A historical illustration of a busy hospital ward. In the foreground, a nurse in a dark dress and white apron stands holding a tray with a lit lamp. To her left, a man in a dark suit is tending to a patient lying on a bed. In the background, several other patients are lying in beds, and another nurse is visible. The room has stone walls and a hanging lantern. The overall scene depicts the demanding and busy environment of a 19th-century nursing profession.
