

Universiteit
Leiden

The Netherlands

Child labour in the cocoa producing area of Gomoa Ofaso, Winneba District, Ghana, 1874-1940

Adjoh-Davoh, V.D.

Citation

Adjoh-Davoh, V. D. (2024, July 2). Child labour in the cocoa producing area of Gomoa Ofaso, Winneba District, Ghana, 1874-1940. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/3765928>

Version: Publisher's Version

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/3765928>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

CURRICULUM VITAE

Valerie Delali Adjoh-Davoh attended Accra Girls' Senior High School, 2000 to 2002. She attended University of Ghana, Legon for her Bachelor of Arts Degree in History and Political Science, 2003 to 2007. She obtained a Master of Arts Degree in African Studies, University of Ghana in 2010. After graduating, she worked with the Departments of History of University of Ghana and University of Cape Coast in August 2007- July 2008 and August 2011- December 2014, and August 2015- December 2020 respectively. She worked with the Historical Society of Ghana (August 2008- December 2009). She was the Headmistress for Seven Great Princes Academy, Laterbiokorshie branch (2014). In 2016, she received the Samuel and Emelia Brew-Buttler Research fund and, in 2017, the WARA Residency Fellowship to the Harvard University Center for African Studies. She has presented papers at conferences in Spain, Mauritius, Zimbabwe and Ibadan. She is an Examiner for Government paper2 for the West African Examination Council, Ghana (October 2021 to date). She reviews History in Africa which is published by Cambridge University Press (October 2023 to date) and a Part-Time Instructor for ICERMediation, (December 2023 to date). Her publications include; "Patriarchy and Cultural Values in Nineteenth and Twentieth Century Ghana", Washington, DC: Lexington Books, (2021, 109- 122) and; "Pawn children", Mauritius: Actualite`s Avril 19, (2018, 46).