms of identity expressions. They are part of the world’s material heritage, and part of history. Ever more of this postal heritage becomes available online, published by stamp collectors’ organizations, auction houses, commercial stamp shops, online catalogues, and individual collectors. Virtually collecting postage stamps and postal history has recently become a possibility. These working papers about Africa are examples of what can be done. But they are work-in-progress! Everyone who would like to contribute, by sending corrections, additions, and new area studies can do so by sending an email message to the APH editor: Ton Dietz (dietzaj@asc.leidenuniv.nl). You are welcome!

British trade with East Africa developed in the 1840’s and by 1875 dominated the region around Mombasa. In May 1887 The British East Africa Company under Sir William Mackinder secured formal lease of the coastal region from the Sultan of Zanzibar.

The British East Africa Company was granted a Royal Charter in 1888 with postage stamps being issued in 1890.

Sir Frederick Lugard arrived in Uganda in December 1890. He secured treaties with local rulers which allowed the British East Africa Company to open up the territory. Following severe financial difficulties the possessions of the British East Africa Company were taken over by the British Government stamps being issued for British East Africa Protectorate and Uganda Protectorate in 1895.

Administrations of the territory were merged in 1901 and in 1903 stamps were issued for East Africa and Uganda Protectorates.

The British occupied Mafia Island in 1915 and the Nyasa Rhodesian Force were engaged in German East Africa which surrendered in 1918. In 1916 Nyasaland stamps were overprinted N.F. and between 1917 and 1922 stamps of East Africa and Uganda were overprinted G.E.A. for use in the occupied territories. The treaty of Versailles (1919) assigned German East Africa renamed Tanganyika as a British Mandate, in 1922 stamps for Tanganyika were issued.

East Africa Protectorate was renamed Kenya in 1920. The combined administration of Kenya and Uganda issued stamps in 1922.

Postal systems of the three territories were brought together in 1933. In 1935 stamps for Kenya Uganda and Tanganyika were issued. The three territories remained linked until gaining independence, Kenya (1963), Uganda (1962) and Tanganyika (1961).

Following independence the East African Posts and Telecommunications Corporation issued stamps inscribed Kenya Uganda and Tanganyika (1965-1976) these were valid in all three territories. The United Republic of Tanganyika and Zanzibar formed in 1964 was renamed the United Republic of Tanzania stamps being inscribed Tanzania. Postal co-operation continued until 1978 with commemorative stamps of the same designs issued by each territory.
According to James Mackay’s “The Story of East Africa and its stamps” (London: Philatelic Publishers Ltd, 1970, p. 29) the postal history of East Africa starts in the early years of the seventeenth century: “A Portuguese governor was installed in Mombasa in 1592 and official correspondence between that town and the outside world has been recorded from 1610 onwards, carried by ship to Arabia and India and transmitted to Europe by the overland route. Early letters from the interior date from about 1848, when the missionaries sent their correspondence by native runners to the coast for onward transmission. By 1877 letters from the coast were taken north to Aden by ships of the British Steam Navigation Company. The system of mail runners was developed and expanded by the British East Africa Association while individual traders and concessionaires organized their own service. That organized by the [German] brothers Denhardt at Witu even enjoyed the use of distinctive postage stamps in 1889-90… A regular postal service in British East Africa was introduced in May 1890 and post offices were opened in Mombasa, Kilindini-Mombasa and the island of Lamu”.

