British Somaliland

Version July 2022

Introduction

Postage stamps and related objects are miniature communication tools, and they tell a story about cultural and political identities and about artistic forms of identity expressions. They are part of the world's material heritage, and part of history. Ever more of this postal heritage becomes available online, published by stamp collectors' organizations, auction houses, commercial stamp shops, online catalogues, and individual collectors. Virtually collecting postage stamps and postal history has recently become a possibility. These working papers about Africa are examples of what can be done. But they are work-in-progress! Everyone who would like to contribute, by sending corrections, additions, and new area studies can do so by sending an email message to the APH editors: Ton Dietz (dietzaj@asc.leidenuniv.nl) and Jan Jansen. You are welcome!

About the APH paper series

The intention of the APH series is to make information about the philatelic and postal history of Africa available for fellow philatelists, and for others who are interested in the political, economic, and cultural history of Africa. Most APH papers so far present an inventory of postage (and revenue) stamps of former colonies, and the aim is to be as complete as possible for stamps as such, and with special attention for covers and other elements of postal history, which can give historical information about postal communication, and about visual information through postal media. In addition it is the intention to be as complete as possible about postmarks, which show the history of postal coverage of colonial (and post-colonial) territories. Most information comes from websites. The APH papers are 'work in progress', and additional information plus corrections are welcome and can be added in future editions.

1 Introduction

“British Somaliland, officially the British Somaliland Protectorate (Somali: Dhulka Maxmiyada Soomaalida ee Biritishka), was a British protectorate in present-day Somaliland. For much of its existence, the territory was bordered by Italian Somalia, French Somaliland and Ethiopia. From 1940 to 1941, it was occupied by the Italians and was part of Italian East Africa.

On 26 June 1960, British Somaliland declared independence as the State of Somaliland. Five days later, on 1 July 1960, the State of Somaliland voluntarily united with the Trust Territory of Somalia (the former Italian Somalia) to form the Somali Republic. The government of Somaliland, a self-declared sovereign state that is internationally recognized as an autonomous region of Somalia, regards itself as the successor state to British Somaliland” (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/British_Somaliland).

Between 1899 and 1920 part of what later became British Somaliland was controlled by the so-called Dervish or Darwiish State, a revivalist Muslim movement under Sayyid Muhammad `Abd Allāh al-Hasan (see: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mohammed_Abdullah_Hassan). Its capital city was first in Eyl in Puntland, and from 1909 onwards Taleh, in the Eastern Sool region of Somaliland (see: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dervish_movement_\(Somali\))). As far as we know the Dervish State did not have postal services, nor postage stamps.

2 Before 1903

"Stamps of Egypt were used from 1876 till 1884

Stamps of India were used from 1 January 1887 till 1903.

Control of British Somaliland was transferred from the Indian Government to the British Foreign Office on 1 June 1903.

On 1 June 1903 Stamps of India overprinted BRITISH SOMALILAND were first issued".

<http://www.stampdomain.com/country/somaliland/>

"The philatelic history of the territory successively known as the Somali Coast, British Somaliland and the Somaliland Protectorate opens nearly twenty years before the introduction of postage stamps of a distinctive character.

In those days Northern Somaliland formed part of the dominions of the Khedive of Egypt. Egyptian garrisons held the only towns of importance, viz. Berbera and Zeila, where postal agencies were also maintained. These were in charge of agents of the Khedival Steamship Company, who acted as both collectors and distributors of mails which were transmitted by the firm's own steamers, under Government contract.

For the most part the correspondence handled was of an official character, passing under "frank " of the large circular inter-postal seals or wafers commonly used in the Egyptian postal service at that time: with the name of the office of origin inscribed in the lower half of the circumference. Berbera was supplied with a single variety, printed in pale red and lettered "BARBARA," whilst Zeila boasts two distinct types; the one black on pale yellow, inscribed "ZEJLA," and the other pale red like the Berbera emission, and reading "ZEYLA."

Regular Egyptian postage stamps of the period also exist with the postmarks of these Somaliland agencies, but owing to the limited amount of ordinary postal business transacted are infrequently met with and accordingly of some rarity. The Mahdist rising of 1884 compelled the Khedive to withdraw his outlying garrisons in order to meet the threatened Dervish invasion from the Sudan. At this juncture the British Government stepped in by declaring a protectorate over a region embracing roughly 75,000 square miles. For administrative purposes this was attached to the Government of India under the official designation of the "Somali Coast Protectorate."

