

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Global China's human touch? The internationalisation of Chinese NGOs

Wang, Y.

Citation

Wang, Y. (2024, January 17). Global China's human touch?: The internationalisation of Chinese NGOs. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/3713742>

Version: Publisher's Version

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/3713742>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Global China's Human Touch? The Internationalisation of Chinese NGOs

Ying Wang

Cover Design: Ying Wang (picture from Vecteezy.com)

Print: UFB-Graphic Center, Leiden University

© Ying Wang, 2023

Global China's Human Touch? The Internationalisation of Chinese NGOs

Proefschrift

ter verkrijging van de graad van doctor aan de Universiteit Leiden, op gezag van rector magnificus prof.dr.ir. H. Bijl, volgens besluit van het college voor promoties te verdedigen op woensdag 17 januari 2024
klokke 15.00 uur
door
Ying Wang
geboren te China in 1988

Promotor: Prof. dr. D.E.F. Henley

Copromotor: Dr. R. Gonzalez Vicente (University of Birmingham/Leiden University)

Promotiecommissie: Prof. dr. M. van Crevel

Prof. dr. F.A. Schneider

Prof. dr. Guosheng Deng (Tsinghua University)

Prof. dr. Reza Hasmath (University of Alberta)

Dr. J. Wang

Acknowledgements

These past four years have been a tremendously valuable journey in my life. Firstly, I want to thank my supervisors, Dr. Ruben Gonzalez Vicente and Professor David Henley, without whom I would not even be writing this acknowledgment right now. Ruben has given me timely and constructive feedback consistently over the years. My meetings with him have been one of the most intellectually stimulating and emotionally supporting experiences I have had during these four years. I am very grateful to David, who has kindly accepted to be my promoter, made my admission to the PhD program possible and provided me with rounds of insightful comments. I am also grateful to the community of China Studies at LIAS, Leiden University. Particularly, I want to thank Dr. Florian Schneider, who has supported me to publish my Chinese Internationalisation Database on the website of Leiden Asia Center and provided guidance on discourse analysis, and Dr. Jue Wang, who has provided valuable feedback during the “go/no-go decision” review in the first year of my PhD study. I would also want to thank the administrative team at LIAS who have always been helpful and supportive.

My PhD experience has turned out much different than what I had expected, largely due to the COVID-19 pandemic. I rushed back from the Netherlands to China when the pandemic started in 2020 and my original fieldwork plan going to several developing countries in Asia and Africa had to be cancelled. Instead, I have spent most of my time in China, where I have managed to interview Chinese NGOs and attend conferences. I want to give special thanks to Professor Deng Guosheng, from Tsinghua University, who is kind enough to allow me to participate in the academic discussions with his students at Tsinghua. Such involvement has made up some of the campus experience that I lost in the Netherlands. I also want to thank all the people that have helped me during my fieldwork in China, being either an acquaintance that is willing to make connections for me or a stranger who trusts me and helps me. Without the support of these people, I could not reach out to many different organizations for the study.

Apart from the anxiety caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, I have had to face several challenges in my personal life. I want to thank all the things that have accompanied me through adversity, including the figure skating of Yuzuru Hanyu, whose skating and life story have inspired me tremendously during some of the darkest periods of my life, drumming, practicing which has made me relieved and revitalized, and music, which has become an integrated part of my daily PhD life.

Last but not least, I want to thank my friends for their companionship and my parents for their unconditional love. I feel very fortunate to have a few good friends, with whom I have shared many sweet memories. I am deeply indebted to my parents, Wang Zhiping and Guo Guibao, who have almost no idea of what I am researching yet show unconditional support for my PhD journey. Because of their love and support, I can pursue what I like and live a life without regrets.

