Curriculum Vitae

Eva Grosfeld (Oosterhout, the Netherlands, 1995) has an academic background spanning multiple disciplines. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Language and Culture Studies (2016) and a Bachelor of Science degree in Psychology (2018) from Utrecht University. She then pursued a Research Master's degree in Social and Health Psychology at Utrecht University, graduating cum laude and as the top student of her cohort (2020).

During most of her studies, Eva worked as a research assistant at the department of Social, Health, and Organizational Psychology. She also completed the Leadership Honours Programme and was chair of the student section of Utrecht University's Honours Council.

In 2020, she began her PhD research, which is characterized by its interdisciplinarity, at the Europa Institute at Leiden Law School of Leiden University, while remaining affiliated with Utrecht University as a guest researcher in the Organisational Behaviour research group. She also conducted a research visit to the Political Science department of Stockholm University from April to June 2022. Together with two fellow PhD students, Eva received a seed money grant from the Kurt Lewin Institute to study the relation between perceived judicial activism and trust in the judiciary.

Eva is dedicated to evidence-based policy and law. She currently works as an advisor at the Dutch Tax Administration, where she focuses on ensuring that policy is informed by research and grounded in scientific and behavioural insights.
