Acknowledgments

This researcher owes gratitude to a great number of individuals and institutions.

First, I would like to mention my sponsored institutions. The Universidad Católica del Norte, Chile, provided a generous scholarship as well as support for assisting the World Congress of Constitutional Law in Johannesburg in 2022. The Agencia Nacional de Investigación y Desarrollo, Chile, for granting me a scholarship as part of the Becas Chile program. Both institutions provided generous grants that made the research project possible and were very supportive throughout the entire process, which finally allowed for a pleasant stay in the great city of Leiden. I am also thankful to Università di Genova provided a grant for a research stay in Italy in February and March 2022, and to Leiden University, which provided support for assisting seminars and conferences.

Second, I would like to acknowledge my colleagues at the Constitutional and Administrative Law Department, Institute of Public Law, Leiden University. Many meetings, interviews, and seminars greatly shaped my (still modest) understanding of Dutch public law and informal conversations and interactions that provided a vibrant and warm working environment. My special thanks to Anne, Titia, Hans-Martien, Ymre, Tarlach, Luisa, Jonathan, Olaf, Annemarie, Reijer, Joyce, Jelle, Lotte, Roel, Demy, Femke, and Louis. Special thanks also to the entire support staff, particularly to Sonja, Marian, Licette and Petra.

Third, given the comparative nature of this inquiry, and the number of years dedicated to it, I would like to mention some crucial events and colleagues that greatly influenced my work. In Chile, I will extend gratitude to the participants of the Jornadas de Derecho Administrativo (2021) in terms of events, to the Centro de Estudios del Desarrollo (CED) and the Fundación Chile Descentralizado, regarding institutions, and to Henrich, Egon, especially. In the Netherlands, my colleagues at the Constitutional and Administrative Law Department, Leiden University. In Italy, I want to thank the participants at the conference on comparative constitutional law in Calabria in 2021, as well as the many exchanges with dear colleagues Eleonora, Simone, Francesco, and Giuseppe, among others. Also, I would like to thank the Salzburg Global Seminar, and dear Mary Helen, for inviting me twice to discuss my ideas, to the Institute of Comparative Federalism in Bolzano and the Sant'Anna Legal Studies (Pisa), in Italy, and the Institute of Juridical Sciences of the Polish Academy in Warsaw, Anka particularly, for inviting me to discuss parts of my research. Special thanks to the interviewees who shared their time and insights into my thesis. I also extend my sincere thanks to the distinguished members of my dissertation committee, for their insightful feedback.

Fourth, special appreciation is granted to my co-supervisor Geerten Boogaard who made time among challenging circumstances to discuss my research and ideas, as well as to care about my personal life, and particularly to Professor Wim Voermans, who has been an impressive intellectual, acute reader of my works, and inspirational figure, and also a warm and supportive supervisor.

Fifth, in personal terms, my mother 'Michu' and her husband Carles were very supportive, particularly visiting and taking care of little Florencia, as well as receiving us in their home in Cataluña. They have been my closest family throughout this period in Europe, particularly supportive in the lonely and difficult years of 2020 and 2021, with understanding and patience, but also in the years of 2022 and 2023. My father Pablo always provided warm words, support, advice, and impulse to pursue this PhD. Together with his wife Cecilia, and my brother Rafael they visited in a memorable summer of 2023. My brother Ignacio was always receptive and supportive, as well as my family on both sides, the Polski side (how to forget our lovely video calls during 2020 and 2021!) and the Ramirez one. Also, my greatest appreciation to my friends in the Netherlands, Eduardo and family, Josefina and family, Aart, among others, and in Chile, dearest Nelson, Claudio, Roberto, Luchita, and Francisca.

This challenging period in the Netherlands, this research, and the entire life project of these years, with all the complexities but also all the good times and memories, which I will always cherish above all else, owe significantly to the support of Magdalena, to whom I will always be grateful. Finally, my daughter Florencia has been the principal motivation, inspiration, and impulse from beginning to end. She was raised in the Netherlands, in Leiden more concretely, and I will always be grateful for her patience, tenderness, smiles, and love. I hope she will preserve the nicest memories of this experience, the little trips, and the best features of the city of Leiden for us: the almost daily visits to playgrounds and/or parks, the great museums, learning how to bike in a super safe environment, the nature and peace in Leiden and surroundings, the Saturday market, and especially the many warm and nice people who opened their hearts to this family. I hope she will remember all of this, and more, despite her flawed and very imperfect father.