Contents

Index of Tables and Figures	7
Glossary	9
Chapter 1 Introduction	11
Chapter 2 Methodology	22
Chapter 3 An Emerging Sector: Mapping the International Development Projects of Chinese NGOs	36
Chapter 4 Embedded Internationalisation: The Autonomy of Chinese NGO Internationalisation	56
Chapter 5 The Reach of the State: Regulatory and Operational Influence	65
Chapter 6 The Shadow of the State: Depoliticisation and Diplomatisation	77
Chapter 7 When Charity Meets Capital: Chinese NGOs and Chinese Overseas Investments	104
Chapter 8 Conclusion	126
Appendix	138
References	194
Summary	213
CV	215

Index of Tables and Figures

Tables:

Table 1: Three-Layer Chinese State's Influence on Chinese NGOs' Internationalisation

Table 2: List of Chinese NGOs under the Multiple-Case Studies

Table 3: List of Interviews

Table 4: List of Events Attended during the Fieldwork

Table 5: List of the 16 NGOs under the Discourse Analysis

Table 6: Research Design by Chapter

Table 7: Distribution of Chinese NGOs by Degree of Engagement in International Development Activities

Table 8: Chinese NGOs and Their Registered Overseas Offices

Table 9: Distribution of Chinese NGOs by Country Coverage

Table 10: Distribution of Chinese NGOs by Issue Areas

Table 11: Distribution of Chinese NGOs by Issue Areas (sub-types)

Table 12: Geographical Distribution of Chinese NGOs International Development Projects/Donations by Countries Ranking in the Top Five

Table 13: Comparative Analysis of International Development NGOs in Four Countries

Table 14: Three-Layer Chinese State's Influence on Chinese NGOs' Internationalisation (the same as Table 1 in Chapter 1)

Table 15: Examples on the State and Non-State Influences at the Project Level

Table 16: Examples of Categorizing Texts into Four Topic Groups

Table 17: Four-Group Analytical Framework of Discourse Analysis and Examples Shown by Chinese NGOs under Each Group

Table 18: Types of Chinese NGO-Company Relationships in terms of NGOs' Roles

Table 19: Future Scenarios of Governmental Influence and Their Implications

Figures:

Figure 1: Distribution of Chinese NGOs Involved in International Development Activities by Registered Types

Figure 2: Distribution of Chinese NGOs Involved in International Development Activities by the Category of GONGO/Independent NGOs

Figure 3: Geographical Distribution of Chinese NGOs International Development Projects/Donations by Region

Figure 4: Annual International Spending by Major Chinese NGOs from 2019 to 2021

Figure 5: Example of Process of Qualitative Content Analysis

Figure 6: Local Education Director in Myanmar Attends the Launching Ceremony of An Educational Development Project

Figure 7: Chinese Officials and Ethiopian Officials Attended the Project Launch Ceremony of Water Sanitation Program in Ethiopia

Figure 8-9: T-shirts Donated to Nepalese Children

Figure 10: A School Bag and Stationary Set Donated to Children Overseas

Figure 11: Staff Distributed Food Packs to Local Recipients

Figure 12: Humanitarian Action in Mozambique

Figure 13-14: Nepalese Children Sending Prayers to China

Figure 15: Four-Level Analytical Framework of Chinese NGO-Company Relationship

Glossary

AIIB: Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank

BRI: Belt and Road Initiative

CBCGDF: China Biodiversity Conservation and Green Development Foundation

CFPA: China Foundation for Poverty Alleviation

CFPD: China Foundation for Peace and Development

CGCOC: CGC Overseas Construction

CIDCA: China International Development Cooperation Agency

CRCF: Chinese Red Cross Foundation

CNIE: China NGO Network for International Exchanges

CNPC: China National Petroleum Corporation

COP 23: 23rd Session of the Conference of the Parties

CSR: Corporate Social Responsibility

DAC: Development Assistance Committee

EIA: Environmental Impact Assessment

GEI: Global Environmental Institute

GHub: Greenovation Hub

GONGO: Government-organized NGOs

INGO: International Non-Governmental Organization

MNC: Multinational Enterprises

NGO: Non-Governmental Organizations

NN5: Nam Ngum 5 Power Company

NPO: Non-Profit Organization

UNDP: United Nations Development Programme

ODA: Official Development Assistance

OECD: Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development

OOF: Other Official Funds

QCA: Qualitative Content Analysis

RDP: Resource Dependence Perspectives

SEICF: Shenzhen Foundation for International Exchange and Cooperation

SPIC: State Power Investment Corporation

SME: Small and Medium-sized Enterprise

SOE: State-Owned Companies

YINGOS: Yunnan International Non-Governmental Organization Society