

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

A pursuit of ontological truth in Aristotle's philosophy

Jin, D.

Citation

Jin, D. (2025, January 15). A pursuit of ontological truth in Aristotle's philosophy. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/4176263>

Version: Publisher's Version

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/4176263>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Acknowledgements

At the end of this thesis, I would like to thank all who provided support and help during my academic and daily life in Leiden. Without your help and companionship, I cannot imagine what my life would have been during my PhD journey.

Firstly, my sincere gratitude goes to the China Scholarship Council for financially supporting me to write my dissertation in Leiden.

Then, I would like to thank my supervisor Prof. Frans de Haas, who has not only lead me to appreciate various wonderful spectacles in the history of philosophy, but also show us how to perform a perfect combination of realism and idealism. Thanks also goes to my second supervisor Dr. Van den Berg, who is so kind and considerate, and gave me many valuable suggestions. I also wish to express my appreciation for the Leiden Institute for Philosophy as a big team, especially Douglas Berger, who helped me with my English and shared some essential keys for a successful dissertation with me, and Karineke Sombroek for her efficient administrative work.

Many seminars I attended have been extremely valuable. I learned a lot from my colleagues in Leiden. ShengHao Yue, Maria Zisimopoulou, Hao Liu: the days we took part in the Kepos meetings are an absolutely wonderful and warm memory in my life. Thanks to my friend Carlos, who invited me to experience several new places with impressive shows, and shared wonderful music and artistic works with me. These new experiences have enriched my academic life and daily life in Leiden.

I would like to express my gratitude to all my friends who have helped me and spent their time with me. I will never forget those sweet and precious days we spent together. Thanks to my best friend Jing Yu, who wrote a song for me to express her strong emotion for me. I am so lucky to meet a lot of nice and good people in Leiden, Wei Wang, Di Wang and Xiaoyue Song. We spent pleasureable days together, thanks for your company and care.

In closing, although a ‘thank you’ is far from enough, I wish to express my gratitude to Yinping Jin and Suzhen Li, my parents, also my best friends in my whole life, who always respect my choices and positively encourage me to do whatever I like as well as show me how to appreciate and cherish all pleasures and pains of life itself. The most important thing is that you love me unconditionally and absolutely, and this love will last forever.

Curriculum vitae

Da Jin was born in Xi'an, China, on August 5th 1991. She finished her secondary education at Xi'an 89th high school in 2010. After completing her bachelor studies at Inner Mongolia University from 2010 to 2014, she continued her study in Beijing Normal University as a master student, majoring in Philosophy of Science and Technology. During her master study, she was supervised by Prof. Liu Xiaoting for the topic of her thesis "An investigation of the view of Science and Religion in Holmes Rolston II". She obtained her MA degree in 2017. In the same year, she started her PhD study at Leiden University, supervised by Prof. Frans de Haas. And in 2018, she received a scholarship from the China Scholarship Council which enabled her to continue her PhD studies at Leiden University.