Acknowledgements

Numerous Rajasthani poets, priest and devotees of Rajasthan's gods and goddesses helped me in finding answers to the questions posed in this thesis. For their knowledgeable and kind guidance, I would like to especially thank Shri Subh Karan Deval (Karni Kutir, Jodhpur), Dr. Sohan Dan Charan (Jodhpur University), Dr. C.P. Deval (Charan Research Institute, Ajmer), Prof. B.S. Samaur (Taranagar University) and Shri Tulsi Singh Rathaur (Kolu).

Many performers of Rajasthani poetry gave their precious time to help me understand the meanings they attribute to poetry and songs in praise of warrior-heroes. I am particular grateful to the performers Shri Jetha Ram and Shri Asha Ram and their families (Kolu) and the poet Shri Udaydan Naravat (Sivana). Prof. Gopal Singh Rathaur and his sons Mahipal and Jaipal offered professional support in recording and interpreting contemporary Rajasthani performance traditions.

For their expert assistance during my archival researches in Rajasthan, I am indebted to Dr. H.S. Bhati and his staff at the Rajasthani Research Institute (Chaupasni). I would also like to thank the secretarial staff of the CNWS Research School and of the Kern Institute and its library. I am grateful to the Research School CNWS for providing financial support for this project. I am much indebted to the Michael C. Carlos Museum (Atlanta), Mr. Paul Veltman (Amsterdam) and Mr. Khalid Omar (Karachi) for their kind permission to re-print copyrighted visual materials.

For his help with Rajasthani interpretations and diacritics, I am beholden to Dr. John D. Smith (Cambridge University). For commenting on earlier versions of this study, I would like to thank Dr. Rajat Datta (Jawaharlal Nehru University), Dr. Lars Martin Fosse (Oslo), Dr. Jan Jansen (Leiden University) and Dr. Rolf Lunheim (University of Trondheim). I would like to thank Dr. Dick Plukker (India Institute Amsterdam) for his notes on medieval Hindi idiom. Paleontologist and indologist Dr. Alexandra van der Geer (National University of Athens) generously shared with me her profound knowledge of South Asian fauna.

His Highness Gaj Singhji II, Maharaja of Jodhpur kindly granted me permission to work at the Mansingh Pustak Prakash archives at Jodhpur Fort. I would also like to express my gratitude for the help extended by Prof. Dilbagh Singh (Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi), Shri Acharya and Dr. Vasumati Sharma (Oriental Research Institute Rajasthan, Jodhpur), Kanwar Mahendra Singh Nagar (Mansingh Pustak Prakash, Jodhpur) and Dr. Ranjit Singh (Sri Natnagar Sodh Samsthan, Sitamau). And I would like to thank Dr. Usha Rathaur for the kind hospitality extended by her.

For their friendship and hospitality, I would like to express my thankfulness to my extended family and friends in India, the Netherlands and America: family S.N. Tiwary, Mrs. Maya Norula, family d'Audretch, Mikela Blom, Gerdien Meijerink, Maarten Reuser, Ellen Topman, Inno de Veen, Carlo Verheul and Willem Zwart. When I first returned to India in 1989, the late Surender K. Kandhari made me feel at home. He continued to do so in his chivalrous way until his untimely death in 2004.

This study is dedicated to my parents Arie and Hanneke Kamphorst Emond-Fauël: thank you for always being there for me. This study is also dedicated to my sister Nicoline Kamphorst: thank you for your love and wisdom. In times of need, my brother-in-law Leonard Chappin granted me the privileged use of his easy chair. My nephews Mathieu, Philip, Anant, Ambar and Sasha and my niece Jaya diligently provided much needed distractions.

Above all, this work is dedicated to my husband Manoj K. Tiwary. I doubt that this manuscript would have been completed without his practical and intellectual support or his continued faith in my project. I cannot imagine a better hamasafar.
