

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Conditional freedom : free soil and fugitive slaves from the US South to Mexico's Northeast, 1803-1861

Mareite, T.J.F.

Citation

Mareite, T. J. F. (2020, February 13). Conditional freedom : free soil and fugitive slaves from the US South to Mexico's Northeast, 1803-1861. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/85166>

Version: Publisher's Version

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/85166>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Cover Page

Universiteit Leiden

The handle <http://hdl.handle.net/1887/85166> holds various files of this Leiden University dissertation.

Author: Mareite T.J.F.

Title: Conditional freedom : free soil and fugitive slaves from the US South to Mexico's Northeast, 1803-1861

Issue Date: 2020-02-13

Conditional Freedom

Free Soil and Fugitive Slaves from the US South to Mexico's Northeast, 1803-1861

PROEFSCHRIFT

ter verkrijging van de graad van Doctor
aan de Universiteit Leiden, op gezag van de Rector Magnificus prof. mr. C.J.J.M. Stolker, volgens besluit van het College van Promoties te verdedigen op donderdag 13 Februari 2020
klokke 15.00 uur

door

Thomas Jean-Michel Fabrice Mareite
geboren te Chartres (Frankrijk) in 1992

Promotor

Prof. dr. D.A. Pargas

Copromotor

Prof. dr. M.L.J.C. Schrover

Promotiecommissie

Prof. dr. Cátia Antunes (Leiden Universiteit)

Prof. dr. B. van Ruymbeke (Université Paris 8 Vincennes Saint-Denis)

Dr. S.M. Kelley (University of Essex)

Prof. dr. A. Fairclough (Leiden Universiteit)

Funding: NWO Vidi project “Beacons of Freedom: Slave Refugees in North America, 1800-1860” (2015-2020).

© Thomas Mareite 2019. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, translated, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means without written permission from the author.

List of Abbreviations

AEMEUA: Archivo de la Embajada Mexicana en los Estados Unidos de América
AGEC: Archivo General del Estado de Coahuila
AGI: Archivo General de Indias
AGN: Archivo General de la Nación
AHDF: Archivo Histórico del Distrito Federal “Carlos de Sigüenza y Góngora”
AHM: Archivo Histórico de Monterrey
AMC: Archivo Municipal de Cadereyta
AMG: Archivo Municipal de Guerrero
AMMVA: Archivo Municipal de Monclova
BA: Bexar Archives
Beinecke: Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library
Benson: Nettie Lee Benson Latin American Collection
Bolton: Herbert E. Bolton Papers
Briscoe: The Dolph Briscoe Center for American History
CDS: Cartas de Seguridad
CP: Correspondance Politique
CPN: Comisión Pesquisidora del Norte
Cuba: Papeles de Cuba
FO: Foreign Office
FCMO: Fondo Colonias Militares de Oriente
FJPB: Fondo Jefatura Política de Béjar
FSXIX: Fondo Siglo XIX
FWP: Federal Writers’ Project
Guadalajara: Audiencia de Guadalajara
LA: Laredo Archives
LAGP: Luis Alberto Guajardo Papers on the History of Coahuila
LE: Legajo Encuadernado
LOC: Library of Congress
MA: Matamoros Archives
MAE(C): Ministère des Affaires Etrangères, Centre des Archives Diplomatiques, La Courneuve (France)
MR: Muzquiz Records
NA: Nacogdoches Archives
NARA: National Archives and Records Administration
PI: Provincias Internas
RBBC: Robert Bruce Blake Collection
RSPP: Race and Slavery Petitions Project
SA: Saltillo Archives
SAMA: San Antonio Municipal Archives
SEDNA: Archivo Histórico Militar de la Secretaría de Defensa Nacional
SJMASC: Samuel J. May Anti-Slavery Collection
SML: Sterling Memorial Library
SRE: Archivo Histórico de la Secretaría de Relaciones Exteriores
TBL: The Bancroft Library
TCA: Travis County Archives
TSLAC: Texas State Library and Archives Commission
UT(A): University of Texas (Austin)
UT(SA): University of Texas (San Antonio)
YU: Yale University

