Curriculum vitae

Daniele Paolini was born in Acqui Terme, Italy, in 1996. He obtained his bachelor's degree in Languages and Cultures of Asia and Africa at the University of Torino, Italy, in 2018. Subsequently, he completed a master's degree in Languages, Politics, and Economics of Asia and North Africa at University of Venice "Ca' Foscari", Italy, in 2020, with a final thesis on the history of the Moroccan left. During his studies, he was Erasmus student at the University of Lyon 2, France, and the University of Leiden, the Netherlands. Additionally, he furthered his study of the Arabic language at Qalam Wa Lawh (Rabat, Morocco) and Ahlan Jordan (Amman, Jordan). In 2021, he started his PhD in African History at the University of Perugia (Italy) pursued in co-tutelle with the University of Leiden. His doctoral research focused on the history of Moroccan trade unions in the two decades that followed the country's independence from France in 1956. During his PhD, Daniele Paolini attended curricular seminars on research methodologies in history and social sciences and completed courses on academic and scientific integrity. He presented his research at several conferences, including the European Conference of African Studies (ECAS). In 2023, he was the recipient of a mobility grant awarded by the Centre Jacques Berque (Rabat) to young scholars specialising in Maghreb studies. He was also Erasmus student at the department of Political Science of the University of Casablanca "Hassan II" (Morocco). Since 2022, he is part of the editorial committee of Maydan, the first Italian journal of studies on Arab and Islamic worlds run by PhD students to encourage the publication of academic articles by young researchers. In 2023, he also served as deputy director of the journal.
