Acknowledgments

Since I started working on my PhD at Leiden University, many things have changed in my life. I established a Publishing House in Canary Islands together with my friend and colleague Mila Álvarez Sosa, again with her I started an archaeological project in Luxor, and in the last years, our new projects brought us far away to discover Egypt in Cuba and Ghana, “writing every page together”. To her I owe the realization of all my dreams.

I would like to express here my sincere thanks to all the friends, colleagues and loved ones for their support and encouragement in writing this thesis.

In particular, I want to express my gratitude to Dr. Robert Demarée. Words fail to describe his fatherly concern and his support during the past years for the patience and the enormous help in providing me material and important data, for the enthusiasm shown for my work and for allowing me to make use of his knowledge on the thousands of fragmentary journals scattered all over the world. I am much indebted to Professor Olaf Kaper for the kindness and the patience in reading my thesis. Moreover, I am grateful to him for his feedback and interesting points of view. My sincerest thanks also to Jennifer Cairns for giving me comments on my English and to Maurizio Papalini for his help and the time he devoted to the database. Without him, the online version simply would not exist.

I am greatly indebted to my Italian “Clan”, my blood sister Elisa, Rosina, Chiara and Daniela together with Rumi, Bambo and Martino, friends since I have memory, who never stopped supporting me spiritually, even if far away, and who are now waiting me home. A special mention goes to Silvia, “polpetta” who appeared literally at the door of my life many years ago and never left, “ci sei sempre stata”; and to Valentina, who called me one day by chance, and then came to meet me, starting a longlasting friendship. The laughs and the tears since then are ours.

Many thanks are due to the new friends I made in Leiden during the years, especially Viviana and Filippo, for their support, their laughs, friendship and love in the difficult moments, and their help in arranging the day of my defence, and also, in no order, Cocky, Lara, Jeroen, Vera, Alice, Renz, Renata, Arianna, Ibrahim, Bianca, Irene, Fayola, Despi, Maxine, Maaike, Julia, Nicole...and all the NINO. I am also grateful to all my colleagues, friends and roommates in the Netherlands who have made my life in Leiden much easier and also to all the people, Egyptologists and non-Egyptologists, who made it abundantly more complicated, pushing me to fight even harder for my dreams.

Finally, I direct my warmest thanks to my parents for always believing in me even when I did not, and for making it possible for me to continue my studies in Egyptology, and to Edgar for his never-failing support and patience, for his encouragement and especially for his love. He is and will always be on my side as my biggest supporter.

CURRICULUM VITAE

Irene Morfini was born in Lucca, Italy, in 1980. She started her studies in the field of Egyptology at the Faculty of Classical Studies, Pisa University, and achieved her MA (Laurea) in 2005 with the evaluation of 110/110. During 2000-2006 she started gaining field experience in Italy as field assistant in medieval and anthropological excavations. In 2006 she was the winner of the scholarship Summer School of Egyptology in Montepulciano (Italy) and started working in Egypt with the Italian Archaeological Mission to Luxor (MAIL) in the funerary complex of Harwa (TT37) and Akhimenru (TT404) as epigraphist, documenting, cataloguing and studying blocks and fragments of decoration and copying and identifying texts. She was a team member of the MAIL until 2011, when she was appointed Deputy-Director (and at the same time she was chosen as field assistant by the Dutch Expedition to the New Kingdom Necropolis at Saqqara). In the same year she obtained her second MA in Egyptian Language and Culture, at Leiden University, and founded the Canary Association of Egyptology and the Publishing House Ediciones ad Aegyptum, both in Tenerife (Spain).

At the end of 2012 she decided to continue her studies in Leiden and started her PhD on the Necropolis journals of Deir el-Medina. In 2013 she obtained the permission from the Ministry of Antiquities to work in Egypt with her own archaeological mission, the Canarian-Tuscan Archaeological Mission in TT109, Luxor (Min Project), and in 2014 she founded the NGO "Preserving Heritage for the Development" in order to support her project in Egypt. In 2014 and 2015, the Min Project was the protagonist of two major discoveries (a new XVIII Dynasty tomb and a 'replica of the Osiris tomb') and as a result, she gave many interviews and presentations in Italy, The Netherlands, Spain, Egypt and Cuba. In 2015 she received the prize "Romano Silva" in Art and Culture by the Lions Club of Lucca, Italy.

Amongst her publications, articles in Spanish, English and Dutch, and two books: 'Tierras de Momias. La técnica de eternizar en Egipto y Canarias', concerning the mirlado, the mummification technique used in Canary Island, and the Catalogue of the Egyptian collection held in the National Museum of Fine Arts in Havana (Cuba), a project realized in cooperation with the Government of Tenerife. In 2016 she started working on a forgotten and unpublished Egyptian collection held in the storerooms of the National Museum of Accra, Ghana, with the intention of publishing a Catalogue of all the artifacts. Since 2017 she is a staff member of CAMNES (Center for Ancient Mediterranean and Near Eastern Studies) in Florence, Italy, cooperating with them by giving lectures and organizing congresses.
