

Universiteit
Leiden

The Netherlands

Insights into the mechanism of electrocatalytic CO<sub>2</sub> reduction and concomitant catalyst degradation pathways

Raaijman, S.J.

Citation

Raaijman, S. J. (2022, January 19). Insights into the mechanism of electrocatalytic CO<sub>2</sub> reduction and concomitant catalyst degradation pathways. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/3250500>

Version: Publisher's Version

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/3250500>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Insights into the mechanism of electrocatalytic CO<sub>2</sub> reduction and concomitant catalyst degradation pathways

Proefschrift

ter verkrijging van de graad van doctor aan de Universiteit Leiden, op gezag van de rector magnificus prof.dr.ir. H. Bijl, voorzitter van het college voor promoties, ter verdedigen op 19 januari, 2022
klokke 10:00 uur

door

Stefan Johannes Raaijman

Dit proefschrift is goedgekeurd door de promotor: prof.dr. M.T.M. Koper copromotor: prof.dr. G. Mul

Overige commissieleden:

Prof.dr. H.S. Overkleef, voorzitter

Prof.dr. S.A. Bonnet, secretaris

Dr. R.V. Mom

Dr. B.S. Yeo, National University of Singapore

Prof.dr. B. Roldán Cuenya, Fritz Haber Institute

Financial support was provided by the Dutch Research Council (NWO), the Netherlands Organisation for applied scientific research (TNO) and Shell Global Solutions B.V.

ISBN 978-94-6423-593-7

Contents

|          |                                                                                  |           |
|----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| 1 | Introduction                                                              | 1  |
| 1.1      | Outline introduction . . . . .                                                   | 2         |
| 1.2      | The mechanism of CO <sub>2</sub> reduction to multiple-carbon products . . . . . | 4         |
| 1.3      | (Metallic) catalyst stability during CO <sub>2</sub> reduction . . . . .         | 6         |
| 1.4      | Outline of this thesis. . . . .                                                  | 8         |
|          | References. . . . .                                                              | 11        |
| 2 | High-pressure CORR on Ag                                                  | 13 |
| 2.1      | Introduction . . . . .                                                           | 14        |
| 2.2      | Experimental . . . . .                                                           | 15        |
| 2.3      | Results and discussion . . . . .                                                 | 15        |
| 2.4      | Conclusions . . . . .                                                            | 19        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                              | 21        |
| 3 | CO effect on cathodic corrosion of Au                                     | 27 |
| 3.1      | Introduction . . . . .                                                           | 28        |
| 3.2      | Methods . . . . .                                                                | 29        |
| 3.2.1    | Electrodes, electrolytes, and electrochemical Cells . . . . .                    | 29        |
| 3.2.2    | Cathodic corrosion studies . . . . .                                             | 30        |
| 3.2.3    | Microscopic analysis of cathodic corrosion. . . . .                              | 31        |
| 3.3      | Results and discussion . . . . .                                                 | 34        |
| 3.3.1    | Voltammetric characterization of cathodic corrosion . . . . .                    | 34        |
| 3.3.2    | Morphological characterization of cathodic corrosion . . . . .                   | 37        |
| 3.3.3    | Enhanced corrosion at stepped surfaces . . . . .                                 | 41        |
| 3.3.4    | On the location, shapes, and origin of nanocrystallites . . . . .                | 45        |
| 3.3.5    | Effect of carbon monoxide on cathodic corrosion of Au . . . . .                  | 48        |
| 3.4      | Discussion and conclusions . . . . .                                             | 53        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                              | 57        |
| 4 | Reproducible Voltammetry of Copper Single Crystals                        | 63 |
| 4.1      | Introduction . . . . .                                                           | 64        |
| 4.2      | Experimental . . . . .                                                           | 65        |
| 4.2.1    | Chemicals, electrochemistry and cells . . . . .                                  | 65        |
| 4.2.2    | Instruments and Software . . . . .                                               | 66        |
| 4.2.3    | Normalization of literature CVs . . . . .                                        | 66        |
| 4.3      | Results and discussion . . . . .                                                 | 67        |
| 4.3.1    | Literature comparison . . . . .                                                  | 67        |
| 4.3.2    | Properties of induction annealed crystals . . . . .                              | 75        |
| 4.3.3    | Cu(poly): induction annealing vs electropolishing . . . . .                      | 81        |