Imperial British East Africa Company

!Imperial British East Africa Company flag

“Britain had interests in this area as early as 1824. Missionaries are known to have settled in the area in 1844. The Imperial British East Africa Company obtained a concession in 1887 to administer this area, from Sultan Bargash of the Sultanate of Zanzibar. The company started to experience financial difficulties in 1891. The situation was made more difficult in 1892 when Britain declared the Sultanate of Zanzibar part of the Congo Free Trade Zone and thus depriving the company of import duties...On 1 July 1895, the British government took over the administration of this area when the company was facing bankruptcy”. “The Imperial British East Africa Company was the first company holding a Royal Charter allowing operation of a postal system, for both local and international mail, to use their company name on their stamps. They were also the first to create a series of surcharged stamps with authorizing initials. Both of these led to the adoption of these practices by other countries such as the British South Africa Company and the Mozambique Company in 1892 and the surcharged Uganda typewritten stamps in 1895... The Imperial British East Africa Company set up post offices at Mombasa and Lamu in May 1890... The first stamps issued, on 23 May 1890, were surcharges on British postage stamps with values of ½, 1 and 4 annas and 'BRITISH EAST AFRICA COMPANY'. During an acute shortage of stamps in August and September 1890 stamps of India were used and are known postmarked 'MOMBASA' or 'LAMU'. It is alleged that an agent of stamp dealer Whitfield King bought up all the stocks in the post offices... The British East Africa Company issued stamps, on 14 October 1890, using a symbolic sun and crown design and inscribed 'IMPERIAL BRITISH EAST AFRICA COMPANY', all valued in annas and rupees. Shortages, of some values, between 1891 and 1895 resulted in a variety of surcharges being produced”.

“The British East Africa Company first establishes itself, through treaties with the sultan of Zanzibar, in the coastal region, from the border with German East Africa to Kipini further north – the region is part of the sultanate of Zanzibar. In 1890, when Zanzibar becomes a British protectorate, this region is also put under British government protection as the protectorate of Kenya. The protectorate of Kenya will be administered as part of British East Africa and later Kenya but retains its status as protectorate until it is transferred to Kenya after independence in 1963.” “Also, in 1890, Witu is transferred to the British. Witu has been a German protectorate from 1885 but becomes part of the British sphere of influence in 1890, based on the treaty signed in that year with Germany. The British East Africa Company, from its base in Mombasa, extends its activities along the coast to the border with the Italian sphere of influence in the north and to Lake Victoria in the west and, from 1890, across Lake Victoria further inland into Uganda. However, as the British East Africa Company does not manage to show a profit, it is forced to transfer its rights to the British government: in Uganda in 1893 and in the rest of British East Africa in 1895. The British subsequently form the protectorates of Uganda and British East Africa in 1894 and 1895 respectively”.

Pre-stamp era

“The early missionaries in British East Africa sent letters by runner to forwarding agents in Zanzibar. Letters are known from as early as 1848. From 1875 mail was sent via the Indian post office which had been opened in Zanzibar” (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Postage_stamps_and_postal_history_of_British_East_Africa).

Post Office following the purchase of the Mombasa stock from the first issue by Whitfield King & Co. The 1890 Easter Telegraph Company Limited printed envelope features a anna blue-green, 1 anna plum, 2 anna blue, 8 anna dull mauve and 1 rupee slate, resulting in a total of 51 annas, which would pay 11 times the 4 anna rate to the UK.”.

The Eastern Telegraph Co. was laying underwater cable between Mombasa and Lamu during this time and just previous had the same between Zanzibar and Mombasa”.

On 23 May 1890 The Imperial British East Africa Company started to issue postage stamps in the area under its trade influence, from Mombasa on the Kenyan Coast towards inland territories. It used official stamps of Great Britain (with Queen Victoria) and there were three values (in British-Indian currency).

