

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Rethinking Ostia : a spatial enquiry into the urban society of Rome's imperial port-town

Stöger, J.J.

Citation

Stöger, J. J. (2011, December 7). Rethinking Ostia : a spatial enquiry into the urban society of Rome's imperial port-town. Archaeological Studies Leiden University. Leiden University Press, Leiden. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/18192>

Version: Not Applicable (or Unknown)

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/18192>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle <http://hdl.handle.net/1887/18192> holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation.

Author: Stöger, Johanna

Title: Rethinking Ostia : a spatial enquiry into the urban society of Rome's imperial port-town

Issue Date: 2011-12-07

List of Figures

Fig. 0.1	Site plan Ostia, excavated areas, with Insula IV ii indicated, as well as the boundary of the Republican castrum (dashed line)	v
Fig. 1.1	Functional zones of Ostia's forum	5
Fig. 1.2	Land parcellation in the Republican period	14
Fig. 2.1	Axes of differentiation in Roman domestic space	24
Fig. 3.1	The human geometry of Space Syntax	43
Fig. 4.1	Divergence between Calza's map and laser scanning	52
Fig. 4.2	Ostia's local reference system comprising 58 reference points	54
Fig. 4.3	Local reference point hidden under soil cover	55
Fig. 4.4	DGPS survey: setting up the base point	57
Fig. 4.5	Castello Giulio II, Ostia Antica	57
Fig. 4.6	DGPS survey: taking DGPS readings in Insula IV ii	58
Fig. 4.7	Aerial photograph of Insula IV ii aligned to digital map	58
Fig. 4.8	Access data-base structure	59
Fig. 4.9	Linking database codes and plan location	60
Fig. 4.10	Steps involved in the calculation for axial integration	63
Fig. 4.11	Ten-minutes movement traces compared with VGA	65
Fig. 4.12	Tate Gallery London: observed movement vs. computer agents	66
Fig. 5.1	Insula IV ii – location encircled	68
Fig. 5.2	Gismondi's model of Ostia, section Insula IV ii	69
Fig. 5.3	Insula IV ii, Buildings 1-14	70
Fig. 5.4	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1) plan, architectural details	71
Fig. 5.5	Terma del Faro (IV ii 1), floor mosaic depicting the lighthouse (faro)	72
Fig. 5.6	Remains of a buildings to the south of baths (ref.3714)	73
Fig. 5.8	Interstitium between Insulae IV I and ii	74
Fig. 5.9	Presumed original boundary of Insula IV ii	74
Fig. 5.10	Plan by Zappati/Holl of 1804 (section only)	75
Fig. 5.11	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), 1964 excavations in room 01, exposed hypocaust	76
Fig. 5.12	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), Severan stucco decoration	76
Fig. 5.13	Early imperial development in Insula IV ii	77
Fig. 5.14	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), opus reticulatum (tufo) of preceding structure	77
Fig. 5.15	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), travertine blocks forming the arched door opening	77
Fig. 5.16	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), plan of functional zones	79
Fig. 5.17	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1). fragments of the mosaic floors	81
Fig. 5.18	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), aquatic theme, mosaic 323 found in room 01	81
Fig. 5.19	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1) cold water pool in frigidarium (09)	82
Fig. 5.20	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1) visual field of the large cold room (09)	82
Fig. 5.21	Terme di Caracalla (Rome) fragments of aquatic floor mosaics	82
Fig. 5.22	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), painted plaster remains in northern changing room	83
Fig. 5.23	Female statue of the Type of the Venus Capitolina	84
Fig. 5.24	Female statue, semi-draped; possibly Amphitrite with dolphin	84