|          |                                                                                                         |            |
|----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 4.4      | Conclusions . . . . .                                                                                   | 84         |
|          | References . . . . .                                                                                    | 85         |
| 5 | Morphological stability of copper under reducing conditions                                      | 89  |
| 5.1      | Introduction . . . . .                                                                                  | 90         |
| 5.2      | Experimental . . . . .                                                                                  | 90         |
| 5.2.1    | Chemicals and electrochemistry . . . . .                                                                | 90         |
| 5.2.2    | Spherical single crystal growth. . . . .                                                                | 92         |
| 5.2.3    | Anisotropic roughening . . . . .                                                                        | 93         |
| 5.2.4    | Interfacing between electrochemistry and SEM . . . . .                                                  | 93         |
| 5.2.5    | Instruments and software. . . . .                                                                       | 94         |
| 5.3      | Results and discussion . . . . .                                                                        | 94         |
| 5.3.1    | Cathodic surface stability from CV studies . . . . .                                                    | 94         |
| 5.3.2    | Microscopy study of surface roughening in the absenceand presence of copper oxides . . . . .        | 103        |
| 5.3.3    | (Absence of) time-dependent morphological change . . . . .                                              | 106        |
| 5.4      | Conclusions . . . . .                                                                                   | 113        |
|          | References . . . . .                                                                                    | 115        |
| 6 | Samenvatting                                                                                     | 119 |
| A | Supporting information for Chapter 2                                                             | 125 |
| A.1      | Supporting experimental . . . . .                                                                       | 125        |
| A.1.1    | Chemicals . . . . .                                                                                     | 125        |
| A.1.2    | Electrochemistry . . . . .                                                                              | 125        |
| A.1.3    | IR drop determination . . . . .                                                                         | 128        |
| A.1.4    | Cleaning . . . . .                                                                                      | 128        |
| A.1.5    | Product analysis . . . . .                                                                              | 128        |
| A.2      | Control experiments to verify product origin. . . . .                                                   | 129        |
| A.3      | Formation rates for non-CORR products . . . . .                                                         | 130        |
| A.4      | Electrochemical response of the system . . . . .                                                        | 130        |
| A.5      | Summarized literature-reported C-C bond formation mecha-nisms . . . . .                             | 133        |
|          | References . . . . .                                                                                    | 149        |
| B | Supporting information for Chapter 3                                                             | 151 |
| B.1      | SEM-visible onset of corrosion for {111} and {110} faces . . . . .                                      | 151        |
| B.2      | Substrate pitting of {111} and {100} faces from SEM . . . . .                                           | 151        |
| B.3      | Onset location crystallites {100} face . . . . .                                                        | 153        |
| B.4      | Absence of crystallite formation during extended corrosion atdecreased cathodic potential . . . . . | 153        |
| B.5      | Imperfect double layer signals for cut Au crystals . . . . .                                            | 153        |
| B.6      | Crystal roughness determination . . . . .                                                               | 156        |
|          | References . . . . .                                                                                    | 157        |

|          |                                                                            |            |
|----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| C | Supporting information for Chapter 4                                | 159 |
| C.1      | Copper cleaning and characterization . . . . .                             | 159        |
| C.1.1    | Cu(100) characterization . . . . .                                         | 162        |
| C.1.2    | Cu(111) and Cu(poly) characterization . . . . .                            | 162        |
| C.1.3    | Cu(110) characterization . . . . .                                         | 164        |
| C.2      | Mechanically polished single crystals cleaning procedure. . . . .          | 165        |
| C.3      | Procedure for recovery of defective cut single crystals . . . . .          | 166        |
| C.4      | EASA determination from OH adsorption for Cu(poly) electrodes. . . . .     | 167        |
| C.5      | Single crystal CV peak deconvolution. . . . .                              | 177        |
| C.5.1    | Deconvolution of a Cu(111) CV. . . . .                                     | 177        |
| C.5.2    | Deconvolution of a Cu(100) CV. . . . .                                     | 178        |
| C.5.3    | Deconvolution of a Cu(110) CV. . . . .                                     | 179        |
| C.6      | Preparing clean Cu(poly) with wide site distribution . . . . .             | 180        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                        | 181        |
| D | Supporting information for Chapter 5                                | 185 |
| D.1      | Blank reproducibility spherical single crystal . . . . .                   | 185        |
| D.2      | Anisotropy of halide-induced roughening . . . . .                          | 185        |
| D.3      | CV evolution after CO <sub>2</sub> RR in 0.1 M KHCO <sub>3</sub> . . . . . | 187        |
| D.4      | CV evolution for CORR in 10 M NaOH . . . . .                               | 187        |
| D.5      | Electrode deactivation during CO <sub>2</sub> RR . . . . .                 | 188        |
| D.6      | Hypothetical morphology-change driven area reduction mechanisms . . . . .  | 189        |
| D.7      | EDX study of electrode fouling. . . . .                                    | 190        |
|          | References. . . . .                                                        | 191        |
|          | Curriculum Vitæ                                                     | 193 |
|          | List of Publications                                                | 195 |
|          | Acknowledgements                                                    | 197 |

