

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Drama in the dailies : violence and gender in Dutch newspapers, 1880 to 1930

Wilkinson, E.C.

Citation

Wilkinson, E. C. (2020, April 23). Drama in the dailies : violence and gender in Dutch newspapers, 1880 to 1930. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/87416>

Version: Publisher's Version

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/87416>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle <http://hdl.handle.net/1887/87416> holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation.

Author: Wilkinson, E.C.

Title: Drama in the dailies : violence and gender in Dutch newspapers, 1880 to 1930

Issue Date: 2020-04-23

Drama in the Dailies

Violence and Gender in Dutch Newspapers, 1880 to 1930

Clare Wilkinson

Cover illustration: Woman Reading Newspaper, Adolf Menzel (1886). Source: Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam, Netherlands

Printed by: Print Service Ede, Ede, Netherlands

Drama in the Dailies. Violence and Gender in Dutch Newspapers, 1880 to 1930

Proefschrift

ter verkrijging van de graad van Doctor aan de Universiteit Leiden, op gezag van de Rector Magnificus prof. mr. C.J.J.M. Stolker, volgens besluit van het College voor Promoties

te verdedigen op donderdag 23 april 2020

klokke 15.00 uur

door

Elizabeth Clare Wilkinson

Geboren te Ilfracombe (1964)

Promotores:

prof. dr. M.P.C. van der Heijden

prof. dr. A. Schmidt

Promotiecommissie:

prof. dr. M.L.J.C. Schrover

prof. dr. J.H. Furnée (Radboud Universiteit Nijmegen)

prof. dr. M. de Koster (Universiteit Gent)

prof. dr. H. te Velde

dr. J.P. Burger

Contents

Acknowledgements.....	7
Chapter 1: Introduction	9
1.1 Debate on gender and violence	11
1.2 Research aim	20
1.3 Theoretical framework.....	25
1.4 Methodology.....	33
1.5 Thesis overview	40
Chapter 2: The socioeconomic and legal context.....	42
2.1 Political and economic developments	43
2.2 Problematizing male behaviour: drink and sexuality.....	48
2.3 Women and children in the family.....	56
2.4 Private violence and social problems in Britain and the Netherlands.....	64
2.5 Criminal justice system.....	67
2.6 Prosecution of family and sexual violence.....	73
Conclusion	84
Chapter 3: Newspaper dynamics and crime reporting.....	85
3.1 Expanding market and rising importance of female readers	86
3.2 The role of family and sexual violence in newspaper content	94
3.3 Naming and shaming the perpetrator	100
3.5 News values as determinants of crime news content	103
3.6 The mediating effect of sources.....	108
3.7 Form, style and the question of sensationalism	114
Conclusion	121
Chapter 4: Intimate partner violence in the news.....	123
4.1 Changing coverage of intimate partner violence.....	124
4.2 Representation of intimate partner violence: Foreign stories	128
4.3 Representation of intimate partner violence: Dutch stories	132
4.4 Condemnation and sympathy	148
4.5 Avoiding moral judgements	153

Conclusion	156
Chapter 5: Parents who maltreated their children in the news	158
5.1 The Children's Acts	160
5.2 Coverage of maltreatment stories in the newspapers	167
5.3 Representation of abandonment, abuse and neglect, infanticide, and filicide.....	171
5.4 Sympathy and condemnation	186
Conclusion	193
Chapter 6: Sexual violence in the news	195
6.1 Debating the law on sexual violence in the 1880s.....	197
6.2 Coverage of sexual assaults	199
6.3 Construction of sexual violence against women and children	204
6.4 Sexual murders.....	217
6.5 Sexual violence as a problem	222
6.6 Homosexual acts with adolescent boys	226
Conclusion	230
Chapter 7: Conclusion	232
Appendix. Articles in Dutch law on family and sexual violence	241
List of tables and figures	246
Sources.....	247
Bibliography	251
Summaries	284
Summary in English	284
Samenvatting in het Nederlands.....	287
Curriculum vitae.....	292

Acknowledgements

Doing a PhD, especially as an external candidate, can seem rather a lonely process but the truth is, of course, rather different. I would never have made it over the finishing line without the help of numerous people.

First and foremost, I would like to thank my supervisor, Professor Manon van der Heijden, and my co-supervisor, Professor Ariadne Schmidt. They guided me throughout with a light but firm touch. They were pragmatic yet exacting and gave me a much-appreciated freedom to explore my own ideas. I have learned an awful lot from them about being a historian.

Thanks are due as well to my ‘partners in crime’ in the Crime and Gender programme, Marion Pluskota, Sanne Muurling, Jeannette Kamp and Jaco Zuijderduijn, for their constructive feedback. I am also grateful to the participants in the Posthumus Programme who commented on my papers and asked searching questions. And special thanks to my fellow external PhD candidate Marian Weevers for all those mutual encouragement sessions over cups of coffee. I am grateful to Mariella Duindam and Mariëlle Kakebeen for their help at various points with my Dutch. I would like to thank my family and friends who showed an encouraging interest in my topic and, by repeatedly asking me how my PhD was going, made me duty-bound to finish it. Thanks to my son Nicholas too for distracting me from the real violence in my Dutch newspapers with the make-believe violence of heavy metal, GoT and Tarantino films. Finally, a big thanks to my husband Mike who not only performed the usual partner’s role of giving moral support but also helped me set up my Access database, solved various IT issues and edited the final version of this thesis.

