Curriculum vitae

Stijn Cornelis van Huis was born in Utrecht, the Netherlands on 23 February 1977. Soon after birth his family moved from Vreeswijk to Castricum where he followed primary education. From 1985-1988 Stijn's family moved to Salatiga, Indonesia, when Stijn's father participated in a development cooperation project with the task to design a new Physics curriculum at Universitas Kristen Satya Wacana. During this time Stijn partly followed primary education, at the Sekolah Dasar Kristen Laboratorium and partly was home schooled (Wereldschool, IVIO). In 1988 the family Van Huis returned to Castricum where Stijn completed primary education, and secondary education at Het Bonhoeffer College.

In 1996 he enrolled in Russian Studies at Leiden University, and in 1997 completed a Russian language course in Odessa, Ukraine. During his stay in Odessa he found out his heart lay elsewhere and not long after he decided to quit Russian Studies. As it appeared, his affinity with Indonesia was stronger. In 2005 he obtained his Drs/MA-degree in 'Languages and Cultures of Southeast Asia and Oceania' (TCZOAO), Faculty of Arts, Leiden University with a thesis on the link between the international discourse on indigenous peoples and the discourse on adat communities' rights in Indonesia.

Between 2005 and 2008 he was research assistant in several projects at the Van Vollenhoven Institute for Law, Governance and Development (VVI). He started his PhD research on the Islamic courts in Indonesia at the VVI in 2008. During his PhD research he took part in the Netherlands Interuniversity School for Islamic Studies and the PhD program of the Meijers Research Institute and Graduate School, Faculty of Law, Leiden University. In addition, he was junior researcher in two projects: the Access to Justice in Indonesia project, which was a cooperation between Indonesia's National Planning Agency, World Bank, UNDP and Leiden University; and the Islam Research Project of the Dutch Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Stijn Cornelis van Huis is currently a research fellow in Southeast Asian History at the Institut für Asien- und Afrikawissenschaften (IAAW), Faculty of Philosophy, Humboldt Universität zu Berlin, where he does research on case law concerning Islamic courts in the Netherlands Indies. He has published several articles and research reports on the subjects of Islamic courts, Muslim family law and adat law in Indonesia.
