

Universiteit
Leiden
The Netherlands

Thus we have heard: imperial Buddhist prefaces and ideology in Tang China

Bai, Y.

Citation

Bai, Y. (2026, April 9). Thus we have heard: imperial Buddhist prefaces and ideology in Tang China. Retrieved from <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/4301016>

Version: Publisher's Version

License: Licence agreement concerning inclusion of doctoral thesis in the Institutional Repository of the University of Leiden

Downloaded from: <https://hdl.handle.net/1887/4301016>

Note: To cite this publication please use the final published version (if applicable).

Curriculum Vitae

Yu Bai was born in Foshan, Guangdong Province, in the People's Republic of China. He attended primary school (2001–2006), middle school (2006–2009), and high school (2009–2012) in Foshan. From 2012 to 2016, he studied English Literature at Beijing Normal-Hong Kong Baptist University in Zhuhai. He then began studying Transcultural Studies at Heidelberg University in Germany, graduating with distinction (sehr gut) in 2018. During his MA studies, he spent one semester at the University of Hamburg, studying Tibetan language and literature. Since 2018, he has worked as a doctoral researcher on the ERC-funded “Open Philology” project at Leiden University, while also assisting with lectures on Buddhism and teaching an undergraduate seminar on Buddhism and the state in China. From 2022 to 2023, he spent six months as a visiting fellow in the Department of Religious Studies at Yale University in New Haven, USA. He has published two peer-reviewed articles during his doctoral research: one in Monumenta Serica and one in Dunhuang Research.