Close upon three years elapsed, however, before sub-agencies of the Bombay Post Office were established at Berbera and Zeila, on January 1st, 1887. They were supplied with contemporary postage stamps of British India distinguishable only by the local postmarks, consisting of the town and date of posting enclosed within a small single-line circle, in conjunction with a bar cancellation having the initial letter "B" (for "Bombay") in its midst. Examples of Indian stamps used in the Somali Coast should properly preface a specialised collection of this somewhat neglected British protectorate. Albeit hard to come by they are well worth the seeking. The values chiefly employed were those of 3 pies, ½ and 1 annas.

By the "Somaliland Order in Council of 1898" the control of the Protectorate passed from the Indian Government to that of H.M. Foreign Office, when it was renamed "British Somaliland". Not until the opening years of the twentieth century, however, were steps taken to establish the postal service upon a proper footing. Meanwhile the two Indian postal agencies carried on. Sometime in the year 1901 the Government of India was approached with a request for accommodation in the form of an emergency stamp issue to be employed by the Protectorate Post Office, then in process of formation, until such time as a more permanent series could be obtained through the Crown Agents for the Colonies. To this end, accordingly, a supply of Indian postage stamps bearing the head of the late Queen Victoria (series 1882-1900) was expressly overprinted with the name of the Protectorate, and forwarded to Berbera in December of that year.

But, although "Specimen" copies of the provisional stamps had been distributed through the Central Bureau of the Universal Postal Union at Bern as early as May 26th, 1902, military operations against the "Mad Mullah" and his followers, who were spreading death and destruction amongst the peaceful tribes of the hinterland, necessitated postponement of the scheme for the Protectorate postal service until a more propitious occasion. And so the Indian post offices continued to function.

The arrival on the scene of contingents of Indian troops to take part in the campaign of 1903-1904 was responsible for the introduction of a new element into the postal and philatelic situation. Their letters were dealt with by military post offices, one of which actually accompanied the forces in the field. All of this correspondence passed ultimately through the Army Base Post Office, permanently located at Berbera, where it received the impression of a large concentric postmark lettered "BASE OFFICE " at the top and "BERBERA " at the foot, with the date in a rectangular frame inset across the centre. It may be found upon various Indian postage stamps of that epoch, but mainly on the denominations ½ anna and 1 anna. The Indian Army post offices operated from January 1903 to November 25th, 1904". http://www.stampdomain.com/country/somaliland/Somaliland_Pre_1903.htm:

TYPE VIIA, 1882

418 Barbars

LX

TYPE VIII, 1887

Inscribed like Type VII, except that the final last line of Arabic in the center is different. In each seal, it represents the Arabic spelling of the town for which the seal was issued. The Latin characters are 10mm high. Printed in vermilion or shades thereof, on white paper.

TYPE VIIIA, 1882

Similar to Type VIII, except that the Arabic town name in the lowest line in the center is not spelled in the town script. The Latin letters on the same name are only 8mm high. The interpostal designs are the same also, but for the used to cut from the sheet was slightly smaller giving them a smaller appearance.

At the request of the British government, Wingate undertook a special mission to Somaliland to report on the military situation in connection with the proposed evacuation of the interior of the protectorate. This Mission took place from 21 April to 17 June 1909. Accompanying this cover is a copy of a cover and letter from Armbruster, written in Sudan a couple of months prior to the Wingate Mission. This verifies the writer and his handwriting. An exceptionally rare cover from this little known Mission." (David Morrison).

The card was addressed to Willowmore but redirected on arrival to Malmesbury where it received an arrival cancel of FE 22 10. A boxed 'STOPPAGE FEE' cachet with a '1/2d' handstamp alongside denotes the fee paid. The Post Office Act of 1882 stated that "Any letter, post card, packet or newspaper arrested or intercepted through the post, at the request of the sender or the addressee thereof shall be liable to a charge equal to the ordinary rate of postage from the place of origin

....” This is intended to apply to any case where the sender of a letter may desire its stoppage during transmission for the purpose of amending the address or redirecting to a fresh address. A rarely seen cachet and a fine item from Somaliland to a very uncommon destination.”. (David Morrison).

Picture of the British occupation of Berbera (Collection Vincent Prange).

<https://mikewhiteuk.com/images/3120.jpg>: "1940 (Aug 20) Photographic postcard size reproduction from newspaper of Modagishu "Somalia Fascista" + photographic copy of Poster affixed on all village walls of Somalia announcing the Italian occupation of Berbera".

