

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Lost in translation : congruency of teacher and student perceptions of assessment as a predictor of intrinsic motivation in ethnodiverse classrooms

Pat El, R.J.

Citation

Pat El, R. J. (2012, October 9). Lost in translation : congruency of teacher and student perceptions of assessment as a predictor of intrinsic motivation in ethnodiverse classrooms. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/19934>

Version: Not Applicable (or Unknown)

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/19934>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle <http://hdl.handle.net/1887/19934> holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation.

Author: Pat El, Ron Jonathan

Title: Lost in translation : congruency of teacher and student perceptions of assessment as a predictor of intrinsic motivation in ethnodiverse classrooms

Issue Date: 2012-10-09

Ron Pat El was born on July 26, 1980 in Leidschendam, the Netherlands. He started his academic career at the 'Onze Blijde Wereld'-primary school in Voorburg at age 5. At age 12, he started his secondary school career at the Dalton-college in Voorburg and ended it successfully at College 't Loo in Voorburg. In 2000, he started studying Psychology at Leiden University from which he received his MSc in 2006 in Social and Organizational Psychology with an additional specialization in Statistics and Research Methodology. His thesis was about achievement-motivation of women in relation to perceived stigmatization of women at work. During his studies, he tutored in statistics and performed with his accordion. His PhD research at the Institute of Educational Studies at Leiden University focused on the motivation of pre-vocational highschool students and how it is influenced by the correspondence between student and teacher perceptions of assessment practices. His research interests include perceptions of feedback and assessment practices, social-cognitive classroom processes and classroom diversity

Ron J. Pat El

Lost in Translation

Leiden University

Lost in translation

Congruency of teacher and student perceptions of assessment as a predictor of intrinsic motivation in ethnodiverse classrooms

Ron J. Pat El