Fig. 5.25	'Weary' Hercules, Farnese Type, frontal and lateral view	84
Fig. 5.26	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), earlier links to neighbouring buildings	85
Fig. 5.27	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), walled-up door connecting room 06 to courtyard (west)	86
Fig. 5.28	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), reconstruction in the tabernae on the cardo	87
Fig. 5.29	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), façade on the Portico dell'Ercole (IV ii 2)	88
Fig. 5.30	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), taberna (03), integrated earlier opus reticulatum wall	88
Fig. 5.31	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), partition wall placed against earlier opus reticulatum (brick)	89
Fig. 5.32	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), painted plaster remains visible behind the partition walls	89
Fig. 5.33	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), door between baths and Campo d. Magna Mater	90
Fig. 5.34	Terme del Faro (IV ii 1), stairs and extension built for the construction of the latrine	91
Fig. 5.35	Caseggiato and Portico dell'Ercole (IV ii 2-3) plan	93
Fig. 5.36	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), courtyard from within the Insula (B3037)	94
Fig. 5.37	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), the courtyard under excavation (B2901)	94
Fig. 5.38	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), traces of walled-up door removed (B 2913)	95
Fig. 5.39	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), wall painting dating to the mid-3rd century	96
Fig. 5.40	Portico dell'Ercole (IV ii 2), facing east towards the Porta Laurentina	97
Fig. 5.41	Via d. Caupona, the Caseggiato's pavement stops at the Caupona	97
Fig. 5.42	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), door openings on the mezzanine floors	98
Fig. 5.43	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), structural change in Room 10	99
Fig. 5.44	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), western part preserved to greater height	100
Fig. 5.45	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), discontinuity in room 26	101
Fig. 5.46	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), taberna 03 is best visible from P. Laurentina	102
Fig. 5.47	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), taberna 08, withdrawn from the street front	102
Fig. 5.48	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), industrial building 030	103
Fig. 5.49	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), northern wall confining the industrial bldg. (030)	104
Fig. 5.50	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), blocked entrance to industrial spaces (IV ii 3-4)	105
Fig. 5.51	Caseggiato dell'Ercole (IV ii 3), niche inside entrance passage (27)	105
Fig. 5.52	Building IV ii 4, plan	107
Fig. 5.53	Building IV ii 4, walls were reinforced with buttresses	108
Fig. 5.54	Building IV ii 4, water basins built against the northwestern corner	108
Fig. 5.55	Caseggiato IV ii 5, plan	109
Fig. 5.56	Caseggiato IV ii 5, former door opening to the open space in the north	110
Fig. 5.57	Caseggiato IV ii 5, a row of arches reinforce the western wall	110
Fig. 5.58	Caseggiato IV ii 5, structures of unknown function in courtyard	111
Fig. 5.59	Caseggiato IV ii 5, reinforcing arch in southeastern corner	113
Fig. 5.60	Caseggiato IV ii 5, opus reticulatum structures of adjacent building (IV ii 12)	115
Fig. 5.61	Caupona del Pavone (IV ii 6) plan	116
Fig. 5.62	Caupona del Pavone (IV ii 6), the main entrance	117
Fig. 5.63	Caupona del Pavone (IV ii 6), difference in height between floor levels	118
Fig. 5.64	Caupona del Pavone (IV ii 6) counter placed against Severan wall paintings	120
Fig. 5.65	Caupona del Pavone (IV ii 6), the aedicule-type niche in the courtyard	121
Fig. 5.66	Caupona del Pavone (IV ii 6), backdrop to the northern bench built against IV ii 3-4	121
Fig. 5.67	Caupona del Pavone (IV ii 6), well head in room 16	123
Fig. 5.68	Caseggiato IV ii 7, plan	124
Fig. 5.69	Caseggiato IV ii 7, hall 06-07, western corner (ref. 1768)	126
Fig. 5.70	Caseggiato IV ii 7, fountain placed in courtyard (02) (ref. 1168)	126
Fig. 5.71	Caseggiato IV ii 7, northern wall abutting the Caupona (IV ii 6)	127
Fig. 5.72	Caseggiato IV ii 7, marble fragments in room (03) (ref. 1770)	128