List of Maps, Tables, and Figures

Map 1: Approximate routes of escape for slave refugees in the Louisiana-Texas borderlands and through the Gulf of Mexico, c. 1803-1836	74
Map 2: Approximate routes of escape for slave refugees in the Texas-Mexico borderlands and through the Gulf of Mexico, c. 1836-1861	77
Table 1: High and low extrapolations of yearly numbers of self-emancipated slaves absconding to Mexico (1840-1859)	37
Table 2: Periodicity of escape attempts to Mexico (1840-1859)	50
Table 3: Gender imbalance in escape attempts to Mexico (1840-1859)	58
Table 4: Generational under- and over-representation in escape attempts to Mexico (1840-1859)	59
Table 5: Individual and collective escape attempts to Mexico (1840-1859)	69
Table 6: Main royal decrees and provisions for the Spanish free-soil policy in the early modern Americas (1680-1789)	116
Figure 1: the Texas-Louisiana borderlands after 1803	28
Figure 2: El Paso	88
Figure 3: San Antonio	106
Figure 4: Matamoros during the US Civil War and the French Intervention	215

Acknowledgments

All dissertations are attributed to a single person, but they inevitably are the outcome of collective effort. The present work does not make exception, and a quick word of appreciation to the people who supported me in its conception is more than warranted. First of all, I would like to praise Damian Pargas. As a supervisor, he has always been very generous with his advices and precious with his encouragements, and provided feedback faster than Road Runner despite constantly drowning under work. Marlou Schrover kindly read the entire draft manuscript with an uncommon professional quality and has been staunch in her support to this project; I warmly thank her for that.

My intellectual debt to James D. Nichols and Sean M. Kelley will be evident to specialists in the field, and they deserve special credit for their guidance at different stages of my research. I am also thankful to David Doddington, Jared Hardesty, Pepijn Brandon, Matthias von Rossum, Deborah Toner, as well as Elodie Peyrol-Kleiber, Lawrence Aje and Anne-Claire Fauquez for their constructive criticism on my dissertation at very diverse stages of this project. Challenging discussions, in person or by mail, with Alice Baumgartner, Bradley Folsom and Jeffrey R. Kerr-Ritchie have greatly contributed to improve this manuscript. Karwan Fatah-Black, Viola Müller and the editors and peer reviewers at Slavery & Abolition and Cahiers du Mimmoc have provided valuable feedback on what became parts of the second and third chapters. My credits also go to Bram Hoonhout, for having been such a pleasant co-author to work with. During the first year of this project, the participants to the N.W.Posthumus training conferences also helped me clear the path that eventually led to this dissertation. I would also like to express my gratitude to the organizers of the different symposiums in which I was allowed to present my research during these four years. This dissertation would not be complete without Alex Jordan's excellent proofreading work: thank you!

I would like to express my most sincere appreciation to the staff of all the libraries which I visited during these four years of research. I extend my warmest thanks to the caring personnel of the Dolph Briscoe Center for American History and the Benson Library at Austin, Texas. I would also like to praise the patience of the staff of the Archivo General del Estado de Coahuila. I am obliged to the extremely responsive librarians of the Archivo Histórico de la Secretaría de Relaciones Exteriores as well. Furthermore, I am thankful for random football conversations with the friendly staff of the Archivo General de la Nación which entertained me while I was waiting for new folders to explore. Dean Smith, from the Bancroft Library at Berkeley, and Arnaldo Bermea, from the Archivo Municipal de Monclova deserve my most sincere gratitude for their attention. Finally, the warmth and friendliness of everybody at the Roosevelt Institute for American Studies in Middelburg has been nothing short of exceptional.

While conducting this dissertation, I have been fortunate enough to count on the support of wonderful people who made the road to completing this thesis far more enjoyable than if they had not stood by my side in the Netherlands. To my colleagues and friends Oran Kennedy, Teuntje Vosters, Christian Engberts, Edgar Pereira, Paul Brennan, Elizabeth Heijmans, Henri Hannula, Thom Pritchard, Anne Heyer, Sander Tetteroo; to my companions in Leiden, Alix, Susannah, Jacob and Carien, thank you for all the precious moments spent together, for your love and encouragements. I also extend with warmest thanks to Rebecca and Álvaro for making me feel so welcomed in Mexico.

