Curriculum Vitae

Xander Vertegaal was born in Nijmegen (the Netherlands) on May 8th 1992. He was raised in Boxmeer and attended the Elzendaal College there, finishing in 2010 with exams in French, German, Latin and Ancient Greek. He continued his study of the latter two at the Radboud University Nijmegen, obtaining his BA (summa cum laude) in Classics with a thesis on Ancient Greek verbal reduplication in 2013. That same year, he moved to Leiden in order to do a Research Master in Linguistics with a focus on Comparative Indo-European Linguistics. He graduated in 2015 (summa cum laude) with an MA thesis on the use and development of the nominal suffix -ēla in Latin, which was awarded a thesis award (first prize) by the Indogermanische Gesellschaft in 2016. In September 2015, he joined the VIDI project “Splitting the mother tongue: The position of Anatolian in the dispersal of the Indo-European language family”, led by Dr. Alwin Kloekhorst. This thesis contains the main results of the research conducted within that project.