Fig. 5.73	Caseggiato IV ii 7, latrine (04) north of the corridor (05) (ref. 3707)	129
Fig. 5.74	Caseggiato IV ii 7, partition wall in hall (06/07)	129
Fig. 5.75	Caseggiato IV ii 7, south-eastern wall meets Building IV ii 9	130
Fig. 5.76	Building IV ii 8, plan	131
Fig. 5.77	Building IV ii 8, view from room (5) towards east (ref. 1171)	132
Fig. 5.78	Building IV ii 8, window in room (8) overlooking open space	132
Fig. 5.79	Building IV ii 8, reinforcing pillars in room (7) (ref. 1769)	132
Fig. 5.80	Caseggiato IV ii 9 and 'Loggia' (IV ii 13)	134
Fig. 5.81	Caseggiato IV ii 9, retaining wall towards southern open space	135
Fig. 5.82	Caseggiato IV ii 9, the confining wall meets Caseggiato IV ii 7	135
Fig. 5.83	Caseggiato IV ii 9, passage corridor (07)	135
Fig. 5.84	Caseggiato IV ii 9 and Building IV ii 13 phases of reconstruction	136
Fig. 5.85	Building IV ii 10, location between IV ii 11 and IV ii 9	137
Fig. 5.86	Building IV ii 10, room 3 with central pillar (ref. 1782)	137
Fig. 5.87	Building IV ii 10, southern wall room 6, confines building	138
Fig. 5.88	Building IV ii 10, detail: remains of floor mosaic in corner (05)	138
Fig. 5.89	Building IV ii 10, higher floor levels preserved in room 1 and 4	138
Fig. 5.90	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11) plan	140
Fig. 5.91	Lanciani's map of the excavated areas, dated 1874	141
Fig. 5.92	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), Visconti's plan (1887)	142
Fig. 5.93	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), Pascolini's plan (1954) (ref. 99)	143
Fig. 5.94	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), schematic plan (ref. 4721)	143
Fig. 5.95	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), viewed from C. d. Magna Mater	144
Fig. 5.96	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), former door opening in s. Wall	144
Fig. 5.97	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), mosaic depiction of 'Mystes'	145
Fig. 5.98	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), head of a bull (mosaic)	145
Fig. 5.99	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), restoration activities from 1958	146
Fig. 5.100	Building IV ii 12, plan	147
Fig. 5.101	Building IV ii 12, staircase (04) on the eastern side	148
Fig. 5.102	Building IV ii 12, partition wall between room 02 and stairs 03	148
Fig. 5.103	Building IV ii 12, north-eastern corner of room 01	148
Fig. 5.104	Building IV ii 12, links with the Terme del Faro and Bld. IV ii 5	149
Fig. 5.105	Building IV ii 12, door opening between room 01 and passage (w.)	149
Fig. 5.106	'Loggia' IV ii 13, travertine threshold marks the entrance	150
Fig. 5.107	'Loggia' IV ii 13, north-western corner with water channel	151
Fig. 5.108	Building (Tabernae) IV ii 14, plan	152
Fig. 5.109	The row of tabernae (IV ii 14) seen from southern courtyard	153
Fig. 5.110	Tabernae IV ii 14, opus reticulatum walls, former door opening	154
Fig. 5.111	Tabernae IV ii 14, later door opening broken into walls	155
Fig. 5.112	Insula IV ii, early construction phases in opus reticulatum walls	158
Fig. 6.1	Insula IV ii, stairs to upper floors	161
Fig. 6.2	Insula IV ii, public access	162
Fig. 6.3	Insula IV ii, ground floor space divided in different land-uses	163
Fig. 6.4	Terme del Foro (IV ii 1) topological graph and J-graph	168
Fig. 6.5	Caseggiato and Portico dell'Ercole (IV ii 2-3) topological graph and J-graph	170
Fig. 6.6	Building IV ii 4 (industrial building) topological graph and J-graph	171
Fig. 6.7	Caseggiato IV ii 5, graphs, unconnected to Building IV ii 12	173
Fig. 6.8	Caseggiato IV ii 5, graphs, including later rooms and connection to Building IV ii 12	173

