ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my supervisors. Prof. Maarten Kossmann has been a constant source of intellectual inspiration from the very beginning. His unwavering trust and patience have been the most crucial factors in the completion of this research. Prof. Gijsbert Rutten introduced me—and this dissertation—into the field of language policy and planning. I will especially remember the vital support he provided during the most difficult early phases of writing. Prof. Karène Sanchez-Summerer, my initial co-supervisor, taught me what it means to be a scholar. Her academic dedication and achievements have become a role model for my own scholarly pursuit.

I would also like to thank Muhammed and Saida, along with their family, who became like my Moroccan parents. They gave me a sweet home and precious memories in Tetouan, and they were the very first to inspire me to pursue Amazigh studies—without which this research would never have come into existence. My thanks also go to Fatima, my Tamazight teacher at the Crossroads Cultural Exchange Center in Fes, who equipped me with the indispensable language tools to carry out this research.

Lastly, I would like to thank my family. My parents, Mr. Bao Dongwei and Ms. Li Mei, supported every stage of my academic journey. Out of pure love for their son, they have long indulged and encouraged my unceasing curiosity about languages and the world. And to my wife, Yu Siyuan, who became my partner in life during the very course of this thesis journey—words can hardly express my gratitude. Her sacrifices and unwavering confidence in me, especially in moments when I doubted my own choices, gave me the strength to see this journey through to the end.