Post offices (with their cancellations) existed in Lamu and Mombasa. Not in Kipini, or Witu.

http://www.paulfrasercollectibles.com/upload/public/docimages/Image/y/c/h/British-East-Africa-Stamp-410.jpg: “Printed in 1895, the stamp originates from the Imperial British East Africa Company’s administration in the area that is now Kenya. The company was the first to hold a royal charter that allowed the operation of a postal system using the company name on its stamps, as well as the first to have a series of surcharged stamps with authorising initials. The stamp at auction is one such surcharge, sporting a one anna “TECR” initialed overprint. Originating from a provisional issue in February 1895, the surcharge was presumably added due to a shortage of one anna stamps at the time - a problem that affected the region’s postal system from 1891 to 1895. The 3 anna was issued just a few months before the Imperial British East Africa Company’s administration in the area was brought to an end in July 1895, and the remaining stamps were overprinted with British East Africa. The following year, a series of stamps with the familiar image of Queen Victoria were issued and the protectorate joined the Universal Postal Union”, and “It is one of just five unused examples of its kind in existence and is undoubtedly among the finest, despite its poor centering”.

Notes: (1). The stamps with black handstamp are thought to have been issued by early 1891, since they are presumed to predate the Mombasa provisional (R31 below), which almost certainly belongs to the first half of that year. The earliest recorded usage of the violet handstamp issue is a 4-anna stamp cancelled 29 January 1892. (2). The black handstamp is frequently found sideways or diagonal on the small format stamps, reading either up or down. The violet handstamp is normally close to horizontal on all values. Gibson notes that the black overprint is slightly larger than the violet and suggests that they were applied from different offices, though in my view the (very small) difference can easily be explained by the black ink diffusing more than the violet. (3). A postally used set (missing the 8a and 1r grey) is known on three philatelic covers from Mombasa to Paris dated 23 April 1895. The set consists of the black handstamp on the 1a, 8a, 2r, 3r and 4r, and the violet handstamp on the ½a, 2a to 4½a, 1r and 5r. Postal cancels of Lamu, Melindi and Mombasa are also known on loose stamps of this issue, probably representing philatelic use. (4). Forbin lists the 3a as having been handstamped in black as well as violet, and Morley lists the 3r with violet handstamp inverted. I have not seen either of these. (5). Barefoot lists the 2½a, 4½a, 8a grey and 1r grey as being handstamped in black not violet, which suggests that he may have simply miscoded the overprint colours. He also lists the overprint on a ½a grey-violet, though no ½a stamp was ever printed in that colour.”

Sunburst type handstamped INLAND REVENUE in black as R1/10 above, with surcharge '1 Anna' and initials 'AB' added in manuscript. R31. 1a on 4a yellow-brown Note: The initials are those of Archibald Brown, the Cashier of the Imperial BEA Company, who was one of the signatories of the Mombasa Provisional postage stamps (SG 21, 23/4, 26). The handstamp and the manuscript surcharge on R31 appear to have been carefully arranged to fit on the stamp, suggesting that handstamp and surcharge were applied at the same time. This would put this issue in the stamp shortage period of early 1891.”.
1891? Provisionals? Sunburst types either with or without previous INLAND REVENUE handstamp, now handstamped 'Re 2', possibly a provisional surcharge of 2 rupees. a) Without INLAND REVENUE handstamp. R41. ½a dull brown; R42. 1a blue-green; R43. 4a yellow-brown; R44. 4½a dull violet; R45. 8a blue; R46. 2r brick-red; R47. 3r slate-purple; R48. 5r grey-green.

R51/53. b) Handstamped INLAND REVENUE in violet. R51. 3a black on dull red; R52. 1r carmine; R53. 4r ultramarine. Note: until now it was presumed that 'Re 2' in this handstamp refers to a new value (2 rupees), though if this is the case, it is not clear why the surcharge is found on the 2-rupee stamp. It is also perhaps worth noting that the 'Re' part of the handstamp cannot be discerned on R51/53, and may in fact be absent. One possibility is that 'Re' is in fact an abbreviation for 'Revenue', and was therefore not required on stamps already overprinted to this effect. The significance of the '2' might then be 2 annas, since no 2-anna stamp is known handstamped in this way.

German ‘phantom stamps’ for Lamu

Germany also had a post office in Lamu between 1888 and 1891 (see APH 17-5: Postmarks East Kenya). However, some ‘phantom stamps’ exist as well.
