Writing a PhD thesis may be an essentially lone endeavour, but the basis on which it becomes possible is invariably relational. Sharon accompanied me from the beginning to its very end, whether in Benin, the Netherlands, Switzerland or the UK. In Benin, Sambiéni N. Bienvenue and Kombetto Claire proved invaluable assistants and friends.

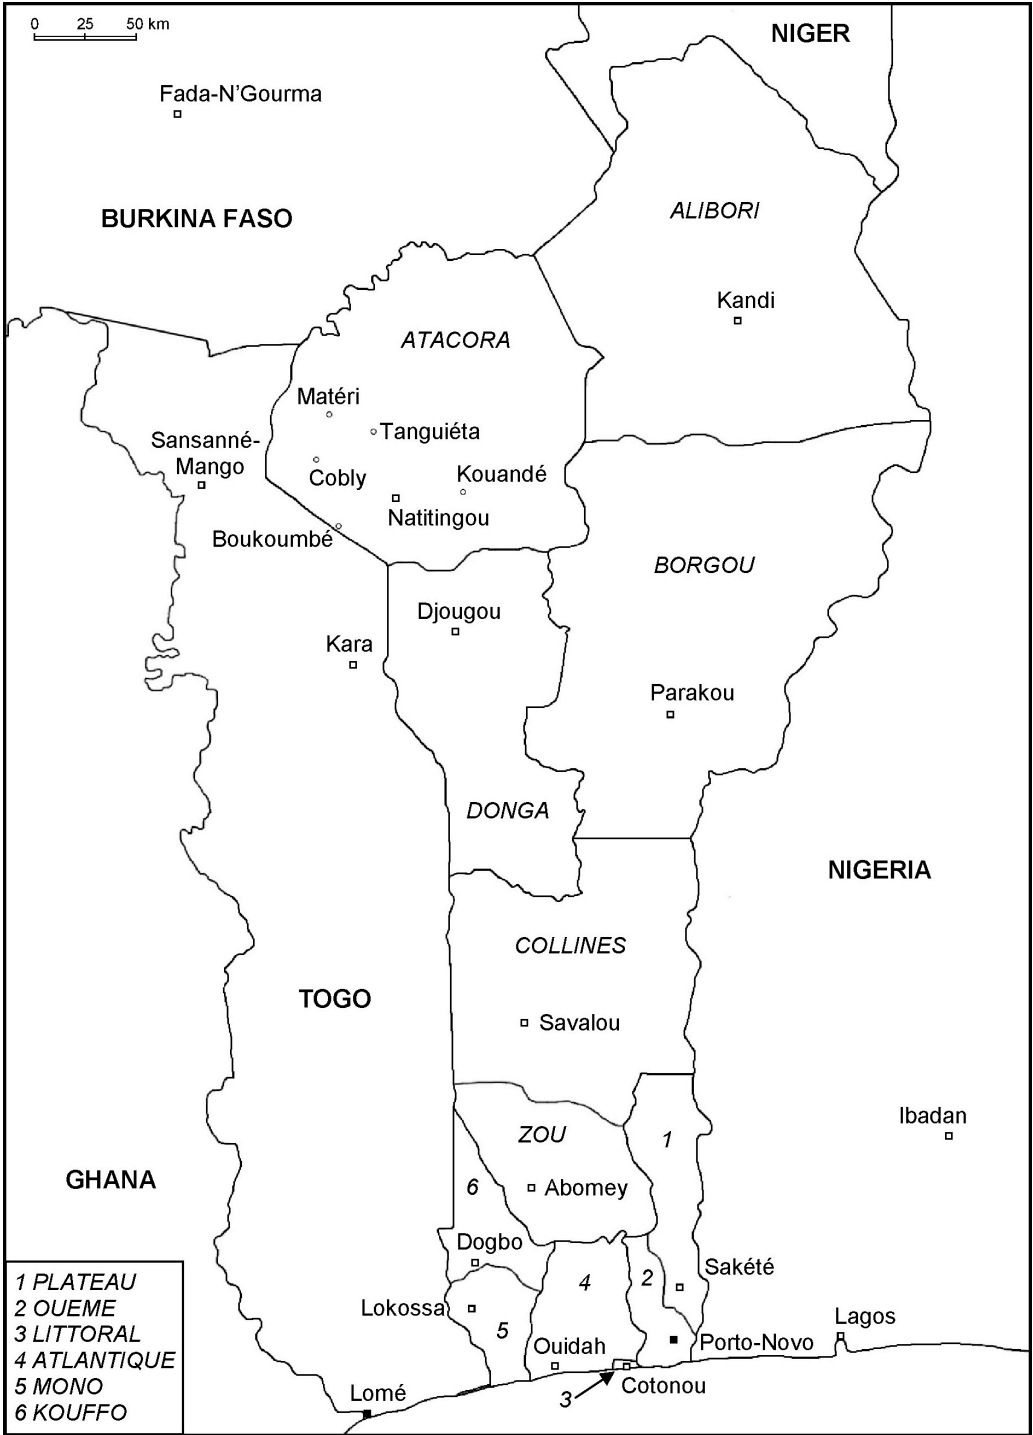

My sincere thanks go to the people of the Commune of Coby in northwestern Benin who have accepted my intermittent presence among them since 1995 and who have come to see me as part of their lives and families. My research would not have been possible without their support, interest and active participation, most notably in the town of Coby and the villages of Touga, Oroukparé and Tchokita, as well as few people from Oukouatouhon, Kountori, Didani, Nanakadé, Okommo, Bagapodi and Boadi. I particularly would like to express my gratitude to the people who were willing to be interviewed, usually several times (see Appendix).