When back in France, my friends Adrien, Thalie, Ahmad, Stefania, Elias, Mira, François and Paul have always made me feel like I had never actually left home. Le soutien sans faille, depuis la distance, de mes parents et de ma famille a énormément compté pour moi, plus qu'ils ne se l'imaginent. J'ai une pensée particulière pour mon grand-père Jean-Claude qui m'a inoculé le virus de l'histoire depuis tout petit au gré de balades au bord de la Moselle. My final words are for Girija: I will never thank you enough for your care, support and companionship; for forgiving my mistakes; for believing in me throughout all these years, even in moments when I doubted myself.

Table of Contents

List of Abbreviations	iii.
List of Maps, Tables and Figures	iv.
Acknowledgments	v.
Contents	vii.
Introduction	1
Free Soil and Spaces of Freedom in the Age of the Second Slavery	2
Historiographies and Insights	10
Sources and Outline	18
Part 1: Fleeing Slavery	23
1: Experiencing Slavery, Imagining Freedom	24
Introduction	24
“A spirit of great insubordination”: Mexico as Imagined Land of Freedom for African Americans	25
The Genesis of an Imagined Sanctuary (1803-1836)	26
“The Land of his Fellows” (1836-1861)	33
Relatives and Loved Ones	41
Uprooted Fugitives	41
“To Save his Family from Slavery”	43
“Por Maltrato”: the Second Slavery’s Violence and Serial Runaways	47
“Más mal que lo corriente”: Paternalism, (Broken) Compromises and Conflicts	52
The Intersection of Gender, Age and Qualifications	57
Conclusion	62
2: Geography, Mobility and Networks: Escaping through the US-Mexico Borderlands	65
Introduction	65
Easing Mobility: Spatial and Material Strategies	66
Joining Others	66
Across Seas and Rivers	69
Across the Chaparral	73
Slave Flight, Environment and the Second Slavery	77
Empowerment and Deception	80
Abolitionists, Smugglers and Scapegoats	84
Networks of Assistance: an “Underground Railroad” to Mexico?	84
Mexicans, Germans and Poor Whites	89

The Usual Suspects	96
Cracking down on Mobility: Legal and Extra-Legal Violence in the Borderlands	101
Laws and Outlaws	101
Desperate Conflicts	107
Conclusion	110
Part 2: Crafting Freedom	112
3: Self-liberated Slaves and Asylum in Northeastern Mexico, 1803-1836	114
Introduction	114
Slave Refugees in Late Colonial New Spain (1803-1821)	115
Imperial Contests and Borderland Interactions in Late Colonial Circum-Caribbean and North America	115
Settlement and (Re)-Settlement	119
Challenging or Asserting Asylum Policy: the Salcedo-Ugarte Controversy	122
Local Pressures, National Concerns	124
Royalists, Revolutionaries and Freebooters: Self-Emancipated Slaves during the Mexican War for Independence	129
Self-liberated Slaves in Early Independent Mexico (1821-1836)	135
Slavery and Euro-American Colonization after the Plan de Iguala	135
Extradition or Free-Soil Policy?	140
Formal and Informal Settlement(s)	145
Precarious and Contextual Freedom(s)	149
Conclusion	157
4: “Mexico was Free! No slave clanked his chains under its government”: the Contested Nature of Free Soil and Settlement, 1836-1861	159
Introduction: the Texas Revolution and the Political Landscape of Slavery and Freedom in the US-Mexico Borderlands	159
The Disputed Making of Mexico’s Free Soil after 1836	162
Antislavery and Asylum Policy	163
Debating Free Soil’s Limits: Immigration Laws and Sojourning Slaves	167
Mexico’s Free Soil and Freedom Suits in the US	168
Black Freedom-Seekers and the Contested Settlement in Mexico	171
Reaching Black Communities along the Gulf and in Coahuila	172
Forming New Beacons of Freedom	179
Defending Free-Soil in Mexico’s Northeast	184
Free Soil and Escaped Slaves in-between Conflicting States and Allegiances	190
“A Second Canada only a River’s Width Away?”: Self-emancipated Slaves and the Divisive Future of the Republic of Texas (1836-1848)	190
Separatism(s), Manifest Destiny and the Fugitive Slave Issue (1848-1861)	194
Conclusion	204

Conclusion: “Mexico will assuredly be overrun by the slaves from the Southern States”: The Making of Free Soil, The Unmaking of the Second Slavery	206
The Making of Free Soil	206
The Unmaking of the Second Slavery	211
Appendices	219
Glossary of Spanish words	221
Bibliography	224
Summary	259
Curriculum Vitae	266