Philatelic evidence of Italian occupation of British Somaliland is very scarce. Here are some illustrations, all from the collection of Vincent Prange.

A remarkable and very scarce card with a confiscated postmark 'Product of British Somaliland' in violet. The Italian soldier added già (ex-) in red. The card was probably sent by military truck on 19-8-1940, the day of the Italian attack, to Aiscia (border town) and from there to Italy, where it arrived 13-9-1940.

Front- and backside of censured mail sent by an Italian soldier to Italy, 28-11-1940; with 75 c stamp from AOI and 10c stamp from Eritrea. Censore N.9 HA.

Letter to Trieste, sent 27.11.1940. In the postmark: (10)78. Both (letter and card) have been sent in late November 1940, probably as part of Christmas mail.

Left: After the Italian occupation of British Somaliland an Italian soldier defends the area against the threats from British Aden. Postcard (collection Vincent Prange).

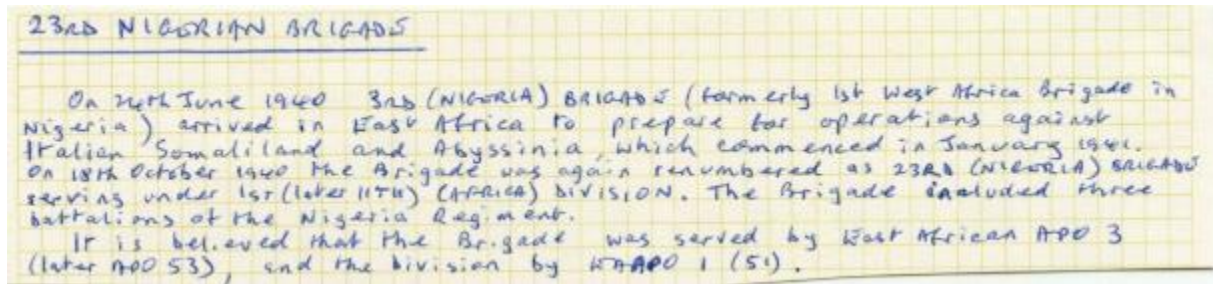

Right: After the British reconquered the occupied territory the Italians promise to come back: "Ritorneremo" (collection Vincent Prange).

These records were in photographic format and comprise then-contemporary photographs of the various artworks, handpainted essays, accepted & unaccepted designs in progress. When dates are shown these are the entry dates into the archive record books. By way of comparison to archival materials of the other stamp printers these photographic records can for Bradbury Wilkinson be likened to the so-called "day book" die proofs affixed to the ledger pages in the De La Rue records. As with the De La Rue day book items these Bradbury Wilkinson pieces are similarly important and typically unique. 7 Independent Somaliland in 1960 and Somaliland as part of Somali Republic, 1960 onwards

On 26 June 1960 British Somaliland became Independent, with the purpose to join, five days later, with former Italian Somaliland to become Independent (Greater) Somalia. The (brief) Independence of Somaliland was celebrated philatelically with the issuing of three stamps, which the British Postal Agencies in Hargeisa had bought from the authorities in Mogadiscio, and which were overprinted with 'Somaliland Independence 26 June 1960'. According to many catalogues the validity of these three stamps was restricted to only five days, but as the example below shows, the stamps have also been used on later letters.

9 A note on sources

For this APH about British Somaliland mostly internet sources have been used. The exception are illustrations from Filitalia, the magazine of a Dutch philatelic club for collectors of Italy and its colonies and areas, as well as illustrations from the collection of Vincent Prange, the chairperson of Filitalia. Partly the internet sources were general websites like Wikipedia and Wikimedia, or philatelic parts of general auction websites, like Ebay or Delcampe. But a lot of illustrations and explanations came from specialised philatelic websites, like kayatana, stampdomain, Klaseboer, specimenstamps, corbitts, burda-auction, burcoonline, imperiumstamps, stampauctionnetwork, or john rice stamps, and other philatelic websites, like:

There are also some books about the philatelic history of the area, like:

“Postal Markings Somaliland Protectorate 1903-1960” by Germain Mentgen, privately published, 1997 (A detailed and comprehensive look at the postal and civil censorship markings, including the Somaliland Field Force (1903-04), Italian Occupation (1940-41), etc.).

“Somaliland Protectorate Administration of the Postal Affairs Through Aden G.P.O”., by M A Cox, in The Dhow, Volume 3, no. 1, March 2002, pp 15 - 19. The administration by the Aden G.P.O. occurred from 1941 to 1942.
