ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Third Avant-garde was developed between 2012 and 2017 in several locations and involved a considerable number of people to whom I would like to express my gratitude.

In Leiden, I am deeply grateful to my supervisors, Prof. Dr. Kitty Zijlmans and Prof. Dr. Pieter ter Keurs whose expertise in art history and anthropology was of utmost importance for this project. I am grateful for their guidance, encouragement and the trust demonstrated throughout these years. I would also like to express my gratitude to the LUCAS institute, the KITLV, the IIAS, the Volkenkunde Museum, my neighbors, and all the friends and colleagues I met.

In Lisbon, I would like to thank my family and especially my mother, Celina Veiga de Oliveira, for her unfailing support. My thanks also to Prof. Dr. António Hespanha, Prof. Dr. Fernando António Baptista Pereira, and Prof. Dr. Joaquim Paes de Brito for encouraging me to pursue this research in Leiden. I also want to thank Prof. Dr. Fernando Rosa Dias for being a great colleague at the Fine Arts School, and for involving me in its activities. I am indebted to the Orient Foundation in Lisbon, and its President, Carlos Monjardino, for the generous support regarding this PhD. I am equally indebted to Dr. Nuno Oliveira for promptly assisting with my health problems wherever I was, and for Sr. Soares de Almeida's outstanding expertise in publication skills.

I would like to thank the availability of some scholars: Prof. Dr. Michael Leach, Prof. Dr. Adrian Vickers, Prof. Dr. James Elkins, Prof. Dr. Scarlet Manton and Prof. Dr. Kathy Foley. I would like to thank Prof. T. K. Sabapathy, Jim Supangkat, and Valentine Willie for their very useful recommendations. I am equally grateful to Dr. Thomas Berghuis and Dr. Amanda Katherine Rath for their valuable insights. I thank all the artists I met, visited, and interviewed extensively for their time and interest in my work, as well as gallerists and collectors for guiding my process. My deep gratitude to all the libraries and institutions that supported my research, especially the National Library in Singapore, the Arts Library at UCLA, USC and the LACMA, in Los Angeles. I also want to thank the Editorial Team of the Southeast of Now and the Timorese scholars for showing interest in my work which resulted in several publications, and the Fukuoka Asian Art Museum for their outstanding archive which resolved some last-minute questions.

I want to thank Thomas Henri for being the first person I discussed my theory with and for encouraging me to pursue it. I would like to thank all those that assisted me with their friendship and hospitality in this global journey:

Nuno Vasco Oliveira and Tiago Guerra in Timor-Leste, Graça Saraiva and André Couto in Macau, Christine Cocca in Yogyakarta, Paul Khoo in Singapore, Ibu Mimis Katoppo and Ibu Tamalia Alisjahbana in Jakarta, Helder Fernando in Macau, Niki Sandizell in Ubud, Angkrit Ajchariyasophon in Chiang Rai, Michael Leach in Melbourne, Regina Chagas in Rio de Janeiro, Jumaadi and Siobhan Campbell in Sydney and Jennifer de Casterlé in Tavira.

A special note to my father and sister who, from distance, remained supportive throughout these years. A thanks to my friends Elizabeth Ann Cecil, Alexandra Plesa, Tiffany Strawson, Jacqueline Hylkema, Nicole Baros, Joana Freitas, Adriana Delgado Martins, and Barbara van Kooten for their support and loving friendship. A special thanks to my friends Nuno Grancho, Nuno Vasco Oliveira, Sebastian Mesdag, Wendy Manders, Max van Duijn, David Louwrier, Yves van Damme, Pao-Yi Yang, Mónica Borges, Joana Lopes Luís and my cousin António Paulo da Silva Veiga. Finally, I wish to thank the global Ashtanga Yoga community for a compassionate support of my personal practice. Without a daily practice of Ashtanga Yoga, I would not have stayed healthy, strong and focused throughout these years.