Fig. 6.9	Caupona del Pavone (IV ii 5) topological graph and J-graph	175
Fig. 6.10	Caseggiato IV ii 7, topological graph and J-graph	176
Fig. 6.11	Building IV ii 8, topological graph and J-graph	178
Fig. 6.12	Buildings IV ii 9/13, topological graph and J-graph	179
Fig. 6.13	Building IV ii 10, topological graph and J-graph	180
Fig. 6.14	Mitreo degli Animali (IV ii 11), topological graph and J-graph	181
Fig. 6.15	Building IV ii 12, topological and and J-graph	182
Fig. 6.16	Buildings IV ii 14 (tabernae) topological graph and J-graph	183
Fig. 6.17	Insula IV ii, topological graph of the total configuration	184
Fig. 6.18	Insula IV ii, J-graph (root 183 = outside carrier)	185
Fig. 6.19	Insula IV ii, the internal space structure	189
Fig. 6.20	Insula IV ii, Axial Analysis of internal movement spaces	191
Fig. 6.21	Insula IV ii, potential route matrix based on fewest lines	191
Fig. 6.22	Insula IV ii, route matrix, excluding the Terme del Faro (IV ii 1)	193
Fig. 6.23	Insula IV ii, Visibility Graph Analysis (VGA)	194
Fig. 6.24	Insula IV ii, agent analysis (movement traces of 50 agents)	195
Fig. 7.1	The evolution of Ostia's street	204
Fig. 7.2	Ostia and its periphery with the street network of the Pianabella (DAI survey)	205
Fig. 7.3	Ostia and the area of Pianabella, with necropoleis along streets	207
Fig. 7.4	Archaic route system lading from Lavinium to Ostia	208
Fig. 7.5	Street stratigraphy based a trial trench on the Via Ostiensis	209
Fig. 7.6	Ostia's forum in the Antonine period (source Mar 2008)	210
Fig. 7.7	Mosaic pavement in the Terme dei Cisiarii depicting symbolic gates	211
Fig. 7.8	Ostia's street network excavated only, axial analysis (150 streets)	214
Fig. 7.9	Ostia's street network extended (n-streets = 476)	215
Fig. 7.10	Segment analysis, metrical radius 1000 m, choice and integration	216
Fig. 7.11	Segment analysis, metrical radius 250 m, choice and integration	217
Fig. 7.12	Segment analysis, metrical radius 400 m, choice and integration	218
Fig. 7.13	Segment analysis, metrical radius 50 m, choice and integration	219
Fig. 7.14	Visibility Graph Analysis, public spaces and streets of Ostia	220
Fig. 7.15	Architectural markers, nymphaeum located east of the theatre	221
Fig. 7.16	Arco di Caracalla, (plan after Zevi and Pensabene in Pavolini 2006)	221
Fig. 7.17	The eastern decumanus maximus leading towards the forum	222
Fig. 7.18	Visibility Graph Analysis (VGA) of the forum space	223
Fig. 7.19	Ostia's central area in the Republican period	223
Fig. 7.20	The compitum at the Bivio del Castrum	224
Fig. 7.21	Isovist analysis reveals the vast visual field commanded by the Bivio del Castrum	225
Fig. 7.22	Republican buildings reaching further into the western decumanus maximus	225
Fig. 7.23	White marble fountain (Fontana con Lucerna) on the western decumanus	226
Fig. 7.24	Discontinuity in the street system	227
Fig. 8.1	Ostia (2 nd century AD) location of guild buildings	231
Fig. 8.2	Casa dei Triclini (I xii 1) seen from the decumanus	234
Fig. 8.3	Aula e Tempio dei Mensores (I xix 1-3) plan	235
Fig. 8.4	Aula e Tempio dei Mensores (I xix 1-3) view from the Via della Foce	235
Fig. 8.5	Aula e Tempio dei Mensores (I xix 1-3) inside courtyard (1)	236
Fig. 8.6	Domus di Marte (III ii 5) plan	237
Fig. 8.7	Domus di Marte (III ii 5) the marble altar in room (2)	238
Fig. 8.8	Domus accanto al Serapeo (III xvii 3) plan	239

