

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Child maltreatment in Vietnam : prevalence, risk factors, and consequences

Tran Kieu, N.

Citation

Tran Kieu, N. (2017, December 12). Child maltreatment in Vietnam : prevalence, risk factors, and consequences. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/59478>

Version: Not Applicable (or Unknown)

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/59478>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The following handle holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation:
<http://hdl.handle.net/1887/59478>

Author: Tran, Kieu N.

Title: Child maltreatment in Vietnam : prevalence, risk factors, and consequences

Issue Date: 2017-12-11

CURRICULUM VITAE

Nhu Kieu Tran was born on May 19th 1979 in Hanoi, Vietnam. She graduated from Hanoi University and received her Bachelor's degree in Pharmacy in 2002. From 2002 to 2009, she practiced as a pharmacist and research assistant in Hanoi, Vietnam. In 2009 and 2010, she acquired her Master's degree in International Course in Health Development at the VU University in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, and graduated "with merit". After graduation, she has been working as a senior researcher at the Institute of Population, Health, and Development in Hanoi, Vietnam. In 2013, she was granted a scholarship from the Netherlands Fellowship Programmes to perform her PhD study on child maltreatment at the Centre of Child and Family Studies at Leiden University, the Netherlands. During her PhD trajectory, she was trained as an intervener of the Strongest Families intervention, a Canadian parenting program on distance for parents of children with mental health problems. This dissertation presents the results of her PhD study in the Netherlands.