Curriculum Vitae

Machteld Eveline Zee (Gorinchem, 1984) holds a Bachelor and Master of Arts in Political Science (Leiden University, 2006, 2009). Her master's thesis concerned the criminal proceedings regarding quackery in the Netherlands. She also holds a Bachelor and Master of Laws (Leiden University 2009, 2010). This master's thesis regarded the impact of globalization on Dutch party positioning.

Prior to her doctoral research at the Department of Jurisprudence at Leiden University, Zee worked for the E.M. Meijers Institute for Legal Research and clerked at the Immigration Law department at the The Hague Courthouse. During her research, she wrote for a variety of (inter)national newspapers and magazines. Besides teaching courses at the Leiden Law School, she was guest lecturer at the University of Trento, Ghent University, Leiden University's Institute for Religious Studies, and Syracuse University in London. In 2013, Zee co-edited a collection of essays on various perspectives on animal rights.