Fig. 8.9	Domus acconta al Serapeo (III xvii 3) the triclinium space indicated by mosaics	239
Fig. 8.10	Casggiato dei Lottatori (V ii 1) plan	240
Fig. 8.11	Casggiato dei Lottatori (V ii 1) view from the main entrance	241
Fig. 8.12	Casa dei Triclini (I xii 1), Access Analysis	242
Fig. 8.13	Casa dei Triclini (I xii 1), mosaic pavement in western rooms	243
Fig. 8.14	Casa dei Triclini (I xii 1), visibility graph analysis (VGA)	244
Fig. 8.15	Schematic plans and access graphs for five Ostian scholae	246
Fig. 8.16	Correlation between spatial values: contol values	248
Fig. 8.17	Correlation between spatial values: RRA	248
Fig. 8.18	Casa dei Triclini (I xii 1) and its external circulation space	253

List of Tables

Table 5.1	Insula IV ii – development 1 st to 3 rd centuries AD	157
Table 6.1	Integration and control values for the buildings' exterior spaces	165
Table 6.2	Mean integration values for all buildings within Insula IV ii	167
Table 6.3	Spatial values: Terme del Faro, IV ii 1	168
Table 6.4	Spatial values: Caseggiato dell'Ercole, IV ii 2-3	169
Table 6.5	Spatial values: Building IV ii 4 (industrial building)	171
Table 6.6	Spatial values: Caseggiato IV ii 5	172
Table 6.7	Spatial values: Caupona del Pavone, IV ii 6	174
Table 6.8	Spatial values: Caseggiato IV ii 7	175
Table 6.9	Spatial values: Building IV ii 8	177
Table 6.10	Spatial values: Buildings IV ii 9 and IV ii 13	179
Table 6.11	Spatial values: Building IV ii 10	180
Table 6.12	Spatial values: Mitreo degli Animali, IV ii 11	181
Table 6.13	Spatial values: Building IV ii 12	182
Table 6.14	Spatial values: Building (tabernae) IV ii 14	183
Table 6.15	The Insula's 'hotspots': highest levels of local and global integration potential	186
Table 6.16	The Insula's most segregated spaces with lowest levels of global and local integration potential	186
Table 6.17	Staircases accessible from within the Insula	187
Table 6.18	The Insula's movement spaces	188
Table 6.19	Integration values for the most integrated and least integrated visual lines, including the Terme del Faro	192
Table 6.20	Integration values for the most integrated and least integrated visual lines, excluding the Terme del Faro	192
Table 8.1	Sample for spatial analysis: five selected guild buildings of Ostia	232
Table 8.2	Access data for spaces with high local and global integration potential	247
Table 8.3	Access data for the tablinum-type spaces	250
Table 8.4	Overall size of ground plan space, including tabernae	251
Table 8.5	Global integration values for all streets (n-150)	252
Table 8.6	Global integration values for all streets (n-467)	253

Glossary

The following glossary is intended to provide brief definitions for architectural or culture specific terms used in the text. The keywords are denoted in capital letters, the use of italics within an entry indicates a cross-reference.

ALA(-AE) – room (wing) opening from the atrium of a Roman domus; alae usually occur in pairs flanking the tablinum.

ALBUM (-A) – membership list.

ALBUM COLLEGII - membership list of a Roman collegium.

ANNONA – grain supply to the city of Rome.

APODYTERIUM – the changing room of a Roman bath.

BIPEDALIS – two-foot-square brick (c. 58 cm).

CALDARIUM – the main heated room or rooms of Roman baths.

CAPITOLIUM – the main temple of a Roman city dedicated to the three supreme deities (Jupiter, Juno and Minerva).

CARDO MAXIMUS – the central north-south axis in a Roman urban street system.

CASEGGIATO (-I) – Italian term for a Roman building, divided into separate units, often including commercial space (tabernae).

CASTRUM (-A) – denotes a military camp or fortifications.

CAUPONA – a Latin term to describe a Roman hotel, hostel or restaurant.

CISIARII – cisium refers to a type of ancient Roman chariot, the conductors of these hired gigs were called cisiarii.

COCCIOPESTO – Italian term for a hydraulic mortar made with crushed terracotta, also used as floor pavement and roofing.

COLLEGIUM (-A) – Roman voluntary association of professionals and/or religious followers.

COLLEGIUM FABRUM TIGNARIORUM (FABRI TIGNUarii) – builders' association (literally 'woodworker's guild'). The association required an entry fee and consisted of freeborn and freedmen builders (not limited to wood workers in spite of the name).

COMPLUVIUM – an opening in the roof of the atrium that allowed light and rain water to enter; the latter being gathered (impluvium) and stored in a cistern below.

CUBICULUM (-A) – a room in a Roman house, serving various functions; when used as bedrooms the night-time bedrooms were called cubicula nocturna or dormitoria, while those rooms used for rest in the daytime were cubicula diurna.

DOMUS – refers to a Roman town house, the term is used for domestic buildings.

DECUMANUS – the term denotes the main east-west axis in the street system of a Roman town.

EUERGETISM – the practice of the élite in Greek and Roman cities of distributing a part of their wealth to the community. It might take the form of the construction of public buildings, the provision of public pleasures, the entertainment of the populace in circus or arena, or the provision of food in times of famine.

EXEDRA – in architecture, a semicircular niche forming part of a building, but also an outside seating area.

FAUCES – a term used for the hallway leading from the street into the building.

FISTULA – a water-pipe; Vitruvius (VIII, 7) distinguishes three modes of conveying water: by channels of masonry (per canales structiles), by leaden pipes (fistulis plumbeis), and by earthen pipes (tubulis fictilibus); lead pipes were the more commonly used.

FIGLINA – on brickstamps, signifies the name of the place of the production of the brick, or a production unit.

FORUM – a public space in the centre of the Roman town that serves as political, economic, and social centre of the city.

FRIGIDARIUM – the main cold-water bathing hall, often containing one or several large unheated pools.

HORREA – warehouses and storage buildings.

HYPOCAUST – the major heating system of Roman baths. In the fully developed hypocaust the floor of the room is suspended, resting on short pillars (often a stack of tiles); the hollow space is heated by the circulation of hot air produced by the furnace (praefurnium) stoked from outside.

IMPLUVIUM – the sunken part of the atrium in a Roman house (domus), designed to collect the rainwater which comes into the house through the compluvium.

INSULA (-AE) – a city block; or a large multi-apartment building.

LATRINA – usually a communal space with multiple toilets, but also single units with one seat.

LIMES (-ITES) – the boundary marking the land parcels allocated to individuals or towns.

MEDIANUM – medianum apartments are a type of dwelling unit typically found in Ostia, characteristic of a medianum apartment is the arrangement of rooms on three sides of a centrally positioned rectangular space, the medianum.

MODIUS – a Roman dry measuring unit used primarily to measure out grain.

NATATIO (-IONES) – a large unheated swimming pool, open or roofed, the term is also used to refer to the hall of the swimming pool itself.

NAVALIA – dock-yard.

NYMPHAEUM (-A) – In general use, an elaborate or monumental fountain structure, often adorning public space; originally the term denoted a cave or grotto with a running water source sacred to the nymphs.

OPUS LATERICIUM – Roman form of construction using brickwork to face the cement core of the wall.

OPUS RETICULATUM (brick) – construction method consisting of a combination of techniques: opus reticulatum for the walls and opus latericium to strengthen the corners and apertures (in the literature often referred to as opus mixtum). This technique was used in particular during the Trajanic and Hadrianic periods.

OPUS RETICULATUM – term referring to a type of facing on concrete walls in which small cone shaped stones (tufa) are set in such a way that the joints between them form a diagonal grid on the face of the wall.

OPUS SPICATUM – type of floor paving employing small bricks set in herringbone fashion.

OPUS VITTATUM – Roman construction technique consisting of bands of tufa blocks intersected by one or more brick bands at regular or irregular distances.

PALAESTRA – the exercise court of the baths, often a colonnaded enclosure.

POMERIUM – the ritual boundary defining the city, usually corresponding to the course of the city walls.

PORTA MARINA – Ostia's south-western gate leading to the ancient shoreline.

PORTA ROMANA – Ostia's eastern gate; it is part of the city walls of the 1st century BC. The Via Ostiensis leading from Rome to Ostia ends at the Porta Romana and continues as Ostia's eastern decumanus maximus.

PORTA LAURENTINA – Ostia's southeastern gate belongs to the city walls of the first century BC. It received its name from the village Laurentum located to the south of Ostia. The gate marks the beginning of the Via Laurentina leading to Ostia's suburban areas and the rural areas of Laurentum.

PORTICUS – a colonnade or covered walkway.

PRAEFURNIUM (-A) – furnace of a Roman bath. The term may denote only the stoke hole (fornix) of the furnace, or the larger area of the furnace or furnaces.

PUTLOG HOLE – the holes in a wall in which the ends of scaffolding beams were lodged during construction. In Roman buildings they were usually covered by the final wall facing.

RELIEVING ARCH – an arch built into a wall usually to relieve the pressure from an opening below.

RUTELLUM – a stick used to straighten out the surface of the grain to obtain the correct quantity when the modius was filled.

SCHOLA (-AE) – Guild building, headquarters or clubhouse of a professional or religious guild.

STAGNUM – any enclosed stretch of water, also a pool or pond.

SUSPENSURA (-AE) – In the Vitruvian description of the hypocaust, the term means 'hanging floor' or 'suspended floor' (5.10.2-3); more correctly it denotes a floor supported by the small pillars of the hypocaust.

TABERNA (-AE) – a one or two room space primarily used as a shop; but also used as a workshop and residence by the shopkeeper, as well as for storage.

TABLINUM – refers to a reception room generally situated on one side of the atrium and opposite to the entrance.

TEPIDARIUM (-A) – the 'lukewarm' warm room or rooms in Roman baths; in the context of the imperial baths it has been interpreted to be the relatively small heated room (or the 'heat lock') between the caldarium and the frigidarium.

TESSERAE – small cut stones arranged in patterns to decorate mosaic pavements.

TRICLINIUM – a dining room in the Roman house.

TUBULI – inter-capillary wall-heating elements in Roman baths made up of continuous hollow terra-cotta tiles, normally box-shaped ('box tiles'), and connected at one end to the hypocaust.

TUFO (TUFF) – volcanic rock formed of consolidated pyroclastic materials ejected during a volcanic eruption.

Chronology of the Imperial Periods

Octavian/Augustus		31 BC to AD 14
Julio-Claudian dynasy	Tiberius	AD 14 – 37
	Caligula	AD 37 – 41
	Claudius	AD 41 – 54
	Nero	AD 54 – 68
Year of the four emperors:
Galba		AD 68 – 69
Otho		AD 69
Vitellius		AD 69
Flavian dynasty	Vespasian	AD 69 – 79
	Titus	AD 79 – 81
	Domitian	AD 81 – 96
Nerva		AD 96 – 98
Trajan		AD 98 – 117
Hadrian		AD 117 – 138
Antonine dynasty	Antoninus Pius	AD 138 – 161
	Marcus Aurelius	AD 161 – 180
	Commodus	AD 180 – 193
Pertinax		AD 193
Severan dynasty	Septimius Severus	AD 193 – 211
	Caracalla	AD 211 – 217
	Elagabalus	AD 218 – 222
	Severus Alexander	AD 222 – 235
Maximinus Thrax		AD 235 – 238
Gordian III		AD 238 – 244
Philip the Arab		AD 244 – 249
Decius		AD 249 – 251
Trebonianus Gallus		AD 251 – 253
Valerian		AD 253 – 260
Gallienus		AD 260 – 268
Claudius II Gothicus		AD 268 – 270
Aurelian		AD 270 – 275
Probus		AD 276 – 282
Carus, Carinus and Numerian		AD 282 – 284
Diocletian		AD 284 – 305
Tetrarchy		AD 293 – 305
Maxentius		AD 306 – 312
Constantine I		AD 312 – 337

